OPA AMATEURS DENOUNCED FOR BLACK MARKETS

Wheeler Likens It to Bootleg Era

BY WILLIAM MOORE
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., April 11—Charging that the black market in meat is as big a racket as bootlegging was in the prohibition era, Sen. Wheeler [D., Mont.] warned the office of price administration to get rid of its "amateurs" and smash it.

Wheeler delivered his warning to Thomas I. Emerson, OPA enforcement chief, at a hearing by the senate agriculture committee into the nation's food famine.

Emerson, 38 years old, is a veteran as New Deal alphabetical agency legal executives go. He has been a lawyer for the national recovery administration, the national labor relations board, the social security board, the department of justice, and OPA, which he is about to leave for the office of economic stabilization.

Never Tried a Case

Emerson testified he had engaged in private law practice for two years after leaving college, but he has yet to try a case before a jury.

"You may not know it," Wheeler told Emerson, "but 95 per cent of the people do—that there is a black market going on in every city of the country right under OPA's nose. It's just as big a racket as bootlegging was in prohibition times. If you can't stop it, it ought to be turned over to the federal bureau of investigation and not a lot of amateurs like you have. . . . If they don't get some one else in charge of enforcement, OPA had better give up."

Emerson challenged Wheeler when Wheeler said there is "incompetence" in OPA's enforcement division, and Wheeler retorted:

Can't Use a Boy

"You're the best evidence I've seen. You can't take some boy out of college and put him in charge. You can't learn it in college and you can't learn it in the bureaus of Washington."

Emerson told the committee yesterday that many of the stories of the black market, blamed for a considerable part of the Roosevelt administration's meat famine, are "fantastic" and "gossip."

But Chairman Thomas [D., Okla.] called the District of Columbia's weights and measures chief, G. Thomas Kennedy, for a picture of the black market in Washington, a picture that some senators said is representative of much of the country.

Retailers Kick Back

Kennedy testified that retailers who buy meat must pay the OPA ceiling price "plus a little kick-back or a case of whiskey or a box of cigars." And some of the meat being sold here, Kennedy said, "is fit for human consumption and that's about all you can say for it."

"The citizens of Washington," he told the committee gravely, "are not in sympathy with OPA. They've got the money and will pay whatever they're asked."

"If my family wants meat and can't get it," commented Sen. Bushfield [R., S. D.], "I'm going to get it wherever I can."

"In violation of OPA?" demanded Emerson.

Act to Increase Pork

On another food front, the government today moved to get more pork next year. War Food Administrator Marvin Jones asked farmers to increase fall production of pigs 28 per cent to 37,000,000 head. He raised the price the government supports for hogs from $12.50 to $13 a hundred pounds.

A department of agriculture forecast said there is plenty of corn in reserve to fatten the fall crop of pigs—which won't be ready to eat until next spring.

Reds' Tactics for Boring Into a Union Bared

Harry Morgan

How Communists, boring into CIO unions, worked hand in hand with members of Sidney Hillman's Political Action committee to lure war workers into the Communist party, was related from the witness stand yesterday in Judge Donald S. McKinlay's Superior court.

The witness, Harry Morgan, 36, of 4221 Jackson blvd., former chief shop steward in the war plant of the Chicago Flexible Shaft company, 5600 Roosevelt rd., testified that Theodore Baer, an organizer for the United Electrical, Radio, and Machine Workers union [CIO], urged him to join the Communist party.

Morgan said Baer admitted he was a Communist party organizer as well as a union organizer and identified as Communists Ernest De Maio, regional head of the union; Irving Krane, business manager of local 1150, of which Morgan was a member, and several other members of the local.

Propaganda Stirs Suspicion

Morgan first became suspicious, he said, when political items urging the election of Raymond S. McKeough and Benjamin Adamowski began to find their way into a union news bulletin in 1942. McKeough was Democratic nominee for senator, and Adamowski was on the same ticket for congressman-at-large.

Morgan was on the stand in connection with his petition to enjoin local 1150 from getting him fired under a maintenance of membership contract with the Flexible Shaft company. The company refused to discharge Morgan, a turret lathe operator.

The local's executive board expelled Morgan for what were described as "anti-union" activities. Morgan charged that the board is dominated by Communists and that his expulsion actually resulted from his objections to Communist-PAC activities among union members.

"He's the Main Communist"

At the time the McKeough-Adamowski items began to appear in the union publication, Morgan said, he was organizing the shaft shop. In response to questions from his attorney, William Grace, he said he refused to distribute the publications containing political items, because he opposed politics in the union.

Q.—What did you do? A.—I protested to Baer. He said it was De Maio's work; promised it wouldn't happen again.

Q.—Had he told you anything else about De Maio's attitude? A.—Yes, when I discovered that some of the people in the local were Communists, I said to Baer, "I wonder what De Maio will think about this?" and he said, "He's the main Communist."

Q.—Did Baer ask you to join the Communist party? A.—Yes. He came to pick me up at my home one day. He told me about De Maio, Krane, and several others belonging to the

LIBERTY'S CHILDREN

Pickets Shut Big Gas Plant in Rent Fight

Lake Charles, La., April 11 [Special]—Women with babies in their arms today picketed the gigantic Cities Service high octane gasoline plant here, effectively shutting down production for the army and navy air forces.

The picketing, which kept 1,500 workers from their jobs, was an outgrowth of a controversy over rents in a privately owned housing project in which about 500 of the plant workers are living.

The picketing was considered one of the strangest on record inasmuch as the pickets were not employes of the company and had no grievance against it. The pickets, in most cases, were wives and relatives of workers whose complaint was solely against the privately owned housing project.

Called Labor Dispute

Clifford Potter, a disputes adjuster for the national war labor board, said that as a step preliminary to settlement negotiations the NWLB had officially declared the rent controversy to be a labor dispute. Orville Inee, business agent for the Lake Charles local of the AFL metal trades union, to which the plant workers belong, said the union has no dispute with City Service corporation, but that its members are staying off the job rather than go thru a picket line.

The work stoppage began at the plant yesterday when a group of men, said to be tenants of the housing project, set up a picket line. Women replaced men on this line today.

Company officials said production of high octane gasoline is at a standstill. The plant is a $75,000,000 refinery, one of the largest in the world, and two months ago set a world record for operating catalytic cracking units.

Denies Rent Boost

Robert N. Mitchell, manager of the 790 unit housing project, said the controversy concerns a "rent restoration" rather than a rent increase.

He said that about a year ago the OPA ordered a temporary reduction of rentals, which range downward from $66, pending completion of construction. At that time, he said, unfinished construction included paving, sidewalks, and landscaping.

With the project now completed, the OPA has authorized a return to the original rentals, Mitchell said.

"We're standing pat," he announced. "The property we are renting is worth the amount authorized. Our only connection with Cities Service is the fact that many of our tenants work for the plant."

JAPANESE RELIEF SHIP MAY HAVE BEEN SUNK BY ALLIED SUB

Washington, D. C., April 11 (AP)—The state department tonight announced that an allied submarine sank what may have been the Japanese relief ship Awa Maru, traveling under allied safe conduct. The announcement said the navy department had reported that a ship about 40 miles from the estimated position of the Japanese vessel was sunk about midnight April 1 by submarine action.

A survivor said that it was the Awa Maru. The announcement said that no lights or special illumination were visible at any time.

The Awa Maru was returning to Japan after having delivered relief supplies for allied internees and prisoners in Formosa, Hong Kong, Saigon, Singapore, and Dutch East Indies ports. The United States is sending a communication to Japan about the matter thru Swiss authorities. The main concern is whether the incident might be seized upon as a bar to further deliveries.

B-29s HIT TOKYO, INDUSTRIAL CITY 110 MILES NORTH

GUAM, April 12 [Thursday]—(AP)—Two "large forces" of Super Fortresses today raided the Nakajima Musashino aircraft engine plant in Tokyo and the industrial and transportation center of Koriyama, 110 miles north of the Nipponese capital.

The Tokyo raiding force was escorted by Iwo based Mustang fighter planes, flying their second war mission over Japan. Super Forts striking Koriyama flew a round trip of 3,800 miles—longest bombing flight ever made by 21st bomber command planes.

Tokyo said the Shizuoka district, south of Tokyo, also was a target of "approximately 150" B-29s, which raided the mainland from 10 a. m. until noon [8 p. m. to 10 p. m. Wednesday, Chicago war time].

Nazi Mother Leads Soldier Son to Yanks

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

WITH THE U. S. 4TH DIVISION IN GERMANY, April 11—Down the dusty street in the Bavarian sunset came an old woman and a young German soldier. They paused at the command post of the 2d battalion of the 8th regiment.

Three officers—Maj. Robert Crisson, Birmingham, Ala.; Capt. Max Barrick, Rome City, Ind., and Lt. Karl Klemstrud, Devil's Lake, N. D.—appeared in response to a sentry's call and then summoned an interpreter.

Hands Him Over

"Who is this lady?" Klemstrud asked the young German thru the interpreter.

"She is my mother," was the reply.

"What does she want?" the lieutenant continued. The German, nudged by his mother, said, "She wants you to know I am to be a prisoner of war."

Took Him from Unit

The Americans grinned and said that was acceptable.

"Good," sighed the woman. "I went out in the woods where his unit was and brought him here to you. Now he will not die. I did not want him to die; he is my only one."

She turned and embraced her son. "Now I can sleep tonight," she said as she turned and walked up the dusty street.

Oysters Go for a Whirl; Find It's a Shell Game

Philadelphia, Pa., April 11 (AP)—It's no great shucks to open oysters without pain to the bivalve. The Oyster Growers' association was told today about a new machine which involves making the oyster unconscious by rotating it in a revolving drum and then giving it a drink of carbonated water which causes shell muscles to relax and open clear of debris.

JAPANESE FIGHT HARDER AS WAR PUSHES CLOSER

Fierce Battles Face U. S. Troops

BY HAROLD SMITH
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

WITH THE U. S. 7TH INFANTRY DIVISION ON OKINAWA, April 11—The scope and character of Japanese resistance on Okinawa Island is making it clearer than ever that all that has gone before in the American westward push has been mere preparation for bloody close-in contests.

There is a growing feeling hereabouts that nothing short of national Japanese capitulation can prevent the campaign in the Ryukyus from becoming the most sanguinary in the Pacific thus far, and even the most optimistic observers do not dare hope for the enemy's surrender at this stage.

Our continuing disproportionate successes in the air and on the sea near Japan should not be taken as evidence that the over-all Pacific war has reached its crest and that the going will be downhill from now on. In fact, the case is exactly the opposite.

Jap Resistance Grows

As our military and naval leaders have predicted all along, the closer we get to the Japanese main islands the more fierce and effective becomes the fanatical resistance of the enemy infantryman. This was indicated today when the Japanese stopped American infantrymen for the seventh straight day. [Story on page 6.]

American casualties in the battle of Okinawa proper in the last few days have mounted to a scale comparable with those of Saipan, Peleliu, and the other Pacific hot spots. There is every indication the trend will be upward for a considerable time before the defenders' main defenses are pierced.

This is the real start of the battle for the enemy's homeland. Okinawa is part of an island chain that sweeps northward less than 350 miles to merge with the main islands themselves. As in the four main islands of central Japan, the habita-

NAZIS BUILD UP FOOD HOARD AT 'LAST FORTRESS'

BY P. E. BRIQUET
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

CHIASSO, Switzerland, April 11—The German government has taken every step possible to increase the agricultural capacity of the eastern Alps—Austria and southern Bavaria—where Hitler and his gang are expected to make their last stand against the allies, German press reports say.

Since the Stalingrad debacle the Germans have been preparing their inner fortress along the lines of Swiss mountain fortifications. For a year and a half the Nazi Todt organization has been secretly building this redoubt in the Alps. Bombproof shelters have been prepared for troops, the road and rail system developed and improved. The work was hardly disturbed by allied bombers until recently, tho main traffic lines such as Brenner pass and Innsbruck were raided.

Blasted Out of Rock

The Nazi inner fortress includes the Algaeuer Alps and the provinces of Vorarlberg, Tyrol, Salzburg, Hohe Tauern, and Carinthia. Bombproof storehouses have been blasted out of rock and are protected even against artillery fire. War plants have been built in the same pattern and are reported to be able to supply the Nazi die-hards for a long while.

The Voelkischer Beobachter asserted that the pasture land to feed the inner fortress defenders covers 7,000,000 acres or one-third of the tillable land in that area. Some 800,000 head of cattle, capable of producing 70 million quarts of milk and 24 to 28 million pounds of meat, are grazing on the pastures, which can provide fodder for 35 million days.

The reich ministry of public economy pamphlet, "Mountain Economy," says the government will pay 50 per cent of the expense of weeding, fertilizing, and increasing acreage.

Build 3,000 Cattle Barns

Nearly 3,000 barns for 50,000 cows and 10,000 calves have been erected. The government also built 1,900 cabins for shepherds, 1,890 irrigation installations, and 1,300 miles of new country roads. Sheep production has grown from 5,000,000 head in 1939 to 9,000,000 in June, 1943.

Butter and cheese production has been greatly increased. Enough cheese to last the defenders five months was reported in storage.

Ski Jump Field a Nightmare to Flyers

BY CLAY GOWRAN
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

WITH THE U. S. 5TH ARMY, Italy, April 11—Horseflies and Grasshoppers have a ski jump near this army headquarters.

Horseflies and Grasshoppers are artillery observation planes which, ever since Salerno, have been putt-putting over the Italian lines, taking off and landing on roads, hillsides, and what have you? Ski jump is the name given their latest field guaranteed to fill any pilot used to a level airport with horror.

The runway is 245 yards long and 30 feet wide and lies up and down the slope of a mountain at a 20 degree angle from horizontal. The high end is 97 feet above the lower. From the bottom, which has been built up 30 feet above actual ground level, the slope drops away sharply 2,000 feet to valley floor.

Chicagoland Pilots

Five artillery liaison pilots constitute the flight personnel. They include Maj. Jack Marinelli of Ottumwa, Ia., and Lieutenants Walter Holle of Decatur, Ind., and Lloyd Fink of Lake Benton, Minn. The field has been in service six weeks.

"There have been three crackups in the last three weeks and it's easy to see why," Fink said. "No matter which way the wind is blowing we must take off downhill and land uphill. Take today, for example. We are taking off with a quartering down wind blowing right down into the valley from the high mountains. This means that as soon as a pilot jumps his plane off the ski jump and heads out over the valley he gets hit by a strong down draft. Landing is even worse in such a wind. If you are not careful the down draft will heave your plane right into the slope.

No Second Chance

"The worst thing about the field is that no matter which way the wind is blowing, in landing you must hit the runway just right. There's no chance to go around again and make a new try—you've got a mountain wall directly in front of you as you come in and if you overshoot there's no possible chance of gunning the plane and turning in time to avoid crashing into it."

Fink told of the latest crackup. Two Grasshopper pilots from another field wanted to visit a friend in a hospital near the ski jump. They flew over and studied the layout from the air, then returned to their own field and practiced a quick stall landing they thought most suitable. When the air was very calm they came back, circled twice, then came in.

Now they are having a long visit with their friend from hospital beds on either side of him.

RUSH TO BRIDGE ELBE BARRIER AT MAGDEBURG

BULLETIN

PARIS, April 12 (Thursday)—(AP)—Ninth air force pilots were quoted by Stars and Stripes today as reporting United States 3d army armor nearing Halle, 15 miles northwest of Leipzig. Latest official reports, however, placed the 3d army 47 miles from Leipzig.

PARIS, April 12 (Thursday)—(AP)—Armored columns of Lt. Gen. Simpson's United States 9th army swept within 57 miles of Berlin and within 115 miles of the Russian front yesterday. The 9th advanced more than 50 miles, reaching the Elbe river at Magdeburg. A crossing of that last water barrier before Berlin was believed imminent.

The drive was accomplished by the 2d armored (Hell on Wheels) division, which bypassed the manufacturing city of Brunswick and roared on against practically no opposition.

Expect Junction Soon

A front dispatch said the Elbe could be bridged within a few hours unless unexpected resistance developed. This would set the stage for an early junction with the Red army. Correspondents said the linkup might be made within a few days.

Simpson's troops were 57 miles from the southwestern limits of greater Berlin, which includes Potsdam and has a breadth of some 25 miles. The Russians were 32 miles from the capital on the east.

Accompanying the 9th army's advance, six other allied armies pounded forward in the great offensive which seemed to blow the whole western front wide open.

Ruhr Arms Cities Fall

Essen and Bochum, great armament cities in the Ruhr trap, fell to rear units of the 9th army. The Paris radio said Dortmund also had been cleared.

Lt. Gen. Hodges' American 1st army broke loose on a 22 mile rampage that carried within 47 miles of Leipzig and 120 miles of a linkup with the Russians.

Lt. Gen. Patton's 3d army leaped to the attack again after five days of comparative inactivity. Two armored divisions rumbled forward at least 12 and 15 miles, respectively, and then a news black-out was clamped on their progress. The 3d captured Coburg and encircled and fought into Erfurt.

29 Miles to Nuernberg

Lt. Gen. Patch's 7th army lost the town of Crailsheim, but elsewhere stormed to a point only 29 miles northwest of Nuernberg. The French 1st army advanced three miles into the northern edge of the Black Forest and reached a point five miles north of the world famous spa, Baden Baden.

The Canadian 1st and British 2d armies fanned out toward an imminent junction that would close a trap on possibly 200,000 German troops in Holland and northwest Germany. The British were within 45 miles of Hamburg.

In Holland, Canadian troops crossed the Issel river in storm boats after a heavy air and artillery assault in the Deventer area. They were lunging toward Appeldoorn in a drive threatening Arnhem from the rear and aiming at the big ports of Amsterdam and Rotterdam.

Poles Go Into Action

To the east, Polish units of the Canadian 1st army thrust northward thru Westerbork and were approaching Assen, 25 miles from the North sea. Other forces pushed five miles east from Sogel and Welte.

The 7th armored [Desert Rats] division of the British 2d army still was stalled four miles from Bremen's southern outskirts. On their right, other British troops advanced 10 miles, capturing Verden, 45 miles southwest of Hamburg. The 6th air borne's positions remained unchanged just short of Celle, north of Hannover, as the units paused to rest.

It was not known whether the American 9th army's tanks had entered Magdeburg itself, or whether the bridges there were intact, but it appeared likely from correspondents' dispatches that the Americans had reached the river on both sides of the city. The tanks were followed by infantrymen sweeping unchallenged along a front 10 miles wide.

Autobahn North of City

A big commercial and industrial center with a pre-war population of 334,358, Magdeburg has two rail and two highway bridges across the Elbe. Five miles north of the city one of Hitler's autobahns [superhighways] crosses the river, leading to Berlin.

In making its spectacular dash to Magdeburg, the 2d armored division by-passed the big aireraft center of Brunswick and plunged eastward. As occasional pockets of resistance were encountered, the American avalanche simply built up before them and burst around both sides, leaving the Nazi garrison to be cleaned out at leisure. The Brunswick garrison still was fighting bitterly thru the streets against doughboys of the 30th division.

Farther south the 83d infantry division stormed ahead 20 miles and reached Halberstadt, 24 miles southwest of Magdeburg. A huge Messerschmitt airplane factory at Halberstadt was overrun. In addition to the valuable machinery, the Yanks captured 50 ME-109 fighters fresh from the assembly line.

Across Thuringian Plain

Hodges' 1st army drove across the Thuringian plain south of the Harz mountains, crushing the small opposition in its path and outrunning its communications with headquarters.

One armored spearhead of the 1st army speared eastward 22 miles up to early afternoon and was reported outside Koelleda, 47 miles from Leipzig, which is connected with Berlin by superhighway. Another of Hodges' armored columns pushed seven miles northeast of Clingen to Bilzingsleven against scattered opposition.

Patton's 3d army lashed out again after several days spent in consolidating its positions and quickly fought into and encircled the city of Erfurt, between Gotha and Weimar some 130 miles southwest of Berlin. Twenty-three Nazi tanks and 18 planes were destroyed in capturing the Erfurt airport in the northern part of the city. Coburg, 50 miles south of Erfurt, surrendered to the 11th armored division.

Dash Beyond Two Cities

Doughboys of the 80th infantry division slammed into Erfurt. The 4th armored division ranged ahead 12 miles and the 6th armored advanced 15. At latest report both outfits still were moving fast.

Driving on beyond Erfurt, other units of the 80th infantry reached the vicinity of Eichelborn, six miles southwest of Weimar. At this point of its farthest official eastward advance, the 3d army was 88 miles from the Elbe and 161 miles from Russian lines.

The 90th infantry division, advancing six miles, cleared several towns midway between Erfurt and Coburg, including Grossbreitenbach. The 89th infantry pushed east eight miles, clearing several towns, including Arnstadt, nine miles south of Erfurt.

48 Miles to Czechoslovakia

Capture of Coburg placed the 3d army only 48 miles from the old border of Czechoslovakia. The German garrison at first refused even to consider a demand for its surrender, but quickly changed its mind when a flight of American fighter-bombers roared close overhead. White flags popped out from hundreds of buildings.

[Coburg was the birthplace of Prince Albert, consort of Queen Victoria, great-grandmother of King George VI. of Great Britain. Victoria frequently visited Coburg and erected a monument to Prince Albert in a suburb where he was born.]

Patch's 7th army troops on the southern end of the front were battling in bomb ravaged Schweinfurt.

The American 10th armored division was forced to pull out of Crailsheim on the southern flank of the 7th army front under pressure of a German counter-attack by SS troops. The Americans brought with them 2,000 German prisoners taken since last Friday when elements of the 10th rolled into the town which is 95 miles from Munich. The extent of the retreat was cloaked in security silence.

Forty miles farther west the 100th infantry division cleared half of Heilbronn, where fierce fighting has raged for days.

The 12th armored division stormed into Marktbibart, 29 miles northwest of Neurnberg, while armor of the 106th cavalry rolled ahead less than four miles from Coburg.

Largest Industrial City

In the ever-tightening Ruhr pocket the Germans were surrendering in great numbers. The 8th armored division alone has taken more than 11,000 prisoners out of the trap, including entire units which gave up without a struggle. One prisoner reported increasing sabotage behind the German lines.

Essen, largest of the Ruhr's industrial cities with a pre-war population of 659,871, was captured by parachute troops of the American 17th air borne division, who on Tuesday crossed a pontoon bridge over the Rhine-Herne canal and entered the shattered metropolis under command of Col. Edson D. Raff of New York City.

The Ruhr town of Herne, just north of Bochum, fell to the 35th infantry division.

Resistance in Dortmund [population 537,000] began breaking during the afternoon after four days of street fighting. Attacking toward the southwest, the 8th armored division smashed two to four miles into the Ruhr pocket, reaching the Ruhr river at Frondenberg and the Moehne river at Neheim.

Along the southern end of the trap doughboys of the 8th trapped an entire regiment of 1,500 at Valert, 20 miles northwest of Siegen.

GERMANS SPIT ON NAZI BOSS HELD BY YANKS

HANN MUENDEN, Germany, April 11 (AP)—The people of a little Brunswick province village near here gathered in the main street today to curse and spit upon the local Nazi leader who had been captured by American troops when he tried to escape in disguise.

Maj. William Bartlett of El Paso, Tex., said the people told him they hated the local boss, known as a "kreisleiter" [district leader] because he had denounced to the Gestapo many of their relatives and friends, who were put to death or brutally treated. A week before the United States 1st army overran the town, they said, this 6 foot 2 inch autocrat turned over to the Gestapo 30 persons, who were executed.

The kreisleiter professed amazement that his own neighbors should turn on him, insisting, "I have no enemies."

WELCOME SIGNS GREET YANKS AS NAZIS DISAPPEAR

BY HENRY WALES
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

GELSENKIRCHEN, Germany, April 11—This crazy, monstrous war continues.

The inhabitants of bomb shattered Essen are cheering and waving "truce" tablecloths from windows and doorways. They are welcoming the Americans of the 17th air borne and 79th divisions.

The people of Gelsenkirchen are scrawling "Welkom Americanische" in huge chalk letters over walls alongside Hitler slogans.

All along the Rhine-Lippe canal where American columns are slashing the Rhur into separate segments, German civilians voluntarily are building bridges for the army transport to use. In every industrial town cleared of Nazis the people are cleaning up the rubble choked streets to permit the free passage of the military transport.

Germans Melt Away

German troops melt away wherever the Yanks advance, taking advantage of gunfire and scattered positions to escape the menacing pistols of rabid Nazi officers.

Once free they either surrender and march docilely and unescorted to prisoners' cages or doff their uniforms and don civilian clothing, which they can find in any bomb wrecked house. Then they grab spades and start planting vegetables in the kitchen gardens adjacent to every residence.

Thousands of Germans are emerging from underground shelters after weeks of hiding from bombs and then shells, to line up before the burgomeister's office for the ration of potatoes and salt. That is the only food available.

Children Make Mud Pies

But the people of these areas are not as sorrowful, downcast, or discouraged as expected. They underwent terrific bombing for such a long time that they are accustomed to living under the detonation of high explosives. Then, too, they existed on a Spartan diet for five years.

Children make mud pies in shell craters. The girls dress and undress rag dolls, oblivious of the artillery and mortar fire. Mothers, busy in their kitchens, watch the children thru open doors and windows to warn them of the army traffic rumbling thru the streets. They ignore the menace of firearms entirely.

Refugees and forced laborers are enjoying a warm day. Stripped naked they are washing in brooks, delousing their clothing, and cooking food in tin cans over fires in the fields or at the roadside.

RAINBOW YANKS PRESS CLEANUP OF SCHWEINFURT

Advance on Nazis Thru Heaps of Ruins

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

WITH THE 42D INFANTRY DIVISION, SCHWEINFURT, Germany, April 11—More than half of the bleak, grisly tumble that is Schweinfurt was held today by the Rainbow [42d] division after a series of swift forays from the west. Infantry men were advancing thru machine gun and rifle sniper fire to clear the enemy from the remainder.

Schweinfurt, once the hub of the reich's production of ball bearings, is another of those epics in destruction.

Ten times, from August, 1943, to October, 1944, the United States and British air forces smashed at Schweinfurt. Yesterday Marauder medium bombers and Thunderbolt dive bombers of the 12th tactical air command delivered the final blow in between shelling on the city from hundreds of big guns.

Crazy Heaps of Remnants

Today we saw the results. Schweinfurt is flattened for much of its extent. Elsewhere are crazy heaps formed of the remnants of buildings. The frameworks of a few stout steel and stone structures are still recognizable in the industrial section, but there is nothing of substance clinging to the gaunt girders.

The above ground portions of the four big ball bearing factories were almost completely eradicated. From at least two of these plants much of the tooling machinery had been moved below ground.

The enemy garrison had refused to surrender in response to propaganda leaflets, so at 3 a. m. today companies A and C of the 1st battalion of the Rainbow division's 242d regiment struck out from Geldesheim, about 3,000 yards west of Schweinfurt.

Against Dug In 88s

Riflemen had to go up against 24 88-millimeter guns which the Germans had dug in, pointing westward. The enemy gunners were taken by surprise, and most of the 88s never got in a shot.

A and C companies then entered the town—just about daybreak—engaged in brisk small arms fights along their route, killing and capturing more of the enemy, and reached the north bank of the Main river which rims Schweinfurt on the south. One of the first platoons to get to the Main was led by Sgt. Jerome Zuranski, 2223 N. Leamington st., Chicago.

"We picked up a mess of prisoners, and I mean a mess," Zuranski said, "I think there must have been a hundred different units of the German army represented, and there were some kids in uniform who could not have been over 15. I guess we gathered up some policemen, letter carriers, and maybe movie theater ushers in the grab bag, for we snatched on to every male in any sort of uniform."

False Mark on Barracks

A few thousand civilians were found in bombproof shelters which extended two stories above ground and three stories below.

One building in the northwest part of Schweinfurt, virtually the only structure in the city spared by the air force, had a big Red Cross on the roof to denote the building was a hospital, but it was not, as inspection quickly showed. It was a barracks for panzer [armored] troops and was so designated by a sign over the door.

Second Lt. James W. Shea, Rice st., Highland Park, Ill., found a document signed by the German commandant in Schweinfurt several days ago. This ordered his soldiers to defend the city to the last by sniping.

BARES ATTEMPT TO HIDE FACTS OF PEARL HARBOR

Secrets Bill Held Up by Ferguson

Washington, D. C., April 11 [Special]—An attempt to provide a legislative lid under which President Roosevelt and his top war agencies might indefinitely suppress the facts of Pearl Harbor on the broad grounds of security was revealed today when Sen. Ferguson [R., Mich.], in a parliamentary maneuver, held up a war secrets bill which was passed unobtrusively by the senate on Monday.

The measure, sponsored by the army and navy, carries fines of up to $10,000 or prison sentences of up to 10 years, or both, for persons disclosing information obtained from coded or cryptographic messages except as designated by the President.

Ferguson who was absent when the bill was passed without objection on a record vote, today moved to reconsider the vote, an action which prevents house consideration until the senate has cleared this parliamentary hurdle.

"Bill Too Broad."

"The bill is much too broad," Ferguson said. "It could prevent a senate committee from obtaining from army and navy officers the truth about Pearl Harbor unless specifically directed to do so by the President, the secretary of the navy, and the secretary of war."

Congressional efforts to force all Pearl Harbor facts out into the open—unsuccessful for three years—have been in abeyance since last December when Secretary of War Stimson and Secretary of Navy Forrestal virtually cleared Rear Adm. Husband E. Kimmel and Maj. Gen. Walter C. Short, the Pearl Harbor commanders.

Congress, however, has protected its right to keep the Pearl Harbor case open by suspending the statute of limitations until June 7, 1945.

Ferguson who has a resolution pending for senate perusal of evidence obtained by the Kimmel-Short examining boards warned of the threat involved in the present war secrets bill.

"Touches Freedom of Press"

"We would never know—during this administration—just what passed between Washington and Pearl Harbor prior to and on the day of the attack if such a lid as is proposed in this law is clamped on.

"I think the bill even touches freedom of the press and would affect any paper using information from the front or from any foreign government if it came by code or if that information was derived from coded messages. The press is already operating under a voluntary censorship, but such broad control as provided in this bill would be a censorship imposed with threat of a $10,000 fine and 10 years in jail for violation."

Ferguson said he would call for action on his motion to reconsider the code security bill later this week, and indicated he might couple with it a move for a full senate investigation to fix responsibility for the Pearl Harbor disaster.

Sen. Thomas [D., Utah], who introduced the secrets bill said he was uncertain as to its significance. He thought only the army and navy could explain its relation to Pearl Harbor facts.

CHURCHILL MAY LIFT THE VEIL ON FUTURE OF POLES

BY E. R. NODERER
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, April 11—Prime Minister Churchill may lift the veil on the activities of the Moscow commission, set up by the Big Three at Yalta to establish a new Polish government, in a statement to the house of commons next week, probably on Thursday.

Foreign Secretary Eden today told commons that Churchill also may say something about the war situation in general and that members of parliament will be allowed to debate the statement if they so desire.

Anxiety for a Week

For a week there has been anxiety over reported efforts of the Russians to establish a new Polish government without consulting W. Averell Harriman or Archibald Clark Kerr, American and British ambassadors to Russia.

[An Associated Press dispatch from Washington said a new break within the Big Three is feared in diplomatic circles there in connection with Churchill's discusson of the Polish situation. Already, this dispatch said, there is more than dissatisfaction on the part of the United States and England about Russia's attitude. The tendency in Washington, the dispatch added, is to put most of the responsibility for the bogging down of Polish negotiations on the Russians.]

There have been reports here that 15 Polish underground leaders had vanished from Poland. In some quarters they are believed to have gone to Moscow, where they are being presented by the Kremlin with certain propostions regarding the new Polish government.

No commitments were made at Yalta about sending German slave labor to Russia after the war, Eden said in parliament. He stressed the possibility that Russian acquisition of German labor for reconstruction was not ruled out.

Criticizes Propaganda

Dissatisfied with Eden's reply, Richard Stokes, a Laborite, forced a debate on the subject. He said there were "persistent and authoritative rumors" that Marshal Stalin intended to demand 2,000,000 male German slaves to work in Russia for 20 years. This statement was denied by a government spokesman.

Stokes criticized allied political propaganda which he said encouraged the Germans to continue fighting. He said he believed the conditions which the allied governments proposed to impose were so disgraceful that they did not dare to reveal them.

U.S. FORCES DRIVE 3 MILES UP WEST COAST OF ITALY

British Reach Santerno River in East

ROME, April 11 (AP)—United States 5th army troops, led by the tough and experienced 442d regiment, composed of Japanese-Americans, and the 473d regiment of the 92d division, a Negro outfit, were reported to have advanced more than three miles north of captured Massa, on Italy's west coast, today against heavy German resistance. They were driving on La Spezia, major Italian naval base 12 miles beyond Massa.

The 442d pushed forward across the Frigido river on both sides of Highway 1, reaching Codena, half a mile east of Carrara. The Japanese-Americans captured some German mortars and turned them on the retreating Nazis. More than 100 prisoners were taken. Troops of the 473d fought off a counter-attack and made another crossing of the Frigido and occupied Lavacchio, a mile north of Massa.

[Massa is two miles west of a Mount Belvedere which the Jap-Americans captured April 8. Another Mount Belvedere, 30 miles southwest of Bologna, was captured by the United States 10th mountain division Feb. 23.]

British Span Senio River

Along the Italian east coast, the British 8th army burst out of its bridgehead across the Senio river against strong opposition and reached the Santerno river at many places. The towns of Lugo, Fusignano, Cotignola, and Alfonsine fell in the drive that carried at least four miles and breached the German defenses on a broad front.

Other 8th army troops landed on the shore of Lake Comacchio, four miles behind the German positions in an amphibious leap-frog operation.

[The German radio said a "first class" battle has developed between Lake Camacchio and the Via Emilia, where the British are attacking on a 30 mile front. The broadcast said the Germans had withdrawn to the Santerno sector.]

Capture 1,200 Germans

On the central Italian front south of Bologna the Germans continued to cling to their mountain crag defenses in the rough country below highway No. 9.

The allied bulletin said 8th army troops who stormed across the Senio Monday night captured 1,200 Germans the first day.

Capture of Lugo put allied troops astride the Bologna-Ravenna highway and the Ferrara-Faenza highway. Bologna, German rail and supply center, is 30 miles west of Lugo.

Argentina Lifts Ban on Anti-Nazi Movies

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, April 11 (AP)—Alfredo Bolognesi, director general of the government's theater and film board, said today that the American film, "The Hitler Gang," would be exhibited for the first time in Argentina next Friday. The new policy, he said, will extend to all previously banned films, among them Charles Chaplin's "The Dictator," "Confessions of a Nazi Spy," "For Whom the Bell Tolls," and "Mission to Moscow."

CIVILIANS HELP PUT COLOGNE ON OPERATING BASIS

U. S. Experts 'Draft' 2,500 Workers

BY LARRY RUE
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

SUPREME HDQ., ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Paris, April 11—The military government of Cologne and surrounding area is under Lt. Col. J. K. Patterson. Patterson is a civil engineer from Riverside, Cal., and took a post-graduate course in business administration at the University of Pennsylvania. He has a staff of 42 assigned officers with six additional medics attached and 26 enlisted men.

Cologne gives a good example of what can be achieved by American experts working with and thru German local governments they have set up to restore and maintain city and state services.

45,000 of 768,000 Left

Patterson estimates that of the normal population of 768,000 only 45,000 Germans now live in Cologne. He and his government reached Cologne March 6. Fighting was still going on in the city, numerous fires were still burning, the local government had fled and there was no semblance of law and order.

He estimated that 85 per cent of Cologne was destroyed. Altho there is still considerable building material left he doubted if the city itself would ever be rebuilt on the pre-war scale.

Upon Patterson's arrival, he appointed a burgomeister, a deputy burgomeister, and with the help of civilian labor began the job of clearing the streets of debris, rebuilding electric light plants, getting water back, and so forth. Cologne was 90 per cent Catholic and therefore, said Patterson, never could be regarded as a big Nazi stronghold. With few exceptions the civilian population is docile, obedient, and coöperative.

Turns Lights Back On

Maj. P. S. Webb of Boulder City, Nev., who was a subcontractor in the building of that city, has charge of utilities. Electric lights are back on and the water system is operating in all except a small area in the town. The sewerage system is being quickly put into shape. With the help of 400 Germans, Webb repaired the electrical network in two days.

Cologne had been without water for months when Webb took over. Two big pumps were damaged but are now repaired. Owing to the rupture of pipe lines and sewers, the water is not yet regarded as potable and civilians have received instructions to boil the water before drinking.

Maj. John P. West of Charleston, W. Va., a professional mining engineer who reopened the first coal mine in Germany at Alsdorf near Aachen last October, has several other mines operating in the Rhine valley.

Capt. E. K. Pottle, St. Paul, Minn., conscripted labor and has 2,500 civilians already working for the various departments.

"It wasn't too easy at first to get the people to go to work," he said. "They had been under conscription so long they felt like they'd been liberated when we came in. We convinced them they were not liberated and we mean business."

Altho Hitler destroyed trade unions he did allow the guilds to continue.

"When you get them to work they do a good job," said Pottle.

Food Situation O. K.

The food situation in Cologne was described as satisfactory. Considerable German army stocks were captured and are being used solely for displaced persons.

"There is no evidence of hunger or weakness among the workers," Pottle asserted. "But it's not possible for them to do a full day's work owing to the slender rations they've been having for some time. The fat is too rich for them and they've lacked a balanced diet."

Maj. James D. Clemens, editor from Pike county, Mo., heads the legal department. His summary courts have handled 175 cases, the great majority of which represent violations of the traffic ordinance by persons riding bicycles on the main road.

TELLS HOW U. S. HELPED BRITAIN DEFEAT V-BOMBS

CAIRO, Egypt, April 11 [Reuters]—The United States played an important part in defeating the flying bomb attacks on Britain, Harold Balfour, British minister resident in West Africa, said tonight.

Balfour, undersecretary for air until last December, said that a special V-bomb launching site was built in America and subjected to bombing tests. Special equipment was sent from America to help the British shoot down the robot bombs.

Balfour said the Germans had planned to launch 2,400 flying bombs against Britain every 24 hours from 80 to 90 concrete ski sites. Because of allied bombings, however, none of those sites was used so far as he knew, Balfour said.

Ministry for Aviation Is Created by Commons

LONDON, April 11 (AP)—The house of commons passed a bill tonight creating a separate ministry of aviation, following a government spokesman's declaration that Britain must have supremacy in peace time flying. Stafford Cripps, minister for aircraft production, said the bill would give a much firmer foundation for achieving that supremacy.

Jap Slayings at Manila Protested by Venezuela

CARACAS, Venezuela, April 11 (AP)—The foreign office today protested the slaying by the Japanese of Alberto Delfino, Venezuelan consul, and his wife and son last Feb. 10 at Manila, P. I. The protest, made on the basis of reports received from Washington, D. C., was filed thru the Swiss legation.

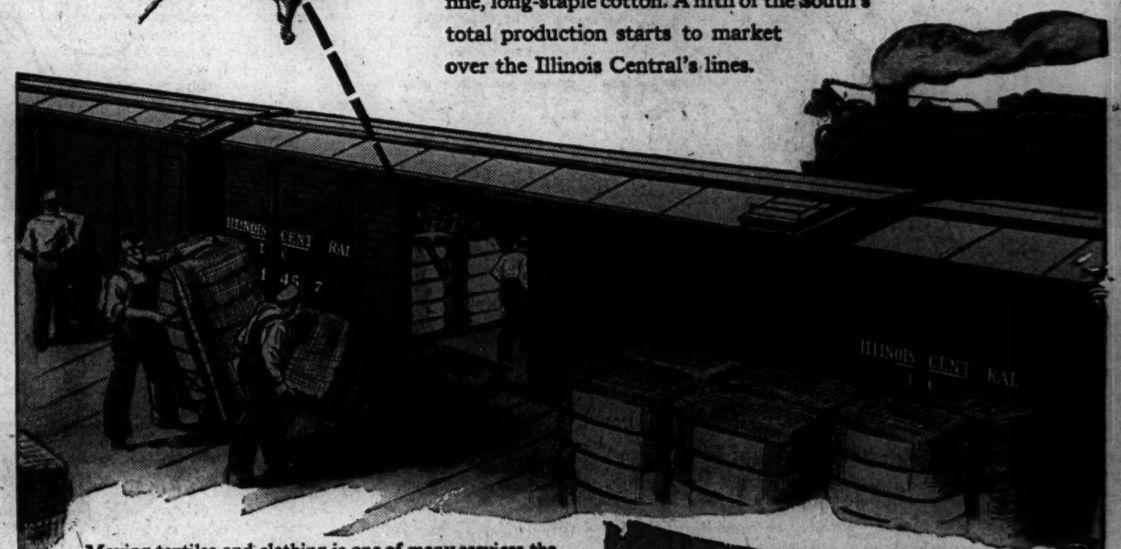
Fashions by freight
..and men's shirts, too

It's a long haul from the cotton fields of the South to the store windows down the street with their bright Spring dresses, their shirts and overalls for men and diapers for baby.

That's why fashions for women and shirts for men travel often in Illinois Central freight cars. They carry cotton from plantations to gins and compresses, then on to the textile mills, the garment factories and, finally, to your local merchants.

Cotton is important business. It makes three-fourths of the world's textiles, from heavy canvas to soft gauze surgical dressings for our fighting men.

The Illinois Central serves a vast area that produces much fine, long-staple cotton. A fifth of the South's total production starts to market over the Illinois Central's lines.



Moving textiles and clothing is one of many services the American people rely on railroads to perform. The rails provide low-cost delivery for the nation's basic needs.

The Illinois Central looks forward to providing finer transportation, thanks to new materials, improved methods and knowledge gained serving America at war.

RUSSIANS STORM DANUBE CANAL INSIDE VIENNA

Clear Most of Capital South of River

LONDON, April 12 [Thursday] (AP)—Red army tanks cut one of the last remaining German escape routes from Vienna yesterday while shock troops stormed across the Danube canal within the city and freed more than nine-tenths of that part of the Austrian capital lying on the Danube's south bank.

Hurdling the canal, a former branch of the river, the Russians captured half of the nine mile long island where fanatical Nazi troops were making a final stand in cellars, behind monuments, overturned trolleys, and from burned out tanks.

The Moscow radio said that the Germans had "doomed Vienna to destruction" and were blowing up priceless architectural monuments to slow the Russian advance.

Capture Bridge Intact

Assault teams of Marshal Tolbukhin's 3d Ukrainian army raced under Nazi mortar fire across the Danube canal, captured a bridge intact and battled onto the island from the southeast while artillery raked the strip of land from three sides. Moscow said the Germans were dynamiting the bridges over the Danube.

They captured the Vienna electric power station and cleared the entire Prater park area, Moscow's midnight war bulletin said. Prater park was Vienna's main amusement center.

Pressing along the island, the Russians broke into the Jewish quarter of Leopoldstadt, which is one of the last three city districts held by the Germans. The city district of Brigittenau also lies on the island, while across the Danube is Floridsdorf.

Tank Battle Rages

Northeast of Vienna, a massive tank battle raged on the historic Napoleonic battleground of the Marchfeld plain. The Germans battled to stave off Red army encirclement, but Marshal Malinovsky's 2d Ukrainian army slashed across a secondary escape railroad running north to Lundenburg and the Czechoslovak city of Bruenn [Brno] with the capture of Raggendorf. In this area the Russians expanded their bridgehead across the Morava river to a front of 35 miles with a new crossing in the Duernkrut area, 22 miles from Vienna and 49 miles south of Bruenn.

Berlin said that the Red army had driven 42 miles west of the Austrian capital toward Linz and Munich in a sweep to the Danube bend between Krems and Melk. If true, it meant the Russians were within 116 miles of Berchtesgaden, Hitler's mountaintop retreat.

Armies Link in Czechoslovakia

In Czechoslovakia, meanwhile, Malinovsky's forces and Gen. Yeremenko's 4th Ukrainian armies linked in the Carpathian mountains and cleared a supply road from Poland to the Vienna front. Together they cleared the Turiec, Orava, and upper Vah river valleys in advances of 18 miles in four days.

Berlin acknowledged the fall of the East Prussian capital of Koenigsberg two days after the fortress gave up and 134,000 enemy troops were killed or captured. Berlin blamed the collapse on the "cowardice of the fortress commander, Gen. Lasch," who surrendered.

West of Koenigsberg, Marshal Vasilevsky's 3d White Russian army was overrunning the last resistance on the Samland peninsula and was driving on the escape port of Pillau, 24 miles west of Koenigsberg.

U. S. AIR FLEET BLASTS TARGETS IN MUNICH AREA

LONDON, April 11 (AP)—Approximately 2,150 United States heavy bombers and fighters in a massive sweep across southern Germany attacked a string of Nalz air fields, railroad yards, and oil and ammunition depots in the Nuernberg-Regensburg-Munich area today in a continuation of their air field wrecking campaign.

During the past four days a total of 63 German airdromes have been beaten up and 898 Nazi planes have been destroyed in the air or on the ground. The enemy air force was given its worst blow of the war yesterday when American flyers destroyed 403 of its planes and damaged countless others. The United States 2d armored division captured a secret air field south of Brunswick and found 61 German planes abandoned for lack of gasoline.

R. A. F. Lancasters with a fighter escort attacked the railway yards at Nuernberg and Bayreuth. More than 1,000 allied warplanes flashed off continental bases in a continuous procession digging at the heels of Nazi traffic streaming eastward before the advancing American columns. Everything that moved in the German held area in front of the Americans came under the gunsights of the allied pilots.

The British air ministry said Mosquitos attacked Berlin tonight.

UNRRA TO GIVE BALKANS FREER HAND IN RELIEF

Substantial Shortages of Food Cited

LONDON, April 11 (AP)—Liberated Balkan nations are to be given greater control over distribution of relief supplies among their own peoples, two officials of UNRRA [united nations relief and rehabilitation administration] announced today. R. G. Jackson, senior deputy director general, and Roy Hendricksen, deputy director general, just returned from the Balkans, also asserted that altho war and military needs have first call on supply and shipping, a "fair balance must be struck and provision must be made for essential civilian supplies for liberated areas."

Shortage of Proteins

Hendricksen said he had been "battling for a year now" to get more supplies for UNRRA.

"There are substantial shortages of foodstuffs in heavily populated areas," the officials said. "The most acute shortages lie within the protein groups—evaporated and dried milk, cheese, meat, and dried eggs. Everywhere cloth, even raw fibers for manufacturing cloth, is exceedingly scarce."

The greatest need, they said, was better transportation facilities, especially trucks.

"Fair" Distribution

Jackson and Hendricksen said the UNRRA-Greek agreement that became effective April 1 provided that the Greek government would distribute UNRRA supplies on "a fair and equitable basis." In reply to a question whether there would be any check on this distribution, Hendricksen said "observers" would be sent in by UNRRA.

The same position will apply to Yugoslavia where Marshal Tito's government will begin distributing supplies April 15. The officials said a similar agreement with Albania probably would be concluded "at the appropriate time."

AGREE ON WAY TO PAY FRENCH FOR DAMAGE BY G. I.S

PARIS, April 11 (AP)—France and the United States reached an agreement today on the method of settling claims for damages done in France by American soldiers. The agreement covers claims arising from traffic or other accidents or losses suffered thru the fault of American personnel, but does not cover war destruction. After acceptance by American authorities the claims will be paid by France and the amounts added to lend-lease accounts.

Refurbished Georgic Gets Trial Run as Troop Ship

LONDON, April 11 (AP)—The Cunard White Star liner Georgic, gutted by fire and sunk by bombs in the Suez roads three years ago, has been salvaged and transformed into one of the world's finest troop ships, the ministry of war transport announced today after the Georgic's trial run. The rebuilt 27,000 ton motor ship has recreation rooms, motion picture wells, and spacious sleeping and mess quarters, constructed in the 19 months since the vessel was raised and returned to Britain.

U. S. DOUGHBOYS HALTED AGAIN BY OKINAWA JAPS

Marines Also Slowed Up in Northern Sector

GUAM, April 12 [Thursday]—(AP)—United States marines and infantrymen fought fiercely yesterday on both ends of Okinawa Island, 325 miles south of Japan.

Doughboys of Maj. Gen. John R. Hodge's 24th army corps were stalemated in the southern sector for the seventh straight day amid a large scale artillery duel. For the first time since the Easter Sunday invasion the marines in the north ran into organized resistance.

Adm. Nimitz today again announced "no substantial changes in the lines" in the southern sector, where the strongly entrenched Japanese were pouring in artillery, mortar, and small arms fire in increasing amounts.

Regain Grip on Ridge

The action, fought along the "little Siegfried line" about four miles north of Naha, the capital, included the fiercest artillery engagement of the Pacific war.

During the day the Japanese made four counter-attacks against the 24th corps after firing 4,000 rounds of mortar and artillery fire. The Japanese called for mortar fire into the front, even tho some landed among their own men.

The Japanese were suspected of employing a small observation plane with United States markings from a hidden air field on southern Okinawa. The aircraft was reported observing American positions and directing Japanese mortar fire.

Before Nimitz issued his bulletin, it was disclosed that the American infantry had regained a foothold on a ridge which the invaders had lost to a Japanese counter-attack on Monday. A regiment, which had been receiving heavy artillery punishment on the rain swept island, jumped off early yesterday to assault the ridge northeast of Kakazu. The troops gained the top against stiff mortar, machine gun, and small arms fire, and consolidated their positions. They captured a half dozen Japanese mobile rocket launching devices.

Marines' Speed Slowed

Infantry men of the 24th corps who on Tuesday invaded Tsuken Islet, off the mouth of Nakagusuku bay on the east side of Okinawa, overran the entire island after eliminating all points of resistance.

Maj. Gen. Roy S. Geiger's 3d marine amphibious corps scored some advances on Okinawa's northern front, but their speed was slowed. The marines hold about two-thirds of the Notobu peninsula on the island's west coast.

Carrier planes, naval guns, and field artillery closely supported the infantry men and marines on all ground fronts. A force of enemy planes attacked the American ground positions. Four were shot down.

2,695 U. S. Casualties

Japanese night aerial attacks on United States warships in the Okinawa area continued. Five or six enemy planes which attempted to reach a destroyer and landing craft were shot down.

American casualties of 2,695—432 dead, 2,103 wounded, and 160 missing—in the first nine days of the invasion were announced by Nimitz.

The Americans were killing Japanese at the rate of more than eleven to one, considerably less than the ratio on Iwo and Saipan. The American casualties were up to midnight Monday. By Sunday midnight the enemy had lost 5,009 dead and 222 prisoners, but much heavy fighting has been under way since then.

Progress in Okinawa Campaign

JAP RESISTANCE GROWS AS YANKS NEAR HOMELAND

Fighting Is Tougher; Losses Mount

ble parts of Okinawa are teeming with an overabundant enemy civilian population. In climate and topography this island is quite similar to the larger home islands to the north.

Terrain Favors Defense

Except for the narrow coastal plains those islands are rugged and favor the defender. Their bosoms are sharply rolling, rising at frequent intervals into high peaks that afford excellent long range observation for enemy artillery.

The land thru many centuries of cultivation has become terraced into fields and rice paddies. Transport routes thus are channelized to a large extent and can be kept under troublesome interdictory fire by the foe and effectively mined against both vehicles and personnel.

The Japs, efficient in the military preparation of terrain, have honeycombed the strategic eminences on Okinawa with well located weapon apertures interconnected by underground corridors and provided with subterranean living quarters.

Japs Shift Gun Positions

Frequently when advancing American infantrymen have stormed a hilltop and knocked out its gun positions, they find that the enemy crews have shifted to the gunports on the opposite side which must be neutralized before they can go on. This makes for slow and costly fighting.

Jap defenses on Okinawa appear to be organized in considerable depth, with a series of strong lines, one behind the other.

Most of the weapons the Jap has used in the Pacific already have been brought into play on Okinawa and there is good reason to believe that some new ones may soon be pulled from the bag.

Problem of Logistics

One of the most important factors in the growing difficulty of land fighting against the Japanese is that of logistics. We are almost at the maximum limit of the longest supply route warfare has ever known.

Everything we throw at the enemy must come by ocean surface many thousands of miles and must at the end of its journey run the gantlet of short range defensive weapons that are difficult for our air and naval vanguards to ferret out and destroy.

Warships Raid Sabang in East Indies, Japs Say

San Francisco, Cal., April 11 (AP)—A "small enemy task force," including a "British battleship of the Queen Elizabeth type" today raided Sabang on We Island, off the northwestern tip of Sumatra in the Dutch East Indies, Japan's Domei news agency said. The dispatch related that while the attack was in progress a small force of destroyers shelled Keeta Radja on the Sumatra mainland.

HEAR HIMMLER FORCES HITLER TO YIELD RULE

LONDON, April 11 (AP)—The British press reported without confirmation today that Reichsfuehrer Hitler, broken in health and perhaps dying, has been forced by the Nazis to yield control over the toppling reich to Gestapo Chief Himmler.

London newspapers gave significance to a German radio broadcast announcing that Himmler had decreed Germany would dispense this year with its usual celebration of Hitler's birthday April 20 "in view of the war situation."

The German radio, however, also broadcast that Hitler himself had ordered the creation of a new desperation defense organization, presumably a sort of companion guerrilla unit to the werewolves.

The United States 12th army group headquarters received information which it called reliable that 102 members of the German air force, including a Gen. Baber, were executed by the Germans March 31 in an attempt to quell a rebellion of army officers.

GREALIS BACKS PLAN FOR TEST AIR FIELD ON NORTHERLY ISLAND

Ald. Grealis [44th], chairman of the council aviation committee, yesterday indorsed the Chicago Aero commission's construction of an experimental air field on Northerly Island off 14th st.

Grealis predicted favorable action by his committee when the measure comes before it, possibly tomorrow, in the form of a resolution urging work begin at once on a 2,000 foot runway to accommodate small, privately owned planes.

Robert J. Dunham, president of the Chicago park board, which must grant final approval, said he still was unconvinced that the Northerly Island site is desirable because of its proximity to the Chicago Museum of Natural History, the Adler planetarium and Shedd aquarium.

He said planes taking off and landing on the airstrip might become involved in crash accidents causing irreparable damage to priceless collections housed in the museum.

JAPANESE MEET 'WHAT A GUY' G.I. AND 7 LOSE LIVES

Even After He's 'Killed,' Illinoisan Fights On

BY WALTER SIMMONS
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

FORT STOTSENBURG, Luzon, April 11—"Sure I feel rocky," said S/Sgt. Raymond Simmons, Decatur, Ill., as he painfully smoothed the white sheets of his hospital bed. "Who wouldn't, with slugs in both feet and his neck and back full of shrapnel? But I feel better today." He closed his eyes and seemed to be sleeping. A medical major spoke up.

"This is the first day we've let him talk to anybody," he said. "What a guy! I got the story from his regimental commander yesterday. He killed seven Japs with his rifle, and maybe got some others. Then he was wounded and lay in the hot sun for two days while the Japs used him for bait for rescue parties. But he fooled 'em. On the second night he got strength enough, somehow, to pull out and get back to our lines."

The sergeant half opened his eyes. "It was like a nightmare," he said slowly. "Only you can't forget it like you would a nightmare.

Heads Pop Up; He Drills Them

"I remember our patrol went up into the hills with a bazooka to clear out some caves. We blew one out and the Japs suddenly opened up on us from high ground all around. I dropped and aimed at a Jap firing over a little hill. I got him right thru the head. Another took his place. I got him, and the same thing kept happening over and over like a record that's stuck. A head would pop up and I'd drill it. The last thing I remember was a great flash of light. When I woke up I was weak and bleeding. I don't know what happened; maybe bullets exploded a grenade on my canteen belt. Anyway, I was so weak that when I tried to throw a grenade at a Jap it fell five feet away and exploded."

He closed his eyes again but continued talking.

"After that I just lay there and I guess the Japs thought I was dead. I didn't have to pretend much. The sun was blistering and thousands of flies were crawling on me.

Japs Pass Him Up as Dead

"When the sun finally went down I crawled to a water hole to get a drink. I fell in and nearly drowned. I was so exhausted that I lay there all night. Three Japs with rifles came by and searched me, taking my identification bracelet and dog tags. They thought I was dead.

"In the morning I found I was near a Jap machine gun nest. The Japs seemed amazed when they saw me move, then laughed when they saw me trying to find a dry cigaret. I could see them pointing at me and knew what they were planning.

"Suddenly they crouched down and I could hear somebody coming. I could see it was Padre Augustine Quinan [the chaplain].

"'Get the hell back,' I yelled at him just as a rifle cracked. He was hit; I don't know how bad he got it. I'm not a Catholic but I sure take off my hat to the padre's guts."

Chaplain Quinan, San Francisco, Cal., was only slightly wounded. Three attempts to rescue Simmons were made under the leadership of Tech. Sgt. Benjamin Ruble, Anaheim, Cal. In one, Pvt. Earl Combs, Middletown, O., was slightly wounded.

"The Japs," Simmons went on, "shot at me after I yelled but they missed. I lay there all that day without water and crawling with flies. That night, when it got cool, I found I could drag myself along about an inch at a time. Along toward morning I got to our lines. Then I must have passed out because when I woke up I was here."

The medical major smiled. "There's one thing the sergeant left out," he said. "Before he would submit to treatment he insisted on giving his company commander a full description of the Jap positions. This made it possible to knock them out without a loss that same day."

Equal Rights for Women as Judges Urged in France

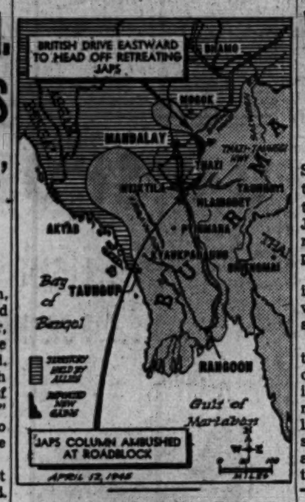
PARIS, April 11—Admission of women to the magistrate on the same basis as men judges was proposed today in a bill submitted to the De Gaulle government by Minister of Justice Francois de Menthon.

Pursue Japs



CALCUTTA, India, April 11 (AP)—British armored units drove east today from captured Thazi in an effort to intercept Japanese troops attempting to escape into Thailand [Siam] from central Burma.

Forward elements were reported to have reached Hlaingdet, a village 8 miles east of Thazi. Other forces pushing southward from Thazi toward Rangoon, 280 miles away, ambushed a column of retreating Japanese, killing 200 and capturing eight artillery pieces.

Indian troops operating east of the Meiktila area captured a number of guns and supply dumps.

SPAIN CUTS TIES WITH JAPS OVER MANILA TERROR

MADRID, Spain, April 11 (AP)—Spain severed relations with Japan tonight. A cabinet bulletin said that there was "no doubt" that Japanese soldiers murdered Spanish nationals and destroyed Spanish property in Manila.

The statement was issued following a meeting of the cabinet at which Generalissimo Franco presided.

It stated that "direct information of Spanish origin and officially confirmed leaves no doubt concerning the attack on Feb. 12 by Japanese troops on the Spanish consulate at Manila, followed by the assassination of consular functionaries and other Spanish there, and the willful burning of buildings in addition to many other assassinations and deliberate destruction of the property of Spanish citizens."

Indemnity Demanded

The bulletin added that "as a result of these exceptionally grave facts, the Spanish government, esteeming them incompatible with the maintenance of friendly normality between the two countries, has resolved to break diplomatic relations with the government of Japan, while maintaining a demand for indemnity sent Japan for the loss of life and damage caused to Spanish citizens."

In the demand, sent to Japan March 24, Spain "energetically" protested the bayoneting of Spaniards just before the liberation of Manila, in which 250 men, women, and children were killed. An official estimate said that 90 per cent of Spanish property in the Philippines was destroyed.

Diplomats to be Held

There was no unusual activity evident at the Japanese legation. Only the usual guards were on duty in front of the building.

Japanese Minister Yakichiro Suma earlier in the day started to arrange his departure for Portugal but it was reported that Spain would hold him and other Japanese diplomats until Tokyo arranged the safe departure of Spanish diplomats now in Japan.

WOUNDED YANKS FLOWN TO GUAM FROM OKINAWA

Troops Travel 1,400 Miles in Hospital Planes

BY FRANK STURDY.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service)

PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., Guam, April 11—Two plane loads of wounded soldiers arrived here yesterday from Okinawa, the first to be evacuated by the fast hospital planes of the army air forces transport command.

The wounded soldiers were transferred to the general hospital here. They had been in the air eight hours, flying about 1,400 miles.

Air evacuation of casualties has saved many lives in the Pacific area. Tremendous distances separate beachhead battle grounds with their limited medical facilities from the rear areas and completely equipped hospitals.

Boosts Troops' Morale

There is a tremendous morale boosting factor in the soldiers' knowledge that every possible expert surgical care is prepared for them if they are injured, a medical program more extensive than in any previous war. Air evacuation plays a big part in this feeling, and the army takes every advantage of it.

Any wounded soldier whose condition dictates that he be taken as far to the rear as Pearl Harbor, for instance, is given such foods as fresh eggs, ice cream, fresh milk, and steaks, after his arrival. To a man who may have had nothing but dehydrated rations for months, while enduring physical and mental strains of combat, these things improve his spirit.

The ATC started air evacuation in March, 1943, carrying two patients that month. Since then, more than 70,000 have been flown. Only one died in the air. In January, 1945, hospital planes carried 9,896 patients. The weekly average now is about 2,200.

Hop Increased to 21 Hours

As the war has moved west and facilities have been improved at the rear, the average hospital plane hop has increased from 13 hours for each patient to nearly 21. The miles the average wounded man is carried have been raised to 4,000. Many are flown from the most advanced combat area to the United States. They rest at Pearl Harbor six hours for food and preparations for the final and longest stage of their journey to the west coast.

The planes used as hospital ships are Douglas C-54s. They carry high priority cargo and passengers to advanced areas, and return with wounded. Each ship is equipped to transport 28 litter cases. More patients can be carried if some of them are in condition to sit up.

There are 170 nurses, 200 soldier technicians, and 30 flight surgeons engaged in the division's air evacuation program. A nurse and technician care for the patients on each flight.

JAPANESE OPEN COUNTER-PUSH IN HONAN PROVINCE

CHUNGKING, China, April 11 (AP)—The Chinese high command tonight announced that Japanese forces were counter-attacking in northwestern Honan province, presumably in an attempt to smash Chinese forces barring the invasion route into Shensi province. The enemy attack was based at Loning, on the Lo river 80 miles from the Shensi border.

The Chinese, in a diversionary thrust eastward, attacked Japanese positions southwest of Shanhsien, on the Lunghai railway 60 miles from the Tungkwan gateway into Shensi. Chinese troops, the high command said, have occupied a number of enemy strongpoints and killed 200 of the invaders.

Chinese troops in southwestern Honan province are continuing their attacks northwest of Sichwan. The high command acknowledged, however, that Sichwan, on the highway 37 miles from the Shensi border, again was in Japanese hands.

Planes of the United States 14th air force bombed Japanese strongpoints, troop concentrations, and supply depots.

REPORTS CHILE WILL SEND MEN TO PACIFIC WAR

SANTIAGO, Chile, April 11 (AP)—The magazine Vea today said that Chile will send two divisions to the Pacific front as part of a quota of 1,000,000 soldiers from Latin America agreed upon at the Mexico City inter-American conference.

The magazine said President Rios would inform congress of the agreement when it convenes May 25.

[In Washington, the state department said it had "no confirmation whatsoever" of the Santiago report, and a spokesman for the Chilean embassy said he knew "absolutely nothing" concerning it. It was pointed out that the only military subjects formally taken up at the Mexico City conference related to defense of the western hemisphere.]

U.S. CAVALRYMEN DRIVE 14 MILES IN SOUTH LUZON

MANILA, April 12 [Thursday]—(AP)—American forces are moving swiftly to liberate southern Luzon, exploiting the enemy's disorganized state, Gen. MacArthur announced today. Dismounted troopers of the 1st cavalry division advanced 14 miles from Lucban to occupy Sampaloc and sent advance units to Mauban on the east of southeastern Luzon.

Elements of the 11th air borne division moved in force into the Atimonan area, on the east coast. The 158th regimental combat team pressed its attack in the Legaspi area, capturing 14 pieces of artillery and other military equipment.

On Negros, the 40th division, advancing 30 miles around the northern end of the island, forced enemy remnants into a narrow pocket.

In the air war heavy bombers hit the Victoria docks at Hong Kong, bombed two radio stations and rail installations on Hainan Island in the China seas. Farther south a French Indo-China troop train was destroyed with direct hits.

MARS MAKES 20 HOPS OF PACIFIC DURING MARCH

Washington, D. C., April 11 (AP)—The Mars, world's largest flying boat, shattered all previous records for monthly operations in March by flying 20 scheduled trips over the Pacific plus two test hops, the navy reported today.

The Mars operates a regular naval air transport service run between Alameda, Cal., and Pearl Harbor.

The 72 ton flying boat carried 419,332 pounds of cargo and 473 high priority military passengers during its 290.3 scheduled hours of flying during the month, the navy said. A full crew of 13 and two trainees were carried on all regular flights. The two test hops totaled an additional three hours and 12 minutes.

His READING fanned the flame of AMERICAN FREEDOM

"If we are captured, 'tis the hangman's noose."

That thought was in the mind of every one of the 83 hunters and trappers who rowed across Lake Champlain on the night of May 7, 1775, to take Fort Ticonderoga.

This first, successful attack upon the Crown in the War of Independence was led by Ethan Allen, a tough, 37-year-old frontiersman from Vermont.

The exploit fired the imagination of the Colonies, and at the psychological moment helped to fan into flame the still-smouldering ember of revolt.

Ethan Allen loved liberty . . . not only with his heart, but with his mind. Born and brought up in little backwoods settlements, he nevertheless managed to get books to read—and from these books he drew that fierce love of freedom which was the vitalizing passion of his time.

"Ever since I arrived at the state of manhood," he later wrote, "and acquainted myself with the general history of mankind, I have felt a sincere passion for liberty.

"The history of nations doomed to perpetual slavery, in consequence of yielding up to tyrants their natural born liberties, I read with a sort of philosophical horror, so that the first systematical and bloody attempt, at Lexington, to enslave America, electrified my mind, and determined me to take part with my country."

Reading Opens New Worlds

Reading fired the mind of Ethan Allen, and lifted him from the obscurity of a backwoods settlement to an honored place among the world's leaders.

The power and inspiration of good reading is one of the activating factors in successful living. History is rich in the names of men and women whose achievement has been influenced by ideas and knowledge absorbed from reading. It is the impression value of what one sees that registers indelibly and is never forgotten.

This influence finds its most powerful expression today in The American Weekly, the magazine which is distributed through a group of great Sunday newspapers and read in more than 8,000,000 homes from coast to coast.

In its pages is gathered the whole crowded panorama of life as we live it . . . true stories of love and conflict . . . tragedy and triumph . . . tears, laughter, heartbreak . . . the latest discoveries of science and medicine . . . art . . . history . . . religion . . . all written so simply and clearly that anyone can read and understand.

The American Weekly directly influences the lives of the world's largest single reading group. . . . The manufacturer who associates his product or his company name with such an influence is tying in with the most powerful known force in advertising.

500 FIGHT FIRE IN LUMBER AREA IN 54 MILE WIND

Loss Estimate $500,000 to 3 Millions

Five hundred firemen were called out yesterday and every piece of fire department apparatus in the city was moved when flames swept thru seven coal and lumber yards on the south side while a 5-11 alarm fire was still burning on the north side. Eleven firemen, including a captain and a lieutenant, were injured or suffered burns.

S. H. Wiberg, assistant manager of the Red River Lumber company, 2452 Loomis st., estimated the loss in the yards, an area bounded by Cermak rd. and the Chicago river and by Loomis and Throop sts., at 3 million dollars. Fire Commissioner Corrigan estimated it at $500,000.

$150,000 Loss in Earlier Fire

Forty-five pieces of equipment were sent to the 5-11 fire in the Ashland Lumber company yards at 1800 N. Ashland av., where a loss of $150,000 was reported, and 61 were sent to the second fire. The Ashland av. fire was discovered shortly before 1 p. m., and the first engines were returning from it to their stations when the fire started in the Loomis st. yards at 2:45 p. m.

Seven special alarms were struck for the Red River Lumber company blaze. Commissioner Corrigan said all fire fighting apparatus was either sent to fires or moved up to other stations. It was the first time since the eight million dollar stockyards fire on May 19, 1934, that all equipment was out of its home stations.

Wind Gusts 54 M. P. H.

Wind blew in gusts of 54 miles an hour as the fires raged thru the dry lumber yards. Heat melted power lines, twisted the windshields of fire trucks on Loomis st., and burned the tires off a rescue squad car.

Wiberg said the fire in his company's yard started in a sawdust storage bin. It spread to the White Pine company, 2416 Loomis st.; the Lillis Lumber company, 2400 Loomis st.; the Silver Creek Coal company, 2204 Loomis st.; the J. W. Landis Mill company, 2358 Loomis st., and the Lord and Bushnell company, 2424 Laflin st. Damage to the Lord and Bushnell yards was slight.

List of Injured Firemen

Capt. Thomas G. Murphy, engine company 8, was treated for burns at Peoples hospital and returned to his job. Lt. John A. Coyne, 35, of 2748 W. 16th st., and these firemen were taken to Mercy hospital: Elmer C. Ferngren, 9648 University av.; Walter Allen, 3956 S. Artesian av.; James A. Blair, 739 W. 54th st.; Christ Deskovich, 6157 S. Marshfield av., and Evern McCullough, 38, of 8107 S. Paulina st. Firemen John Guminski, Joseph Rezack, John Carey, and Charles Styler were taken to Peoples hospital with burns.

PLEA FOR OPTION BALLOT IN TWO WARDS WEIGHED

Requests for a local option referendum for nine precincts in the 6th ward and three in the 5th, an area 1½ miles square between 61st and 67th sts. and extending from Greenwood av. east to the Illinois Central tracks, were taken under advisement yesterday by the board of election commisioners. The district includes many saloons on 63d st.

Attorneys Lyndon H. Lesch, assistant treasurer of the University of Chicago, and L. Dow Nichol Jr. asked that the local option question be placed on ballots in the judicial election June 4. Leo Heid, president of the Woodlawn Property Owners association, is one of the petitioners.

Election commission attorneys said they believed the inclusion of a local option referendum in a state judicial election is not authorized by statute.

$25,000 Blaze Destroys Building on Savage Farm

Fire believed to have resulted from defective electric wiring destroyed the machinery building on the farm of Atty. Joseph P. Savage near Elburn, 10 miles west of Geneva in Kane county, yesterday, with an estimated loss of $25,000. Firemen from Elburn and Geneva extinguished the fire and prevented its spread to other farm buildings despite high winds.

A TROLLEY PILOT GOES ASTRAY TO RESCUE A SAILOR

A Milwaukee Av. Car Turns for Better

Pedestrians along S. Clinton st. may have wondered Monday evening why a Milwaukee av. street car with only a sailor as passenger went down that street, where Milwaukee av. cars are not supposed to go. Yesterday Leo Counley, the motorman explained.

Leo J. Counley

His car, he said, was on its way to the loop when he noticed that a sailor aboard appeared to be ill. At Ohio st. Counley walked back and spoke to the sailor, who wore four South Pacific campaign ribbons and had two heavy suitcases.

"I'm sick," the sailor said, "and have to catch a train at the Union station." He was going home to see his mother for the first time in more than two years, he said.

Passengers Coöperate

That was at 8:10 p. m. The train was due to leave at 9 p. m. When the car reached Halsted st. Counley telephoned John Schultz, a supervisor. "I've got to get that sailor to his train," the motorman said.

Schultz agreed. "Unload your passengers," he said, "put up a 'not in service' sign, and we'll have an automobile meet you at Madison and Canal."

The other passengers coöperated when Counley explained. By the time the car reached Dearborn and Madison all had disembarked. Counley tramped on his bell and set a straight course for Canal st.

The street car got there but the promised automobile wasn't in sight. It was 8:47. Counley gave his bell another clang and rumbled on to Clinton st., where the car ordinarily turns north.

One Minute to Spare

Counley jumped out, flipped the switch in the opposite direction, and turned south. It was 8:53 when his car halted at Jackson blvd. Counley stuck the control handle in his pocket, grabbed a suitcase, and ran with the sailor to the station, half a block away. It was 8:59 when they got there. The sailor swung aboard his train.

Back in his car, Counley proceeded south on Clinton to Harrison, where the tracks permit a turn-around. The empty car rattled back to Madison st., and then continued on its regular route.

"What was wrong with the sailor," Counley was asked.

"He said he was car sick," the motorman replied.

RADIO, GEMS, AND $10 STOLEN

Burglars stole $10, a radio, and some jewelry yesterday from the home of Lawrence Bommer, 1515 W. 71st st., he told police yesterday.

KIDNAP VICTIM IDENTIFIED; NEW MYSTERY RISES

Some elements of the mysterious kidnaping on April 2 of a girl known only as Connie were cleared yesterday. Des Plaines st. police disclosed that they had learned the girl's identity, but said that she had been seen since the alleged kidnaping and that a note signed "Connie" had been received this week by Nick Martini, 1220 S. Lawndale av., pleading for him to rescue her.

Nick Martini

Martini, a merchant sailor, reported the kidnaping to police and explained that the girl, whom he had met in the Chicago theater, was forced into a large, dark sedan by three Negroes, one a soldier, who accosted them as they stood in a doorway at Washington blvd. near Green st, about 3 a. m.

Apparently Expected Trouble

The sailor said he would not be able to identify her, but gave police a meager description, and showed them a gold colored ring, set with an imitation emerald, which she had given him.

Martini added that when she saw the three Negroes approaching them, she cried out, "I thought something like this would happen."

Capt. Joseph Graney of Des Plaines st. police announced yesterday that the girl had been identified as Marcella Olsen, 17, a ward of the Chicago Home for Girls, 5024 Indiana av., who has been missing from the school since Easter Sunday morning, when she was given a week-end pass to visit her parents.

Identification, he added, was made thru the ring by the girl's parents. Both Capt. Graney and Miss Ruth Topping, superintendent of the school, refused to divulge the parents' names.

Capt. Graney revealed further that a man, whose identity also was withheld, had reported that he saw the girl last Thursday night at State and Van Buren sts. The girl, he said, was crying and told him that she was hungry. He said he gave her $1. He identified Marcella Olsen's picture as being the same girl.

At the same time, Capt. Graney released the contents of a note, received by Martini, declaring that the handwriting was not Miss Olsen's. The note read:

"Dear Nick: I am writing to you to let you know I'm all right. They will turn me loose after they get a certain naval air officer. They are Gestapo agents working for the Third Right [sic], Nick. If you go to the 63d and Stony Island there will be a little colored boy there. A message. Please go at 700. [signed] Connie. P. S. I love you. P. S. Bring one policeman."

Police Watch Corner

Capt. Graney said that a police detail had watched the corner at 63d and Stony Island av., every evening since the note was received but had observed nothing.

[It was pointed out that the figure "700" in the note might have meant "0700" which is navy time for 7 a. m.]

Miss Topping said the girl was released from the school for the week-end, and that it had been learned that she did visit her parents Sunday afternoon until she left with her sister to go to the Arcadia roller rink, Sunnyside av. and Broadway. At 5 p. m., the girl left her sister, apparently to return to the school, where she had been a ward since November, 1942.

Questions Unanswered

Still to be answered are:

1. Was Marcella Olsen really kidnaped?
2. If so, was she released and is she now using the kidnaping as an excuse for remaining away from the school?
3. Does the Chicago Home for Girls make a practice of releasing inmates for week-end visits, without supervision?
4. Why did Martini say he would not be able to identify the girl?

Night Club's Operator Fined for Fire Hazards

AIR FORCE SHIFT TO PACIFIC WAR WILL FACE DELAY

Washington, D. C., April 11 (AP)—General movements of army air forces from Europe to the Pacific will wait until at least 30 days after the day of victory in Europe. Some "critical" units may be shifted earlier, however.

An air force spokesman disclosing this today said it would take a month or more to put into effect the administration for such a vast transfer.

Some units will be assigned to a "relatively small" occupational air force in Europe.

Emphasizing the air forces intend to do to Japan what they have done to Germany, the spokesman said all the air strength that can be employed will be thrown against the Nipponese. The only limiting factor will be land available for bases.

Some units will be sent by way of the United States, with numerous men given home leaves. Many will be deployed by other routes.

Elevator Fire Smouldering Since Nov. 30 Blazes Anew

Embers smouldering in the ruins of the Rosenbaum Brothers' grain elevator at 87th st. and Stewart av. since it was destroyed by fire Nov. 30 were fanned into flame again last night by the high wind, Acting Chief Leo Crane of the 12th battalion, said. Crane said the fire had been smouldering in the tons of grain which the destroyed elevator contained. The alarm was turned in by Louis Marsh, 4804 St. Lawrence av., a watchman for the Vitality Mills, Inc., east of the destroyed elevator.

TRAITORS' LOSS IN FRENCH PURGE SET AT BILLIONS

Petain's Ex-Ministers to Be Tried

BY DAVID DARRAH

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, April 11—French authorities today estimated that the value of private property confiscated or sequestered in the provisional government's purge of collaborationists and those convicted of treason and intelligence with the enemy would run into billions.

"The figure will be very high. We could not estimate it exactly for the investigations of the holdings of those whose property has been confiscated or sequestered are not complete. We have to find it," said Jean Couillard, a director of the domain commission, an adjutant of the ministry of finance.

The property of those convicted by purge courts is confiscated as part of the sentence. The property of such persons as Marshal Henri Petain, Pierre Laval, or the former Vichy ambassador to occupied France, Ferdinand de Brinon, and those who are either out of the country or awaiting trial, is sequestered until the courts pass sentence after which it will be confiscated and turned over to the state in case of conviction.

8,132 Are Convicted

Convictions up to March 15 total 8,132. Most of these were intellectuals, militia men, or those on the criminal fringe and, consequently, not possessing much property. Those brought to courts were rarely profiteers or persons who had made big sums in the black market while the Germans were here. The biggest value is represented in the property belonging to the Vichy politicians and those who worked with Petain.

Some 50 or 60 ex-cabinet ministers of Petain are to be tried beginning next month. Many of them were wealthy men such as Jean Prouvost, publisher of the Paris Soir and other newspapers, and Paul Baudoin, former director of the bank of Indo-China.

The Case of Laval

The property and valuables of Laval, who is considered a special case, have not only been sequestered, but confiscated, and some sold at auction. But the domain commission is having a hard time to trace all of Laval's holdings. Petain was not rich but he had a farm near Vichy and property near Cannes. The Cannes property has been seized and turned into an orphans' home.

Couillard said that full disclosures of German confiscations and seizures in France during the occupation would make an appalling figure.

"The country does not realize yet what a strangle hold the Germans had on the commercial and industrial life of the nation thru seizures, many of which are held in disguise. We are now trying to trace these back and recover the property and it's a tough job," Couillard said.

11,093 EDICTS ISSUED IN BRITAIN DURING THE WAR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, April 11—Since the beginning of the war 11,093 statutory rules and orders have been issued by the British government, Chancellor of the Exchequer John Anderson told the house of commons today.

They include 1,169 orders by privy council, 114 orders by the admiralty, 386 by the ministry of agriculture, 37 by the air ministry, 1,833 by the food ministry, 484 by the health ministry, 702 by the department of health for Scotland, 909 by the home office, 149 by the ministry of home security, 220 by the labor ministry, 119 by the India office, 234 by the secretary for Scotland, 726 by the supply ministry, 1,983 by the board of trade, 1,439 by the ministry of war transport, 407 by the treasury, and 182 by the war office.

The peak of orders was issued in 1942 when there were 2,937. Last year there were 1,482.

POLISH PIANIST HOPES TO BALK YALTA SCHEME

Enlightened public opinion, a power which even the mightiest cannot ignore, should force a reconsideration of the Yalta decisions in regard to Poland, Sigismond Stojowski, Polish-American pianist and composer, said in Chicago yesterday. He stopped here en route east to give a lecture recital on Chopin at the Arts club this afternoon.

He asserted stripping from Poland her eastern provinces was not only a wrong to Poland but also a threat to the rest of the world. He assailed the principle of expediency in world politics.

CHARGES NAZIS SLEW 5 MILLION JEWS IN 1 CAMP

NEAR ERFURT, Germany, April 11 (AP)—Dr. Bela Fabian, president of the dissolved Hungarian Independent Democratic party, accused the Germans today of killing 5,000,000 Jews in 10 months at the Oswiecim [Auschwitz] extermination camp in Polish Silesia from which he himself narrowly escaped.

[The Polish ministry of information more than a year ago reported 500,000 Jews had been gassed and cremated at this camp and the international church movement ecumenical refugee committee in a subsequent report on Oswiecim and its sister camp of Birkenau said 1,715,000 Jews had been killed at the two places. A spokesman for the American Jewish committee library in New York said it has no figures to substantiate a report that 5,000,000 had been exterminated in one camp.]

Killed on Whim

He said all Jews over 50 were automatically condemned to the gas chamber and crematory as were the weak and sickly and young mothers who refused to leave their children.

"If the captain [of the camp] did not like the looks of any one else—they were gassed too," he said.

Many died of overwork, starvation, and beatings before the gas chamber could receive them, Fabian said. The officer in charge, he continued, employed a dramatic flourish of the hand in ordering entire groups taken away to be gassed and cremated—without questioning or examining them to learn if they were guilty of any wrong.

The 56 year old author and politician told his story of the notorious camp, since captured by the Red army, after his liberation by American troops from another camp at Ohrdruf, southwest of Erfurt.

Three Affirm Story

Three others liberated with Fabian corroborated his story and said it was a "miracle" that he still lived. They said he owed his life to the fact that Germans believed him when he said he was only 46 years old.

The other three are Heinz Meyer, 22, Hungarian violinist; Desider Kohlmann, 34, a Bratislavan, and Sam Ezratty, 28, a Greek medical student.

Fabian, who said he once lunched with President Roosevelt, asked that Congressman Sol Bloom [D., N. Y.] be notified he is safe. He is the author of the books, "One Thousand Men Without a Woman," and "Six Horses and 40 Men."

CANADIAN PRESS INDORSES FREE NEWS EXCHANGE

TORONTO, Ont., April 11 (AP)—A resolution expressing belief in the free exchange of news was adopted today by the annual meeting of the Canadian Press. The resolution parallels one passed by the C. P. board at its meeting in Vancouver, B. C., last September and will be communicated to Prime Minister Mackenzie King and the Canadian delegates to the world security conference in San Francisco. It approves "the world-wide right of interchange of news by news gathering and distributing agencies, whether individual or associated, and the right of free access to news sources by any newspaper of any country." It further expresses the belief that "these rights should be protected by international compact."

REPORTS NAZIS MAY EXCHANGE BELGIANS' KING

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, April 11 (AP)—The newspaper Expressen said today there was hope that King Leopold of Belgium would be exchanged by the Germans by way of Sweden, and speculated that Leopold might be intending to abdicate in favor of his son.

This speculation arose when Prince Carl Bernadotte, brother of Leopold's queen, the late Astrid of Sweden, purchased the Castle Huseby near Vaxjo in southern Sweden for the royal house of Belgium, the account said. The reported price was 2,500,000 Swedish crowns [$600,000].

Prince Bernadotte, who resigned his Swedish title when he married a countess and was given the title of Belgian prince by Leopold, was said to be at Castle Laaken at Brussels as the guest of Prince Regent Charles of Belgium.

GLOBAL SCHEME BRANDED PERIL TO U. S. SAFETY

Super-State Denounced in Missouri House

BY ARTHUR EVANS
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Jefferson City, Mo., April 11—A proposal for a global super-state in which America would relinquish its sovereignty to a world organization and the United States and other nations would reduce their army, navy, air forces, and national defense to a constabulary was denounced today in the Missouri house.

A joint resolution, promoted by Robert Lee Humber, for 16 years a lawyer in Paris, met with such strong opposition that action was deferred. This move, in the opinion of some leaders, saved the resolution from immediate defeat. It will be taken up next week.

Legislators declared the resolution, aimed at establishing a federation of the world, would seek to force democracy upon other countries, including America's allies, who want some other form of government. That would involve America in wars, it was asserted.

Humber Lobbying Discussed

The financing of lobbying and propaganda for the resolution was discussed in some of the speeches, as was the international background of Humber, who says his plan has been indorsed by legislatures in 12 states and is pending in 10 others.

"It's a ridiculous plan," cried Roy Hamlin of Hannibal, Democratic minority leader. "It seeks to impose our democratic form of government on other nations of the world. If adopted it would be contrary to the forms of government of some of our allies. It declares all peoples of the earth shall be united in a federation of the world and tells congress the name. It asks congress to request the President to set up processes for writing a world constitution. It asks for a site in some Utopia at which may be established a capital of the world.

"The plan says a member nation shall suppress its military, naval, and air forces, retaining only a constabulary sufficient to police its territory.

Financing Stirs Queries

"Where is the money coming from for the campaign for this plan? I say where there is so much lobbying, watch out. We've been circularized and buttonholed, and all we know is literature in support of this plan has been put out by a bank." [This was a reference to a pamphlet put out by F. R. Von Windegger, chairman of the Missouri State Committee for World Federation and president of the Plaza Bank of St. Louis.]

In bringing up the resolution, Murray E. Thompson [R., Marshfield], speaker pro tem and one of its sponsors, declared, "This is not a blueprint, but a principle. There is no way men can be free on this earth except under a government of laws."

The resolution, which is in the form of a memorial to congress asking it to support a measure embodying the world federation proposal, was attacked from another angle by Marvin M. Wright, [D., Salisbury].

Puts Trust in Senate

"For the last 16 years, the inventor of this plan has lived in continental Europe," he said. "He has been in Paris. If his plan is meritorious, there is no need for its author to spend his time and money lobbying and campaigning to get it adopted.

"I think the United States senate is deserving of trust. For myself, I need no man who has spent the better part of his life in Europe to ask me to memorialize congress. There is no necessity for a man with such a European background to come back to his native land and try to dictate to congress."

House in Full Cry.

By this time the Missouri house was in full cry against the Humber proposal. James P. Boyd [D., Paris], a former speaker and a constitutional lawyer, amplified the arguments.

"The San Francisco convention is approaching," he said. "I don't believe we should try to influence the men who represent us there and congress by memorializing it on foreign policies, a matter on which I am not qualified to speak".

DAY by DAY on the FARM
by BEN MARKLAND

April 11, 1945.

THE natural woodlots on the Wheaton farm often are overlooked by the casual farm visitor, but a trained forester who recently walked thru two of these areas lists them among the best of all the woodlots in Illinois.

All of the timbered areas on the farm are left in their natural state. There is no attempt to make a landscaped park of these woodlots, because the farm owners believe they are more attractive as samples of the virgin forests which once covered thousands of acres in every section of the middle west.

The Forest Primeval

Significant trees in prominent places along the roads occasionally are patched to prevent decay, but the centers of the woodlots are untouched by axe, saw, or pruning blades. Trees felled by storms are left to decay, adding valuable humus to the moist woodland soil.

Native shrubs grow along the edges of the lots, providing food and cover for hundreds of species of song birds, game birds, and furbearers. Wildflowers bloom in profusion from early spring until late fall, and right now the spring beauties, rue anemones, dogtooth violets, blue violets, and other wildflowers are abundant.

Praised by Forester

The visitor who praised the farm woodlots was Dr. Lee Yeager, forester of the Illinois natural history survey. After walking thru the middle woods and the south woods, he wrote this department as follows:

"The woodlots on the Wheaton farm appealed to me greatly. In their present natural condition they represent, as far as flora is concerned, an example of the nearly original America, which, in our region, has come to be almost the rarest specimen of nature.

"Pheasants and squirrels can be produced in a year; some of the trees I saw in your woodlots have been a century and more in the making. And they are still growing, becoming, year by year, more valuable as indices of our original state. I believe that preservation of these woodlands in a natural condition is perhaps the most thoughtful memorial that man could devise."

★ The GARDEN ★

NORTHERN Illinois gardeners normally make their original vegetable plantings at this time of the year, but this season the weather has been so favorable that many gardeners are making second plantings this week. West suburban gardeners who planted their first vegetables March 17 already have spinach, peas, beets, radishes, lettuce, and onion sets out of the ground.

All of these hardy vegetables thrive best early in the season. Peas, especially, should be planted before April 20, or not at all; they rarely produce a worthwhile crop if planted to mature in hot midsummer weather. Leaf lettuce, head lettuce, Bloomsdale spinach, and radishes also thrive with April planting and are of poorer quality if planted later in the spring.

["The Gardener's Diary," 58 page book published by THE TRIBUNE, contains a week-by-week schedule of garden tips. Available for 15 cents over the counter, 18 cents by mail, from the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 S. Dearborn st. and 435 N. Michigan av.]

LIBERATED AREA RELIEF NEED PUT AT 100 BILLION

Washington, D. C., April 11 (AP)—The united nations relief and rehabilitation administration estimated today that liberated lands will need one hundred billion dollars' worth of food, clothing, and other relief supplies.

The UNRRA said in its second quarterly report to congress that these countries would provide approximately 92 per cent of their own needs, however.

Total import requirements, exclusive of those of Russia and China, were estimated at 7½ billion dollars, of which the UNRRA will chip in 2 billions.

Delay in Program Possible

"Even tho the main back of the Nazi military power may be broken before long," the report said, "it may take some time to clean up pockets of Nazi resistance. If this eventuality does occur, UNRRA may also be limited, by such military operations, in carrying out fully the tasks for which it was created."

The report said the fighting forces have first call on port facilities, transportation, and distribution. Relief for liberated areas thus may be continued only on an emergency basis until Germany's final collapse eases the strain on the supply routes, the report said.

The freed peoples received from President Roosevelt, who sent the UNRRA report to congress, assurances they will get full scale help eventually.

F. D. R. Tells U. S. Plans

"We in America, who have been so fortunate as to have the battle for the world waged beyond our shores," he said in a letter to the legislators, "propose as participants in UNRRA to do all in our power to help these victims of war begin to regain their strength so that they can help themselves and assume their rightful places as partners in achieving victory and in building a lasting peace."

The report showed that the United States has made available 800 million dollars in cash and supplies to UNRRA and that $6,173,417 had been spent by Dec. 31. The report covered operations to that date.

The report said nine nations have not yet paid their assessments in full for UNRRA's 10 million dollar fund for 1944 administrative expenses. Russia has contributed $200,000 of her share of 1½ millions.

3 Air Chiefs Confirmed as Lieutenant Generals

Washington, D. C., April 11 (AP)—Promotions of three air force commanders to the temporary rank of lieutenant general were confirmed by the senate today. The new three star generals are Hoyt S. Vandenberg of Milwaukee, Wis., commander of the 9th air force in France; John K. Cannon of Salt Lake City, Utah, commander of the 12th air force in the Mediterranean area, and Harold Lee George of Somerville, Mass., commander of the air transport command.

URGE ITALY BE MADE ALLY, GET LEND-LEASE AID

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., April 11.—A drive to extend lend-lease aid to Italy and recognize her as a full-fledged member of the allied nations was started in congress today by Rep. Marcantonio [A. L. P., N. Y.].

Joining him in urging the house foreign affairs committee to indorse the move were Mayor Fiorello La Guardia of New York City, and several eastern Democratic congressmen and Italian-American groups.

Marcantonio, author of a joint resolution requesting the President to recognize Italy and send lend-lease aid, asserted more material help must be sent quickly to alleviate "famine and disease" among Italians.

Rep. Mundt [R., S. D.], a committee member, observed it is the province of the President, not the congress, to determine whether Italy should be declared an ally and granted lend-lease.

"I am shocked and amazed," Mundt said, "that this committee is considering this major policy question without even consulting the state and war departments, who are vitally concerned."

U.S. PEACE GROUP STUMBLES OVER STALIN SHADOW

Fears to Take Stand Lest They Offend Him

Red-Yugoslav Pact

LONDON, April 12 [Thursday]—(AP)—The Moscow radio announced today that a pact of friendship and mutual assistance had been signed by the soviet union and Yugoslavia.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., April 11—The shadow of Russian Dictator Stalin has fallen athwart the deliberations of the American delegation to the San Francisco conference, it was learned today, and chilled its resolution. As a result, the question of what position the delegation will take at San Francisco is up in the air.

The delegation, it appears, would like to take a flatfooted stand in support of Sen. Vandenberg's proposed amendments to the Dumbarton Oaks draft of a charter for the new league of nations to enforce peace. But there is Joe Stalin to be thought of, for presumably he will not like several of the Vandenberg amendments, particularly one squinting in the direction of Poland, and conceivably, if they were pressed at San Francisco, he might pack up his doll rags and go home, leaving the peace league ship high and dry on the rocks.

So, the American delegation is proceeding cautiously and not committing itself finally and irrevocably on the Vandenberg amendments until the members get to San Francisco and get the lay of the land, particularly in the Russian quarter. There is talk of watering down the Vandenberg amendments to make them palatable to the dictator of eastern Europe.

Vandenberg's Proposals

The Vandenberg amendments propose:

1. To dedicate the league not only to "peace and security," as stated at Dumbarton Oaks, but to "justice . . . respect for human rights and fundamental freedoms."

2. To give the league assembly full freedom to recommend action to maintain peace instead of being forbidden to deal with any situation under consideration by the league's security council.

3. To authorize the league assembly to make recommendations regarding any situation involving a violation of the allied nations declaration of Jan. 1, 1942, which would put the Atlantic Charter into the Dumbarton Oaks charter.

Asks Obligatory Probes

4. To obligate, not merely empower the security council to investigate any dispute jeopardizing international peace and security.

5. To require the council, if it finds a situation involving "injustice to peoples concerned," to recommend an adjustment "which may include revision of treaties and or prior international decisions."

6. To absolve the council and any member of the obligation to act to perpetuate a situation created in disregard of recommendations of the council or assembly.

Conceivably most of these amendments are unacceptable to Stalin.

The fifth amendment particularly would bring it within the authority of the league to recommend a reconsideration of the deals at Yalta partioning Poland and extending Russian hemony over that country, the Baltic states, and the Balkans.

Without this amendment, said Sen. Vandenberg [R., Mich.], a member of the American delegation, the league would be a strait jacket for the perpetuation of injustices resulting from the expediencies of war and thereby breeding new wars, "the very thing we seek to avoid."

Sen. Connally [D., Tex.], another member of the delegation, said in a speech here today that the American representative on the security council should have power to send American forces into action against an aggressor without reference to congress.

Don't mind my husband—he doesn't like to miss the evening news!

Circus Babies

Queenie's babies, confined momentarily in a photographer's bag to curb their kitten antics yesterday.

Among the wild animals at the Barnes Bros. circus, opening tomorrow at the Chicago Stadium, are two tiger cubs, four weeks old. The mother tiger is Queenie, who performs in the wild animal act. The cubs posed for pictures yesterday, but not too willingly. They snarled and tried to scratch, which was all right with Queenie, who does some of both herself.

DAHLCONVICTED; CANADIAN AIR FORCE FIRES HIM

OTTAWA, Ont., April 11 (AP)—Squadron Leader Harold E. [Whitey] Dahl, United States veteran of the loyalist forces in Spain and a member of the Canadian air force, has been convicted of four charges in connection with improper disposal of about $680 worth of aircraft equipment and other articles, it was announced tonight. He was sentenced to dismissal from the air force.

Dahl, released in 1939 from a Spanish prison by Generalissimo Franco, has been commanding officer of a transport command station at Belem, Brazil, where the improper disposal was alleged to have taken place. He was tried on 14 charges. They alleged not only improper disposal but conduct "to the prejudice of good order and air force discipline."

ASKS TO ENTER JAIL FOR MATE; WINS HIM BACK

Albert Hutman, 32, of 13344 Avenue N, an automobile mechanic who was called stubborn by his wife, Gwendolyn, 24, of 13253 Brandon av., finally was convinced she loved him yesterday when she offered to serve a jail sentence for him for contempt of court.

Hutman was arraigned before Judge John A. Sbarbaro in Superior court on the complaint of Mrs. Hutman that he failed to pay fees of $150 to her attorney, Harry X. Cole, which were awarded a month ago in her pending suit for separate maintenance. Atty. Cole said yesterday he would waive the fees if Hutman would agree to a reconciliation with his wife. Hutman said he was not interested.

"Then you will have to go to jail," Judge Sbarbaro said.

"O, judge!" said Mrs. Hutman. "Albert is just so stubborn that you can't force him to do anything. But I love him. Let me go in his place."

Hutman took her in his arms and led her from the courtroom.

AWARD MEDALS FOR HEROISM TO THREE MILKMEN

Three Chicago milkmen received Pasteur medals for heroism in ceremonies last night at a joint meeting of the Associated Milk Dealers and the Milk Dealers' Bottle exchange in the Stevens hotel. Winners were Frederick Hiram Hull of Sidney Wanzer & Sons; Frank J. Rauen, Bowman Dairy company, and Albert C. Hanke, Borden company. The medals are awarded each year by the Milk Industry foundation to milkmen for courageous acts while on their daily deliveries.

Hull, 34, of 6147 Woodlawn av., succeeded in getting 30 milk wagon horses out of company barns at 6315 Kimbark av. when the buildings caught fire on the night of June 27. Rauen, who lives at 7427 Lafayette av., drove his wagon under the windows of apartments on fire above a garage, stood on the top of the wagon and helped to rescue two men and a woman.

Hanke, 62, of 3723 N. Kedvale av., was the only one of bystanders who could give first aid at the scene where a couple and their baby and a grandmother were injured by a hit-run driver.

Two Illinois Yanks Freed from Japs, Back in U. S.

San Francisco, Cal., April 11 (AP)—Two Illinois men liberated from Japanese prison camps in the Philippines who arrived here yesterday with a contingent of allied soldiers aboard a navy transport have been assigned to Letterman General hospital. They are:

Pvt. Franklin O. Davis, 1128 N. Calhoun st., Decatur, and Pvt. Dale A. Gilbert, R. F. D. 2, Ashton.

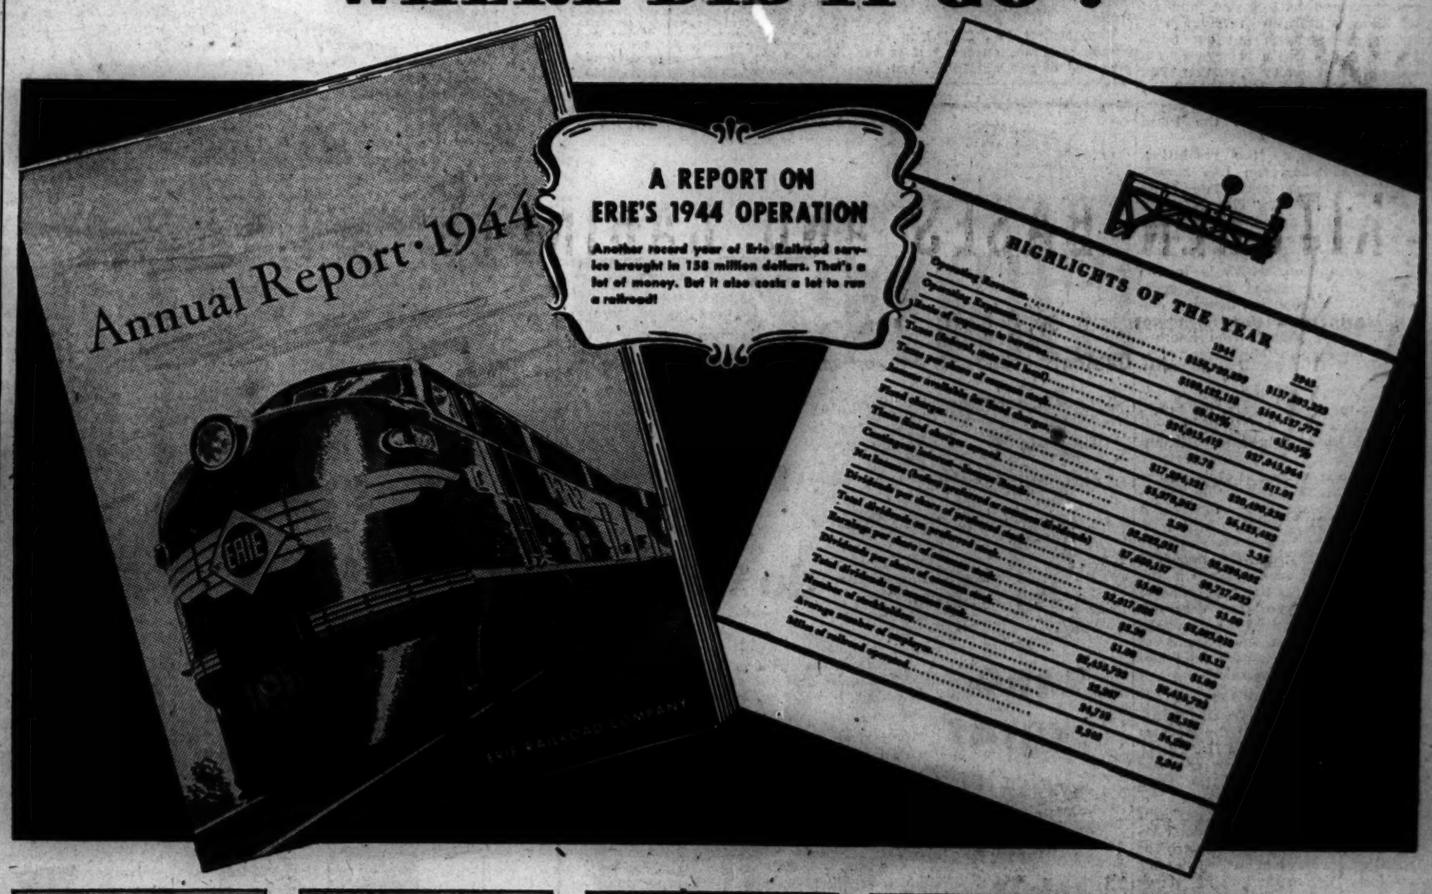
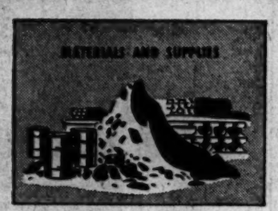
158 Million Dollars . . .

WHERE DID IT GO?



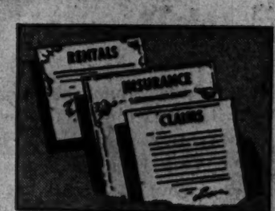
Annual Report · 1944
ERIE
A REPORT ON ERIE'S 1944 OPERATION
Another record year of Erie Railroad service brought in 158 million dollars. That's a lot of money. But it also costs a lot to run a railroad!
HIGHLIGHTS OF THE YEAR

1. The largest single share, 65 million dollars, or about 41¢ out of every dollar taken in—went to our 22,267 Erie employees in wages and salaries.



2. The next largest, 32 million, was paid out for materials and supplies needed to keep the railroad running. Fuel alone took 11 million dollars.

3. Another big bite went for taxes. 24 million dollars was needed for payment to federal, state, and local governments. That's more than 13¢ for every dollar received.



4. Another 11 million went for rental of equipment and joint facilities, insurance and claims.

5. Depreciation of roadway and equipment, which must be replaced as it wears out, took 8½ million, and 1½ million went for improvement of property.

6. Interest charges on borrowed money took another 9 million.

7. That left 8 million, or 5¢ out of every dollar received, of which 2 million was for Preferred Dividends and ½ million to buy in and retire company Bonds. The remaining 3½ million was available for future improvements, retirement of debt or other corporate needs, and payment of dividends to common stockholders.

The savings of many thousands of investors have gone into the roadway, buildings, and equipment without which we couldn't operate. America's mass transportation system is one of the "tools" created by private investment which provides us with the highest standard of living the world has ever known.

Becomes Mother

Mrs. Lillian Hefeli, who gave birth to a girl after six weeks hospitalization for burns, with her husband, Corp. Frank Hefeli in St. Bernard's hospital.

Mrs. Lillian Hefeli, 21, who was burned Feb. 28 when she and her mother, Rose Wukovits, 39, leaped three floors from their burning apartment at 541 Garfield blvd., gave birth to a daughter Tuesday night in St. Bernard's hospital, it was learned yesterday at an inquest into the death of the young woman's father, Pius Wukovits, 43. The latter perished in the flames. Both women have been in St. Bernard's hospital since the fire.

The baby, weighing 5 pounds 2 ounces and born three weeks prematurely, was said to be normal and healthy. She'll be named Cheryl Ann, said her father, Corp. Frank Hefeli, 21, who arrived here from his station in the Aleutians after receiving news of the fire.

Neither his wife nor mother-in-law, who suffered leg fractures and burns, could supply statements for the inquest yesterday. Deputy Coroner Jack Przybylinski continued the hearing until April 20.

HARRY M'CALL, 80, DRAKE HOTEL BAR CHIEF, STRICKEN

The many friends of Harry McCall, veteran head bartender of the buffet bar of the Drake hotel, were pulling yesterday for his recovery. For three days he has been severely ill of pneumonia in a hospital.

McCall, who is in his 80s and lives at 191 E. Walton st. with his wife, Margaret, for years has been a colorful figure in smart cocktail lounges.

McCall has been a bartender 63 years, and head of the Drake bar since prohibition repeal in 1933. He has two sons in service, Lt. Harry Jr. in the Pacific and Lt. Robert in China.

1,000 EX-SOLDIERS NOW IN CHICAGO, AREA COLLEGES

At least 1,000 discharged veterans of the present war have entered the colleges and universities of Chicago and vicinity, a survey of veteran registration at the city's principal institutions yesterday indicated. Virtually all are receiving federal aid.

Northwestern university has 494 veterans registered, the University of Chicago 145, De Paul university 140, Central Y. M. C. A. college 100, and Loyola university 75. At the universities the figures include the professional and business schools as well as the college proper. A few ex-service women are registered.

If veterans at the University of Chicago are typical, the bulk of the returned men and women are interested in the humanities, the social sciences, the physical sciences, and in business training.

A number of veterans are studying on the graduate level. On the Midway, 23 have signified their intention of working for a master's degree, and 25 for the degree of doctor of philosophy.

TWO LANDLORDS ENJOINED OVER TIE-IN RACKET

Judge John P. Barnes in federal District court yesterday enjoined Louis E. Alport, 1226 Madison pk., and Allen Alport, 4730 Ellis av., landlords of an apartment building at 7548-54 Coles av., from requiring new tenants to buy furniture.

It was the first decree issued in Chicago against furniture buying stipulations in rental contracts, and was requested by the rent control section of the office of price administration.

The Alports were accused of charging from $2.50 to $15 a month more than OPA rent ceilings on their 80 apartments.

Sufferers from
PSORIASIS—

HOW LONG SINCE HAVE You WORN A "GLAMOR GOWN?"

And what wouldn't you give to be able to wear one! Well, perhaps you can. SIROIL may be the answer for you, just as it has been for thousands of others whose psoriasis lesions force them to wear concealing dresses. SIROIL tends to remove the crusts and scales of psoriasis which are external in character and located on the outer layer of the skin. If or when your psoriasis lesions recur, light applications of SIROIL will help keep them under control. Applied externally, SIROIL does not stain clothing or bed linens, nor does it interfere in any way with your daily routine. Try it. Certainly it's worth a trial, particularly since it's offered to you on a two-weeks'-satisfaction-or-money-refunded basis.

THE FACTS ARE PLAIN

We received a letter a few days ago from a friend in Michigan who questions the accuracy of a statement recently made in these columns. We had said: "The facts are plain. America's safety, the events of this war have shown, depends in no great degree upon Britain." Our friend asks us to explain why we believe this and to tell "just how this is evidenced by the events of this war." He suggests that we reply in a personal letter, but, as other readers may share his skepticism, we prefer to examine the question here.

As to the war in the Pacific, the facts are so clear that we don't see how any one can dispute them. Britain, like the other imperial powers in Europe, was wholly unable to protect its possessions, much less help us. The Japanese conquered the colonies almost without hindrance. Hong Kong fell in a few hours, Singapore in a few days, Burma in a few weeks. The only effective resistance was in the Philippines. The Dutch possessions were a pushover. The French colonies, which also relied upon British protection, offered no resistance. Except for Gen. MacArthur's efforts and those of our fleet at the Battle of the Coral Sea, Australia could have been invaded.

The Japanese have been driven back and are now on the defensive in their own homeland, thanks solely to the United States. In the light of that record, nobody can pretend for a moment that our safety in the Pacific is dependent upon help from any other nation. Americans have welcomed the presence of a British fleet with ours in the Pacific, but, obviously, this reënforcement was not required to turn the tide. The Japanese navy had been mastered long before the British entered the game.

Likewise, in the European war we have shown that Britain needs us, but we do not need Britain. We have more than five armies in Germany; the British have something more than one and with the Canadians and other dominions have, perhaps, two. American paratroopers helped cover the crossing of the Rhine by the British after our armies had forced their own crossings. Americans won the Battle of the Bulge, the last important German counter-attack, with almost no help from our allies. In every index to military activity—ground taken, prisoners taken, casualties sustained and inflicted—the American contribution is shown to be preponderant.

In industrial capacity we are far ahead. We have supplied not only our own armies but to a very considerable extent our allies as well. We have by far the larger air force. Should we ever be attacked we would have little need of British support, tho, of course, we should welcome it if it were offered. For decades to come, all nations will be aware of the power of America as disclosed in this war and will not seek to challenge it. On the other hand, the demonstration of the British empire's inability to defend its rich possessions will continually tempt the ambitious.

The population of the United States is about twice that of Britain and the dominions combined. We have the best of strategical positions, with relatively weak nations as our neighbors and the widest of oceans separating us from potential enemies. After this war our position will be further strengthened by the acquisition of additional bases off our shores. Britain, on the other hand, will remain within shooting distance of the continent.

Britain will continue, moreover, in the same regrettable moral position that was hers when this war began. She holds much of her empire thru force, not free consent. At any moment when her efforts are required against a major enemy, she will find herself in difficulties in India, Egypt, Burma, Malaya, etc. She will, therefore, have to divert much of her strength, as she has in this war, to preventing or suppressing native uprisings. She cannot count upon help from these peoples as we could count upon the Filipinos.

If the events of this war have not shown that the safety of America "depends in no great degree upon Britain," they haven't shown anything.

RIBBON CLERKS IN UNIFORM

The public, accustomed to judge the American army officer by his conduct on the battlefield, will be shocked by the charges made by Montgomery Ward & Co. against some of the army officers who have been in control of the company's stores since they were seized illegally by the government.

Most people supposed that the seizure and operation of the Ward stores by the military was as distasteful to most army officers as it was to civilians generally. It was assumed that the officers so assigned would have preferred to be engaged in winning the war than in persecuting those who disagree with the administration. Undoubtedly the majority feel that way.

Many of the officers assigned to the Ward occupation were recruited from civilian life to operate the army's chain stores, known as post exchanges, and in his recruitment Gen. Somervell seems to have put a disproportionate number of ribbon clerks in uniform, who delight in throwing their weight around. Their reported conduct would bring as quick reprisals with combat troops as it would have in their former civilian positions. The remedy, so far as they personally are concerned, would seem to be to assign them to Okinawa or some other active sector.

The outrageous conduct toward Ward customers and employes cannot, however, be dismissed as the undisciplined vagaries of a few individuals. History shows that this sort of thing always happens when the military is put above the civilian power. The army has its way of doing things, appropriate to its problems, but its way is not that of civilian administration, whether in business or government. What is going on at Wards is a sample of what is planned for the whole country and the civilians in it if congress does not curb the usurpations of the Roosevelt gang and restrain their disposition to use the military to coerce the people.

HITLER'S HOARD

Hitler's actions often have belied his words, but in no particular more than in his treatment of gold. He repeatedly declared that in his world there wasn't any place for gold. The only sound basis for money, he said, was production; gold was an obsolete metal, and those countries which had a lot of it were stuck.

However, when he went into Vienna, his first act was to take over the Austrian gold reserve, which then amounted to 45.8 million dollars. Upon moving into Prague he again went straight for the vaults, but was disappointed because the Czechoslovakian gold stock had been partly deposited with the Bank of England, and to a lesser extent with the Federal Reserve Bank of New York. The Bank of England turned over to the Reichsbank 25 or 30 million dollars' worth of gold on the signatures of the bank officials Hitler had installed in the Czechoslovakian national bank.

Before starting to pick up gold about Europe where he could find it, Hitler's gold reserve had dropped to 29 million dollars. What he took from the Czechs and the Austrians put him somewhat over the 100 million dollar mark. He may have picked up a little more here and there, but with the warning thus given most of the gold was moved to London or America for safekeeping. France hid part of her large stock in Dakar, where Hitler couldn't find it, or in Martinique.

What is most remarkable is that when Gen. Patton's troops captured the German gold holdings in a salt mine at Merkers, the hundred millions of gold Hitler had after he looted Vienna and Prague was still intact. During the war, with his industries concentrated in producing war goods, Hitler was under pressure to find means to pay for badly needed imports from Switzerland, Sweden, Turkey, Spain, Portugal, and the countries which were neutral during the early part of the war. Nothing is as good as gold for international payments. But Hitler, who talked of spurning gold, wouldn't let Germany part with any of its holdings. In his talks he belittled gold, but his actions showed that he valued gold above everything else.

THE MONOPOLISTS ARE RUN TO COVER

Assistant Secretary of State W. L. Clayton's testimony in opposition to the scheme for establishing a monopoly of American overseas communications provided heartening evidence that there are still people in Washington willing to pay a little more than lip service to the competitive principle.

Mr. Clayton's assertion that no showing had been made that a merger was imperative in the interests of national security and public welfare destroyed the principal argument of proponents of the scheme. Secretary of the Navy Forrestal and a few other gentlemen on leave from Wall street, who tried to make hay during their Washington sojourn by advancing the monopoly thesis, had contended that a mandatory merger was necessary to protect our future diplomatic and military communications. The state department will have the largest peace time traffic in confidential dispatches and Mr. Clayton, as its spokesman, exposed the argument as fraudulent.

As Mr. Clayton well said, the "freedom of the press might be jeopardized" if facilities for the transmission of news were in the hands of a monopoly under burocratic control. Mr. Clayton cited the record of Press Wireless as an example of the efficiency with which leading newspapers and news associations had met their transmission problem when obstructed by high rates and poor service of existing communications companies. That record, he said, was all the evidence required to justify exempting the press from even the most limited sort of merger.

The logic of the state department's position seems to have eluded a good many other public officials in Mr. Roosevelt's administration. Mr. Clayton knows that an administration which professes abhorrence of monopolies in this country and of the kind of international combinations known as cartels can hardly reverse itself by coming out in favor of a merger of the sort proposed and still retain any appearance of logical consistency.

This fact also needs to be impressed upon a few senators who have permitted themselves to be impressed by the argument that American commercial aviation should be organized into a "flag" or "community" company to handle post-war overseas service. Only one air line has declared in favor of this arrangement and it happens to be the one which has enjoyed a virtual monopoly in the past in international flying.

The monopoly scheme for carriers was thoroly examined when our situation as regards merchant shipping was studied before the passage of the merchant marine act of 1936. That act deemed it necessary for the national defense and commerce of this country that we have a merchant marine privately owned and operated to carry a substantial portion of our foreign trade. These principles should govern when the end of the war brings up the problem of disposing of the vast fleet of cargo vessels built during the war.

There is no more justification for a monopoly in communications or in aviation than there is in shipping. We have flourished under conditions of competition. The burocrats who seek a method of extending their province thru monopoly must be turned back.

SCOREKEEPER'S REPORT

The allied invasion of Germany has already engulfed many of the major university towns. Here is the score to date, with dates of the founding of the institutions: Cologne, 1919; Bonn, 1818; Breslau, 1702; Frankfurt on the Main, 1914; Giessen, 1607; Heidelberg, 1386; Königsberg, 1544; Marburg, 1527; Münster, 1780; Göttingen, 1737; Würzburg, 1582. Various technical schools, not of university rank, might be added to the list, such as engineering colleges at Aachen, Breslau, Darmstadt, and Karlsruhe; an agricultural college at Bonn-Poppelsdorf, and a college of commerce at Mannheim.

* * *

Thus it appears that almost one-half of the universities in Germany have been captured; in some cases, such as Cologne, Königsberg, and Breslau, their buildings have been severely damaged or destroyed. The others, with dates of foundation, are Berlin, 1809; Erlangen, 1743; Freiburg, 1457; Greifswald, 1456; Halle, 1694; Hamburg, 1919; Jena, 1558; Kiel, 1665; Leipzig, 1409; Munich, 1826 [started at Ingolstadt in 1472]; Rostock, 1419, and Tübingen, 1477.

* * *

The first German university to be mentioned in classic English literature was Wittenberg, where Shakespeare's Hamlet learned to philosophize and to fence. Among his classmates were his bosom friend, Horatio, and his unreliable acquaintances, Rosencrantz and Guildenstern. Wittenberg caught Shakespeare's attention because of its prominence in the Reformation controversies, with Martin Luther and Melanchthon on its faculty. It was founded in 1502 and the real Hamlet who inspired the tragedy, probably an 11th century character, could never have studied there. This university dropped out of the picture by merging with Halle in 1815.

* * *

Shakespeare seems to have had some information on German student customs, for he causes Hamlet to address Rosencrantz and Guildenstern as if they were members of his student corps. ["Let me conjure you by the rights of our fellowship."] We cannot recall that he ever mentioned Oxford or Cambridge universities.

ALONG OUR STREET

Along our street as April came
The tulips lit their scarlet flame,
And nothing equaled in surprise
Forsythia's golden butterflies,
Their petal-wings like sunshine where
But yesterday the boughs were bare;
And daybreak hour and morning long
The martin's trill, the robin's song
Threaded the fragrant April rains
Like crystal pendants on silver chains.

But gold and scarlet, and song and sun,
Doubled, and trebled, and rolled in one
Could never match the April joy
I saw on one face, as a boy
In trim, brown khaki, with eager feet,
Came hurrying down along our street.

Was but a distant thing.

STOMACH DIGESTION.

AFTER we taste, chew, and swallow nutriment, we usually forget about it. So far as our thinking goes, the job is done. Actually however, this is but a fraction of the operations that remain. A juicy steak and a baked Idaho potato dripping with butter will not add an atom to our nourishment unless they undergo numerous chemical changes.

A number of vital organs, each with a highly specialized task, must prepare them for absorption and conversion into brain, muscle, and bone. How is this accomplished? After the saliva mixes with each mouthful, splitting some starch into sugar, the gastric juices go into action. These substances consist chiefly of pepsin, hydrochloric acid, mucus, and rennin and are secreted by the tiny glands lining the inside of the stomach.

Pepsin attacks protein, reducing it to a more readily digestible form. Hydrochloric acid enhances the action of pepsin. In addition, it helps in stimulating glands further along the intestinal tube and participates in the absorption of iron.

Much is made of "acid stomach" by many individuals who do not realize that this is a normal and necessary condition. It should not be dosed with pills or soda. In the presence of peptic ulcer, however, healing is prevented by this strong fluid and alkalis taken by mouth are effective in treatment. On the other hand, lack of acid is noted frequently in anemia and several types of digestive disorders. When needed, it can be administered internally in liquid or capsule form.

The contents of the stomach must be mixed thoroly before proceeding into the duodenum [first part of the small intestine]. Mucus adds liquid and rennin curdles milk. Various tumbling and squeezing movements assist in this churning process. The mixture, now referred to as "chyme," is still in a semi-solid state.

What prevents it from running directly into the bowel or, for that matter, back into the gullet [esophagus]? This is controled by valves—thickened bands of muscle—which are termed "sphincters." These structures regulate the traffic not only in this organ but thruout the entire alimentary canal. The one at the entrance to the stomach is called the "cardiac"; at the exit, the "pyloric."

They open and close at the proper time but, as they are influenced by the nervous system, they may become too energetic during emotional upsets. Pain may occur when they tighten up and the resulting difficulties are titled "cardiospasm" and "pylorspasm." Irritation from near-by ulcers may alter the performance. An infant may be born with an abnormally large pyloric valve which almost blocks the door to the intestine. Serious malnutrition may develop as milk cannot pass and surgery is demanded for relief.

During the two to seven hours that food remains in the gastric pouch, little absorption takes place. An exception to this rule is alcohol, which explains why its effect is noted so rapidly after consumption.

Slowly but surely the partially digested material is forced thru the valve and into the intestine. Violent exercise slows down progress, while fluids speed it along. In general, the average meal will arrive in the duodenum two to three hours after ingestion.

[Further articles on the digestive system will appear from time to time.]

OTHER WAYS TO TELL

Mrs. C. writes: I have been told that a doctor can determine if a woman is in the change of life by analyzing a 24 hour specimen of urine. Is this possible?

REPLY

A test such as this is possible but too difficult to make it practicable. Other methods are equally reliable.

The Broken Lyre

I heard a song pour from the soul
Of a little bird on a P & L pole;
A careless chapple, he moved to a spot
On the thingumajig where the stuff is hot,
"Poof!" went the fuse, and he was not.
Ah me, Ah you, Ah all of us,
George, Jane, and Maud, and you, too, Gus,
The world, it seems, gets wuss and wuss—
A bard evokes a tuneful lay,
Happy the springtime to enhance,
And falls with a hole burned in his pants.

An American in Germany

"Well, we made it at last [writes an American private]. You've no idea what a wonderful feeling it is to know that every step you take is a pair of G. I. boots kicking hell out of the sacred soil of Germany. This is my second day in Der Vaterland, and my mind is full of comparisons between here and France, altho the change isn't as great as one might think since the part of Alsace we have just left was Germanic in many respects. For one thing, it is cleaner here. The people are heater, and not as ragged. The manure piles have disappeared, altho closer investigation reveals that they have moved from in front of the house, where they were in France, to the courtyard or in back where they are out of sight.

"There are fewer men of military age by far than there were across the border, and this nonfraternization policy is as strange to us as it is to the populace. The policy, in my mind, is one of the best moves we have ever taken to insure that they'll never start another war. It shows we intend to be practical and businesslike in our occupation this time, not a big buddy and an international sucker again. No more of this stuff of our army bringing back to the United States a following of German wives or of American business men moving in practically behind the front line troops to set up business as usual and loan them money to get them back on their feet, as happened before.

"But there's no getting around it, it's as strange and abnormal for an American to act the role of conqueror as it is for the Krauts to grovel before one, and I think it will do us both good. But every one is watching every one else to see how it is going to work out. The civilians, on their part, are scared stiff and so anxious to do what they're told that they jump like you were cracking a whip. At first they tried terribly hard to be friendly, but got the cold shoulder but good, so now they are just watching and worrying.

"The troops are all anxious to rub it in a little, but don't know how far they dare go. And there are still a few fanatics around, and a few G. I.s who have learned too late not to trust them, and you hear quite a few stories that indicate that we're still fighting as good an underground war as Norway ever waged. So from now on when you close your letters with 'Be on the alert,' you can be sure I will take the words to heart.

"The setup is about the same as that in France except that where we were formerly billeted with civilian families we now, as conquerors, select a billet and turn the occupants out into the street. The office itself migrated from an old school building in France to a beautiful new German military school, its architecture similar to the new section of New Trier High school in Winnetka and not unlike parts of the new tech building at Northwestern. It's getting so that when they discharge me from the army and inquire whether I wish to go back to school, I will look blankly at the interviewer and reply: 'Back?'"

Hazards of War

An indignant young soldier in an army hospital in England reports that Purple Hearts are being scattered like chicken feed. The latest grounds for receiving the medal is trench foot, "which in 99 cases out of 100," he writes, "is due to the carelessness of the man."

THEY'RE REALLY TOUCHED

SOUTH PACIFIC, April 5—Recently we read that "veterans" of the production front have formed a national organization, the War Veterans of America, to seek equal rights with war veterans in the reconversion period.

To us in the South Pacific this seems a most progressive idea. We have always felt we didn't deserve all the job protection we are supposed to be getting from the G. I. bill of rights.

After all, some of us out here are getting killed and blinded and maimed, but what is this to the home veterans' hardships who are giving up butter, eggs, cheese, and cigarets?

Look at all the money we are making too! When the war is over we probably won't need jobs anyway. We'll just go home and retire on our disablement pensions and our bank accounts, bloated with high war wages.

And that $300 we get on mustering out of the service! That is too much, really. We think the home front "veterans" should ask for at least the same amount at war's end.

While we are worrying whether we shall live to see a post-war world, they are already figuring how to give us the rough end of the stick. What foresight!

Then, too, look at all the trades we are learning out here: cooking, sewing, doing our own laundry, how to field-strip an M-1 rifle. It just isn't fair at all!

We are all for this organization's plans to participate in future veterans' parades and other fun. There is only one trouble. They may have to keep their pace down to a trot as some of our boys with one leg missing will not be able to keep up with them.

JUST LEAVE IT TO THE OWI

Oconee, Ill., April 4—This morning's TRIBUNE carries the information that courses of study will be forced upon the fighting men in Europe when V-E day comes. This seems a very dangerous program, coming as it does from the same sources that concocted the work or fight bill. What will be the nature of these study courses? Will they teach European political methods? If so we have seen about all of that that we can stomach in this administration. I am not interested in the supposed subjects of the courses, but in the things that will be inserted in them under nicely phrased titles to deceive the students. J. D. REED.

A PRAYER FOR MR. DULLES

East Rockford, Ill., April 7—I read with amazement that John Foster Dulles agrees with Mr. Roosevelt that America should have one vote in the world assembly, while Britain has six, and Russia three. After America furnishing most of the money, most of the material, and most of the casualties, we should sit in the last row. What causes him to act this way? Any one who is either rational or patriotic, would say we should have 10 votes and England and Russia one each. Can you blame those who started the rumor that England and Russia have taken a small fraction of our lend-lease money and bought up a number of prominent Americans to betray their country?

I know a lot of Republicans and, without exception, they are furious at Mr. Dulles, Dewey, Sen. Austin, and those in our party who would sell America down the river. Possibly they may never fill Mr. Dulles with lead, as many like myself place him in the hands of Him who has said: "Revenge is Mine. I will repay." Mr. Dulles: This repayment goes on for eternity, without end. What does it profit a man if he gains the whole world, but suffers the loss of his soul? I will pray for you. C. E. CHAMBERLIN.

OAK PARK CROSSINGS

Oak Park, Ill., April 5—A letter in your March 26 issue contains several misstatements of fact about the crossing protection in Oak Park, which are unfair to the Illinois commerce commission and others. The writer charges a waste of man power in the maintenance of flagmen at the crossings. The fact is that the antiquated condition of the mechanical equipment at these crossings, and the appalling loss of life there because of the failure of protection caused the commission, on its own motion, to order the flagmen on these crossings. This did not involve any additional man power because the village consented to the closing of other crossings to permit the transfer of men, but in any case, the addition of flagmen at the crossings was on the commission's initiative. Neither the local newspaper nor the representatives of the village proposed such a solution or brought any pressure for it.

McCAHEY TELLS SCHOOL GAINS UNDER HIS LEAD

Blasts Pressure Groups, Smear Campaigns

Striking back at critics of the Chicago board of education, at "pressure group," and "smear campaigns," James B. McCahey, president of the board, said yesterday that the board has maintained the highest standards of education and has placed the school system on a sound financial basis.

McCahey told the Chicago Association of Commerce, at a luncheon meeting in the Hotel Sherman, that "things began to go better for the schools but not for the board of education, which earned the enmity of many who had profited by excessive or unnecessary appropriations," when it inaugurated a retrenchment program after he was elected president in 1933.

Assails Smear Campaign

Despite the enmity of organizations that formerly "controled" the board and the attacks that followed their elimination, the school board has maintained the standards of education, reduced its bonded indebtedness from 29 million to 10 million dollars, reduced its outstanding tax warrants more than 50 per cent, and has obtained lower interest rates while doing so, McCahey asserted.

"All this has been done under an annual budget of little more than 72 million dollars and a school tax rate which is $1.33, while the tax rates of some of the other school districts of Cook county run from $1.50 to $3.11," he said. Twenty-seven of the Cook county townships have higher school tax rates than Chicago, he added.

Taxpayers' Money Saved

Citing the organization and expansion of the public schools' vocational training program, tailored to meet the needs of 90 per cent of the city's school pupils, McCahey said, "The result is that today the public schools of Chicago stand in the forefront of vocational training thruout the country." He also cited these accomplishments of the board:

1. Purchase of textbooks thru public bidding, saving the taxpayers $150,000 a year.
2. Establishing the Jones Commercial High school, which trains pupils in stenographic, accounting, and secretarial work.
3. Health examinations and dental service for pupils.
4. Establishment of penny lunch rooms in grade schools and lunch rooms in high schools that serve meals at cost.

Seven Illinois Shoe Stores Are Suspended by OPA

Springfield, Ill., April 11 (AP)—Seven Illinois retail shoe stores operated by the Schiff company of Columbus, O., were suspended by OPA today from dealing in rationed shoes for periods ranging from 15 to 90 days. The suspension orders, involving alleged violations of rationing regulations, named stores at Jacksonville, Granite City, Alton, and Danville, and branches leased from the Springfield Dry Goods company, Gould's of Champaign and the Dickerson store at East St. Louis.

CIO Accused of Slowdown on Steel for Selfish Aims

Company's Story

Charges that the present strikes and slowdowns on the pickling lines at the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation's sheet and tin mill at Gary, Ind., were "instigated by the United Steel Workers' union [CIO] to prevent technological advancements that would enable fewer members to do the work" were made by corporaton officials yesterday.

The dispute over a new work schedule posted by the company March 11 kept the pickling lines idle yesterday because the workers did not show up. The dispute has caused a loss of 59,542 tons of tinplate and sheet metal needed for the production of varied war materials and kept nearly 1,000 employes from working for lack of materials.

History of Dispute Told

"From April, 1942, to February, 1943, the corporation spent $185,000 on technological improvements of its pickling lines," a corporation superintendent explained, "to increase production of sheet steel and tinplate.

"On Nov. 25, 1943, the war labor board issued a directive which allowed corporations to revise incentive work schedules without union endorsement.

"The company submitted the new work rate to the WLB and war production board and received permission to put it into effect. It was then submitted to the union—altho this was not necessary—but the union would not agree.

"Union officials were notified that the new schedule would be in effect as of midnight, March 11, and that one of the seven man crews operating the pickling lines would be transferred from each of the three shifts. Each shift had a total of four such crews.

Old Work Rate Ordered

"The three crews that came to work on each of two shifts March 11 operated at the new rate, which would have increased production 40 per cent and provided a 10 per cent incentive pay increase for the workers, until about noon that day when they were told to produce at the old rate by George Romanyak, shop committeeman for the union.

"The members on numerous occasions refused to attain the new rate of production. They were penalized first with warnings and then with disciplinary layoffs. After meetings with a federal conciliator, the union agreed to give the new work rate a fair trial starting March 22. The men then spent 10 days participating in the same slowdown tactics, so the management repeated its penalties.

"April 5, a five hour meeting was held with a federal conciliator. A company official warned that 'men who continued to conduct slowdowns on the pickling lines would be discharged and others would be found to take their places because the company had a moral and patriotic obligation to its government to fill its contracts.'

Records Made Elsewhere Cited

"Monday morning none of the employes of the pickling lines showed up, not even to conduct their slowdowns.

"Other pickling lines in other steel plants thruout the country are far exceeding the output of even our new schedule. At the Irvin works of the Carnegie-Illinois at Pittsburgh, Pa., the rate of production which has been maintained for several years is 325 feet of steel a minute. The new rate demand at Gary is only 280 feet."

Workers' Replies

Shear men on the pickling lines of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation's sheet and tin mill at Gary, Ind., whose refusal to meet company production schedules has occasioned a work stoppage, asserted yesterday that the stoppage is a lockout. The shear men are the employes who regulate the speed of the pickling lines.

They were asked why a rearrangement of the work schedule at the mill is more important than more than 50,000 tons of steel estimated to have been lost to war production by the work tieup.

Here's What They Say

Wenzel Wegman, 4139 Lincoln st., Gary: "We will not talk. You will have to get all your information from Alfred Rebollo" [international representative of the United Steel Workers].

Herman Gotti, 521 W. 8th av., Gary: "You will have to get your information at 100 E. 5th av. [the union headquarters]. I think it is a lockout myself. We have abided by all the company's regulations, but we are sent home."

Peter Popaditch, 1145 W. Van Buren st., Gary: "I won't say anything for THE TRIBUNE. They wouldn't print what we told them anyway."

"Not Giving Us Chance"

John Faga, 4064 Virginia st., Gary: "I have worked for the company since 1914. I have obeyed all the rules. I have put out all the work they have asked for, but they are not giving us a chance now. They let us work about four hours and send us home."

Cecil Miller, 408 Adams st., Gary: "I really think it is unfair for you to question me. If you were to ask one of the company officials the same question they would not answer it because their public relations office is supposed to handle all information. Our union is in the same position with us. However, I will say I have worked for this company for 10 years. I have obeyed the rules and regulations, and it is a lockout."

OPA SUSPENDS STOVE COMPANY, 2 SHOE STORES

Thomas E. Fairchild, hearing commissioner of the office of price administration, yesterday suspended Sidney Schrayer & Co., 917 W. 18th st., wholesale stove distributor, from handling rationed goods for three months, with an additional three months' probation. The firm was charged with buying and selling rationed stoves without using certificates, and with failure to keep records. Fairchild also suspended two shoe stores for the duration of rationing. They are the Good Luck Shoe store, 301 E. 47th st., and the Esquire Men's store, Gary, both owned by the partnership of H. Moshinsky and S. Malin. Together they were charged with being 1,800 pairs short in their inventory accounts.

WAYNE TAYLOR RESIGNS POST AS COMMERCE AID

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., April 11—The White House today announced the resignation of Wayne Chatfield Taylor of Chicago as undersecretary of commerce and President Roosevelt nominated as his successor Alfred Schindler, St. Louis, Mo., business executive who held an administrative post under Jesse Jones, former secretary of commerce.

Alfred Schindler

In submitting his resignation to the President, Taylor asked that he be transferred to an agency connected with "the international economic and social fields." He said he felt he could be more useful to the government in that work, and that Secretary of Commerce Wallace had agreed with him. Altho the White House did not indicate what Taylor's future job might be, it was reported he will be appointed to a state department post.

Taylor, who is 51, was a Chicago investment banker before entering government service in 1933 as executive assistant to the administrator of the agricultural adjustment administration. He was an assistant treasury secretary from 1936 to 1939, and European delegate of the American Red Cross until shortly before his appointment as undersecretary of commerce to Jones in November, 1940.

BLAME SUICIDE OF WIFE, 18, ON MARITAL BREAK

A verdict of suicide while despondent over domestic difficulties was returned yesterday by a coroner's jury at an inquest into the death Monday of Mrs. Lucille Erickson, 18, mother of a child, 2, and wife of Eugene Erickson, a sailor just returned from the Pacific. Mrs. Erickson swallowed poison in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albie Pettit, 1706 Warren blvd., with whom she lived, shortly after learning her husband had started a counter-suit for divorce. The sailor told the jurors he had not seen his wife for almost a year and while overseas had been notified that she had commenced divorce proceedings. Erickson said he refused to sign papers because he wished to obtain custody of the child. Before taking poison Mrs. Erickson penned a note reading, "I can't go on worrying. No baby, no husband. I love Gene very much, but found it out too late."

Glass Workers Ordered to End Ottawa Strike

The regional war labor board yesterday ordered 100 members of the Federation of Glass, Ceramic, and Silica Sand workers [CIO] to return to work by tomorrow in the plant of the Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass company at Ottawa, La Salle county. Plant officials said the walkout last Thursday halted production of cockpit enclosures for war planes.

There's still a lot of war ahead!

FOR LARGE-SCALE BOMBINGS AHEAD, the Army and Navy have ordered thousands of a newly invented pilot suit that prevents the often fatal "black-out" of power dives. To make the fabric required for these suits . . . fats are essential.

NEW ROCKET BOMBS to cover our men during invasion landings . . . a hundred million dollars worth a month . . . are being turned out at top speed for our fighting forces. To make and fire these rockets requires tons of fats.

STEPPED-UP INDUCTION of draft-age men has increased the need for vaccines that help protect these men against many diseases. Fats help to make the tons of these necessary vaccines.

FATS ARE ALSO ESSENTIAL to make soaps for our fighting men (each man gets 15 bars a month) . . . as well as for soaps on the home front. To make only 6 bars takes 1 pound of fats.

There's still a great need for used fats

TO KEEP FIGHTING until the Jap war is over and to meet minimum civilian requirements are making deep inroads in our fat supplies. Production of hundreds of essentials for the battlefield and home front — fabrics, paints, civilian soaps, synthetic rubber and explosives — requiring fats in their manufacture is going full blast. Used fats must be saved in the kitchens of America! So won't you save even the smallest amounts and turn them in to your meat dealer? Remember, you get 2 red points and 4 cents for each pound. Keep saving, every day, until we've won the war! This message has been approved by WFA and OPA and paid for by Industry.

GREEN STUDIES END OF HOUSING TAX EXEMPTION

Fight Brews in House on Chicago Project

BY GEORGE TAGGE
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Springfield, Ill., April 11—Gov. Green said today he is studying the question of exempting public housing from property taxes, a problem given new importance by the joint proposals of Green and Mayor Kelly of Chicago for 100 million dollars worth of city owned housing in Chicago. This housing would be tax free under laws which were enacted in 1934 and 1938 in order to get federal housing projects for Illinois.

Rep. Armstrong [R., Chicago] is preparing a bill to knock out the tax exemption feature of the housing program, and Majority Leader Harris was asked yesterday whether the state administration would support such a measure. He said then he would seek the governor's views.

See New House Battle

A storm was reportedly brewing in the house over the housing legislation, altho the key bill was passed yesterday, 120 to 7, with 24 members silent on roll call. Companion bills were held on second reading, and some proponents feared that an attempt to advance them to passage stage might bring on a real battle.

Many members who voted for the key bill were grumbling today that they did so under protest and intimated they might not stay in line on the remainder of the program.

If Gov. Green should support the ending of tax exemption it would smooth the course of the bills in the house, observers said.

The final bill of the Kelly-Green housing series was introduced in the senate today by Sen. Downing [R., Macomb]. It calls for a 10 million dollar appropriation as the state's contribution toward slum clearance. This money would be allocated on the basis of population so that Chicago would get about 5 millions. Chicago will seek approval of voters June 4 of a bond issue to raise a like amount, with the intention of borrowing thereafter about 90 millions from a Federal agency.

Covenant Fight Resumed

Bills aimed at ending restrictive covenants on property were introduced in the house today. This session's drive to eliminate the use of property owner's covenants to keep Negroes out of certain neighborhoods takes two forms. Under a bill sponsored by Rep. Jenkins [R., Chicago] covenants now in existence would be invalidated. Another bill, sponsored by Democrats, would affect covenants drawn after July 1.

In past sessions the anti-restrictive covenant bills have precipitated some of the hottest legislative battles on record. Indications are that the proposed legislation will run into equally determined opposition at this session.

World News Freedom Favored by State Senate

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Springfield, Ill., April 11—Inclusion of a provision in the peace treaty to provide for world-wide freedom in the gathering and transmission of news was advocated today in a resolution adopted by the Illinois senate. It was sent to the house for concurrence. Sen. Schwartz [D., Chicago] sponsored the resolution.

Physically Handicapped Work Well in Comparison

A study of 2,858 physically handicapped workers and 5,523 able bodied workers showed that the work of the handicapped compared favorably with that of the others. The study was reported by Dr. Verne K. Harvey, medical director of the United States civil service commission, and Dr. E. Parker Luongo, assistant medical director, in the Journal of the American Medical association.

GREEN REJECTS PLEA THAT HE DROP BRANDON

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Springfield, Ill., April 11—Gov. Green refused today to withdraw his reappointment as state welfare director of Rodney H. Brandon, against whom a revolt is flaring in Republican ranks.

Republican senators who are attempting to put the public welfare department under new control said they would continue their fight against Brandon. The senate executive committee, before the governor's letter was made public, postponed action for a week on the reappointment of Brandon and other members of Gov. Green's cabinet.

The governor's letter disclosing his stand for Brandon was addressed to Sen. Lantz [R., Congerville], chairman of the Republican caucus, which voted 17 to 12 yesterday to ask that the Brandon nomination be withdrawn.

Indians were first Scalp Specialists!
BUT I LIKE THOMAS' METHOD BETTER
Says ALEXANDER D'ARCY
Now Appearing in "TEN LITTLE INDIANS"
Moving to the Studebaker on April 15

While history shows that the Indians were definitely the first "scalp specialists" in America, it also shows that science has come a long ways since those pioneer days. The modern "scalp specialists" have no flair for the Wild West—in fact they are expert in the art of bringing soothing, restful, relief to scalps that itch and burn because of local irritation (such as dandruff).

Thomas experts have treated more than a quarter-million persons during the past 20 years (and never lost a scalp)! Such popularity IS deserved . . . deserved because Thomas quickly removes those aggravating dandruff scales and leaves your scalp feeling fresh, clean, and healthy. Come in today for free consultation and advice and see for yourself exactly how this reliable, proved method works. You'll enjoy Thomas treatment!

A Sensational NEW MOTHPROOFER!
one application of O-Cedar Perma-Moth mothproofs for the life of the fabric*

Great news! You don't have to risk precious clothing, blankets, sweaters, upholstery, rugs with temporary, "hit-or-miss" mothproofing methods any longer. Now there's a new way to mothproof, so different that when properly applied one application protects for the life of the fabric!

Won't Wear Off or Brush Off

This sensational new development is O-Cedar Perma-Moth, a crystal-clear, odorless liquid which penetrates so thoroughly it literally becomes part of the fabric. Does not wear or brush off, is not affected by dry cleaning. Re-apply only after washing or wet cleaning. Odorless, stainless, non-inflammable. Economical.

* Because mothproofing by spraying is unreliable the O-Cedar guarantee applies only if Perma-Moth is applied by sponging (cloth or sponge) or dipping.

"It takes a GAS FLAME to bake right!"

Mrs. Chicago can say that again—and does! In homes using modern equipment, 910,000 Chicagoans, or more than 98%, are "Cooking with Gas!"

FEATHER-LIGHT cakes ::: flaky, mouth-melting pie crust ::: crunchy cookies that give the kids that itch to snitch—these are the rewards of Gas Flame baking.

"Baking's fun," says Mrs. Chicago: "I just follow the recipe: My wonderful Gas range does all the work and I get all the credit: It takes a Gas Flame to bake right!"

Right! Reliable temperature control is the key to baking success: In a modern Gas range you just set the control dial at the temperature indicated: Then the Gas Flame, sensitive to the call for the closest shading of heat, quickly brings the temperature to the right point—and holds it there! Proper ventilation; too; is important: In the oven of a modern Gas range, hot; flavor-sealing fresh air circulates evenly around pastries and roasts:

For hurry-up meals; for roasting; frying; broiling; boiling, as well as for delicious baking; it takes a Gas Range to cook right:

Plan to buy a modern GAS Range when appliances are again available. Enjoy Gas Flame cooking:, Meanwhile help our Government conserve fuel—don't use more Gas than you need. party. He said he himself was a Communist party organizer.

Q.—Was there any reaction among the workers in the shop against the political action activities? A.—Much. Many protested they didn't want it.

When Baer asked him to join the Communists, Morgan said, Baer told him that "it was best for the workers and didn't exploit them like capitalism. At the time, I remember, he referred to Mr. Wright, president of the Flexible Shaft company as 'an old capitalistic—— getting $77,000 a year.'"

Among the 82 union members who opposed communism and the PAC, Morgan said, and withdrew from local 1150 as a result, was Elmer Churchill. Judge McKinlay was told that Churchill has been the target of heavy steel bolts and ball bearings thrown from behind while he was at his machine in the shaft plant.

Churchill was in court.

Political Motive Admitted

Morgan testified Ed Palmer, one of the workers who joined the Communist party, was a grinder on the company's pay roll when he signed up. "Now," he testified, "Palmer is a field representative for the united electrical workers."

After Baer told him Krane, the local's business manager, was a member of the "C. P."—Communist party—Morgan said Krane wanted to arrange the dates on which the shop stewards held their meetings. Morgan continued:

"Krane explained that there were 24 shops represented in local 1150, that he wanted to attend all meetings to 'watch the progress of political activities in the shops,' and that he therefore had to arrange so the stewards of the various shops met on different nights."

Morgan will continue his testimony today.

CICERO SCHOOL BOARD CONTEST LIVELIEST OF 194

The Cicero Education council's attempt to elect three more members of the board of education of Cicero elementary school district 99, thereby giving the council six board members, provides the only spirited contest in the election Saturday of school boards in 194 Cook county districts.

The council has indorsed Anton E. Svec, who was appointed last year to fill a vacancy on the board; Rudolph Tillman, and John J. Bernanek. Four other candidates, including Donald O'Brien, president of the school board, also are seeking election.

One of the four unindorsed candidates, Anton Svec, was entered in the race by O'Brien to divert votes from the Anton E. Svec indorsed by the council, it has charged. Last year the council elected three members of the board.

Three candidates are seeking the two vacancies on the board of Morton township high school district 201. Richard W. Hoffman and Joseph Mrizek, incumbents, are opposed by Edwin K. Kanta.

CIO and the War: 2 Stories About Two Union Leaders

A Draft 'Disgrace'

New York, April 11 [Special]—Angry members of local draft board 213 disclosed today that Thomas V. De Lorenzo, CIO [illegible]r leader, whose scheduled induction into the army today was postponed by personal intervention of National Selective Service Director Hershey, had notice of Hershey's action before the board did. De Lorenzo, who admitted before a congressional investigating committee in 1943 that he has used eight different names "when they came in handy," has been blamed for many slowdowns and war work stoppages.

Howard J. Frank, chairman of board 213, said the board's first knowledge of Hershey's action came early Monday in a telephone call from De Lorenzo, and that official notification did not arrive until several hours later. He said the labor leader phoned the board to announce the stay and leave a list of places where the draft officials might get in touch with him if they wished after receiving confirmation from Washington.

Induction Order Stands

"The whole thing is disgraceful," Frank exclaimed. He added that the board has not rescinded the induction order and that it will be carried out unless De Lorenzo, in his new appeal, is successful in having himself removed from his present 1-A status.

De Lorenzo, 36, is president of local 354 of the CIO United Automobile Workers, representing workers of the now closed Brewster Aeronautical corporation. Since Brewster closed down several months ago, he has been known as a local leader without a local.

De Lorenzo is seeking to avoid military service on the grounds he is essential to negotiations between his union and Brewster. In a congressional investigation of production failures at Brewster, De Lorenzo admitted that he had lied in his application for a job at Brewster, in his 1940 income tax return, in his draft board record, and in a civil service rating application.

Got 30 Day Sentence

Last August he was convicted of having sworn falsely in informing the civil service commission that he had no criminal record and was sentenced to $500 fine and 30 days imprisonment. He was released on bond pending appeal, but when the government learned that existence of a bail bond was blocking his army induction the bond was canceled last March 5.

In Washington it was stated that Hershey postponed the induction after a delegation of union members called on him. Hershey was not available today for comment and a spokesman said there was no one in his office who knew about the matter.

Letter from Europe

New York, April 11 [Special]—A former international representative of the CIO United Automobile Workers union, now an army private overseas, has written the bosses of his union that soldier reaction against war time strikes is "terrific" and that veterans may return home "very, very anti-union minded."

This was disclosed today when the current issue of the United Automobile Worker, official publication of the union, carried the text of the letter, which was written to R. J. Thomas, president, and George Addes, secretary. The writer was Pvt. Robert Stone, who has been wounded twice in action in Europe.

Reports on Soldier Reaction

"Please," Stone appealed, "for the good of the nation and the lives of the boys up front and for the continuance of our great organization in the post war period, please do everything you can to remedy and prevent stoppages and strikes."

Stone said that news of such happenings as the Chrysler Dodge plant strike in Detroit and John L. Lewis' serving of a 30 day notice of intention to strike in the coal fields has provoked remarks such as these from soldiers:

"Why the hell do we need unions if they still strike when you say they pledge not to strike?"

"Don't they know there's a war going on?"

"What's the difference between strikes on the production front and a supply train on its way to the fighting front being blown to bits by enemy bombs?"

"Are we giving our lives and getting wounded so that some crackpots can sabotage production?"

"No G.I. Supports Strikes"

Stone said he has talked with many union members in the army and "I have yet to meet one G.I. who believes in strikes." He said he is greatly worried over the attitude of returning veterans toward unions.

"I know many of our shop grievances are justified," he wrote, "but the fact remains we still have to win this war in Europe and the Pacific. The sooner we win the less number of lives will be lost and the quicker all of us will get home."

BATTLE BILLS TO KILL PUBLIC AID COMMISSION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Springfield, Ill., April 11—Bills to abolish the Illinois public aid commission encountered strong opposition tonight and were held for another week by the senate committee on efficiency and economy. Some senators predicted the bills would be buried in the committee.

Chairman Edward L. Ryerson of the commission testified at a hearing that the administration of old age pensions and other forms of assistance has improved greatly since the commission was created in 1943.

Joel Hunter, president of the United Charities of Chicago, and George J. Klupar, Chicago welfare commissioner, also testified that the handling of public aid has improved since it was taken over by the commission.

Neufchatel and Cream Cheese Ceilings Reduced

A reduction in price ceilings on neufchatel and cream cheeses will become effective next Monday, the office of price administration announced yesterday. The price cut, which will average less than a cent a pound over the country, results from a reduction at wholesale. Cents-per-pound ceilings also were set for cheeses containing a minimum of 23 per cent milk fat.

SPONSORS WASH HANDS OF TAX REVISION BILLS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Springfield, Ill., April 11—The Illinois senate's Butler committee, which was appointed by Gov. Green to prepare measures seeking statewide uniformity of property tax assessments, today washed its hands of the program.

"The committee is freed from responsibility for whatever happens," Sen. Walker Butler [R., Chicago], committee chairman, announced after the senate had refused to pass the first bill in the series of 151 measures.

The rejected bill called for creation of an appointive office of assessment supervisor in 100 downstate counties to bring about assessment uniformity.

Indications were that unless unexpected support comes for the program nothing will be done to revise assessing laws during the 1945 session.

With 26 votes needed for senate passage of the first measure, only 13 senators voted for the bill. All but one of the Cook county Democrats sat silent during the roll call, and three downstate Republicans cast negative votes.

WIRE UNIONISTS ASK WLB PANEL TO KEEP PEACE

To prevent work stoppages in the communications industry, if disputes arise between the American Federation of Labor and the Western Union Telegraph company in negotiations soon to begin over a union contract, the national coordinating board of the AFL unions, representing 50,000 employes, yesterday asked the war labor board to set up immediately a panel ready for action if negotiations reach a deadlock.

The action was taken by the AFL board in the Stevens hotel, where it is drafting contract demands on the company. The board also sent a request to Ralph H. Kimball, Western Union vice president in charge of industrial relations, to meet the union representatives April 23 for negotiations.

AFL unionists said that the coming negotiations with the company will be especially complex, because of the different work classifications that existed in the Postal Telegraph company's personnel before it was merged with Western Union.

More About "The Glass Menagerie" Award, with Notes on the Playwrights, Music Books, Etc.

"Othello" not only had split reviews, it had to split intermission talk with the news that "The Glass Menagerie" had won the New York drama critics' award for the best play of the season, and on the first ballot, too. It got nine out of a possible 14 votes, with "Harvey," "A Bell for Adano," and "I Remember Mama" pulling up at the rear, and it might have had 10 had Howard Barnes of the Herald-Tribune not gone overseas before it arrived, leaving his proxy for the rabbit show. He might have changed his mind had he stuck around.

Most of the magazine critics voted for "The Glass Menagerie," which should make interesting reading when they reach the stands, and there was a special citation for Tennessee Williams, for his "sensitive understanding of poor troubled human beings." Eddie Dowling writes, "Gosh, you should see the lines—a block long." He has it coming. The way he stuck to that play in its darkest hours—and there were plenty of them before it caught on here—he might have been the model for the line that may have won Mr. Williams that citation. Know the one I mean? The gentleman caller's "I'm disappointed, but I'm not discouraged."

Getting Busy Again

The Playwrights company, which made such a brave start and then lapsed into inactivity while its members were active in war work, is getting busy again. In addition to that Robert Sherwood play for Spencer Tracy, it has plenty of other plans for next season. After the Tracy play will come S. N. Behrman's "Dunnigan's Daughter," and then something new by Elmer Rice. Fourth on the list is Maxwell Anderson's "A Girl from Lorraine," a story of Joan of Arc with some scenes in modern times, and with Ingrid Bergman co-starred with Raymond Massey, who will direct. This will mark Miss Bergman's first stage appearance since the 1940 revival of "Liliom."

Notes

Two music books due before long are Lotte Lehmann's "More than Singing," which Boosey and Hawkes will release the first of June, and "Galli-Curci's Life of Song," by C. E. Le Massena, due from the Paebar company in May. . . . José Iturbi, due in recital April 22, rivals the imaginary Mme. Pushkin of "The Voice of the Turtle." He was born during a performance of "Carmen," altho not in the theater, as Señora Iturbi was rushed home in time. . . . First reports of Antony Tudor's "Undertow," given its première at the Metropolitan Opera house, are not promising. Toumanova wasn't in the cast, after all. . . . "I Remember Mama" won the Theater Club's prize as the best play of the year. . . . Harlan Tarbell, the magician, will be at the Civic Opera house the night of April 29.

Bank, Medical Fields List 291 Women's Jobs

The medical and financial industries offer a wide variety of opportunities for girls and women. A total of 291 different jobs are listed as permanently for women in these fields, it was revealed yesterday in a study of the fields by the women's executive committee of the Illinois office of public instruction.

The reports, said to be the only detailed studies of their kind, will be published by Vernon L. Nickell, state superintendent of schools, for free distribution to schools and libraries. They are the fifth and sixth to be completed in a series of 26 studies covering the nation's major industries.

The medical industry report lists more than 195 jobs for women, available to untrained as well as trained women.

Jobs requiring no particular skill are open in the medical field to women under 18 and to those over 70 years of age. They include messenger girl, watchwoman, porter, cleaning, and laundry delivery woman. Hospital dietitians are required to have four years of college plus one year's experience. Salaries vary according to responsibility and length of service, up to $4,000 a year. The income for women doctors is unlimited.

The finance and banking survey lists 96 different jobs for women. A high school education, a good memory, skill in mathematics, and the ability to meet people are requirements. Loan companies also hire women executives.

Mrs. Anne V. Zinser is chairman of the women's executive committee.

Wise Mothers Do Not Force Babies to Eat

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1945: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

The baby had been bathed and was in his little blue two piece sleeping suit in his high chair. Pink cheeked and blue eyed, he looked like a cherub.

His mother sat down before him and began to feed him his strained beet soup.

"O," I heard her groan softly, "I hope he's not going to begin that!"

"What?" I asked and turned around from the dessert I was making, only to behold "our baby" sitting very upright, with his small mouth compressed into a little button rosebud, a gleam in his blue eyes.

"Ellen's baby got that habit and drove her almost crazy," exclaimed the baby's mother. "I won't let my baby get that way. I'm not going to force this on him. Either he's not hungry because those teeth are hurting him, or he doesn't like this, or he's tired of it. I'm going to switch to the strained apricots which he loves and see what happens."

In a few minutes the small dish of fruit was ready, the tightly buttoned little rosebud uncurled, and the apricot puree was polished off in no time.

His mother heaved a sigh. "That hurdle passed," she said.

"O, he may never repeat that performance," I said.

The very best way to cure undesirable behavior at meal times is not to let it get started. To be sure, you can't always prevent it, but certainly forcing food on a child who, for one of many reasons, may not want it, is almost certain to set up a resistance and sometimes to set up little ways, such as locked lips, rolling the food around in the mouth, or even spitting it out.

Inquiring Camera Girl

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submited by Mrs. Earl Gruits, 4422 Leland av.]

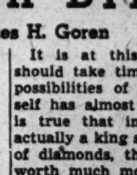
THE QUESTION

What do you think of the blue denim overalls and plaid shirts the girls are wearing now?

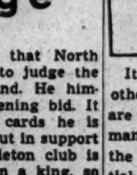
WHERE ASKED

Washburne Trade school, 1225 Sedgwick st. [asked of students].

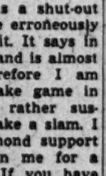
THE ANSWERS



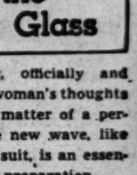
Lawrence Pezen, 1636 Le Moyne st.—They aren't bad garb for a picnic or a farm but on the streets of Chicago they look completely out of place. When I take a girl out I want to be sure I'm with a girl, not some one in overalls. They should leave boys' clothes for the boys and dress like girls. It would be more proper.



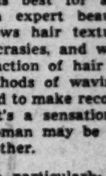
Frank Salay, 2040 W. 23d st.—Overall-wearing girls look like they were brought up in a barn. I'll admit it attracts attention from men but it's the wrong kind of attention. I imagine that many older people who see these girls think: "The poor girl . . . she probably hasn't anything else to wear."



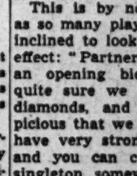
Sylvester Kavcic, 2313 S. Seeley av.—Personally I think they look stupid—strictly like alley cats. But a few started wearing them and it's another fad the girls have adopted. We'll just have to be patient until the girls grow up or get over it. If they could see themselves they wouldn't let any one else see them.



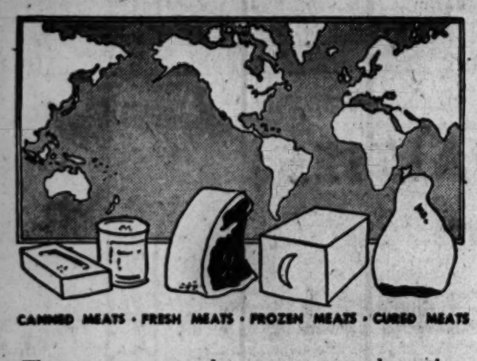
Dale Venander, 5523 S. Claremont av.—Give me a girl in dainty feminine clothing any day. I don't care what she wears at home but when she goes out she should at least look like a girl. I'll bet service men returning from overseas wonder what's going on here when they see the girls dressed as so many are.



Michael Dunn, 6009 S. Komensky av.—I wear overalls during the week at work and I don't see how girls can stand wearing them when they don't have to. Slacks are all right, but overalls—well, that's different. I won't say they don't do anything for the girls. They do plenty—they make them sloppy and tough looking.



Joseph Panczak, 1549 Chestnut st.—I'm glad the girls aren't allowed to wear them to this school. I'd rather see girls in dresses, skirts and blouses and other feminine clothes. I can't understand why girls with good educations and proper training want to make themselves look so sloppy and tough.



CANNED MEATS · FRESH MEATS · FROZEN MEATS · CURED MEATS

The more men we have overseas and on the seas, the more meat the government must ship to maintain them.

Frozen boneless beef helps conserve America's meat supply; saves waste and time in "carving"—and is it popular with the fighters! It comes in handy boxes and takes 40 per cent less shipping and storage space than sides of beef used during World War I. This is one of the great war developments of the meat packing industry and the U. S. Army Quartermaster Corps.

Men in hospitals and rest camps and released U. S. prisoners deserve and get the best meat—and plenty of it.

FLOATING REFRIGERATORS

New "BRL's" (Barge, Refrigerated, Large) now operating in the Pacific. Each of these carries 64 carloads of frozen meats plus 500 tons of fresh vegetables, cheese, eggs and perishable produce plus equipment for producing huge quantities of ice cream.

These pictures show a few reasons why military needs for meat continue at a peak. Also, fewer meat animals are coming to market. That means less meat for civilians.

So meal planning is easier after you see what you can buy—not before you go out to shop. Remember, whatever meat there is, it has complete, highest quality proteins that make all meat "a yardstick of protein foods."

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 diamond	Pass	1 heart	Pass
2 no trump	Pass	5 diamonds	Pass
6 diamonds	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: five of clubs.

In slam bidding the most important single factor is the preliminary estimate of the trick taking possibilities of the hand. The judging of the hand is more important than the actual bidding technique.

It has many times been observed that where the responder has a hand that is equal to an opening bid, and his partner opens the bidding and subsequently jumps, the ability to take 12 tricks is very probable, and it is the responding hand more likely than not, that must control the situation.

In today's hand South opened quite naturally with one diamond and North's response of one heart is well chosen. The weakness of the suit itself is no objection, because the takeout is only a temporary measure. South is obliged to bid again and the strong diamond support can be shown next round. The rebid of two no trump requires no comment.

It is at this point that North should take time out to judge the possibilities of the hand. He himself has almost an opening bid. It is true that in high cards he is actually a king short, but in support of diamonds, the singleton club is worth much more than a king, so that in trick taking potentialities he really has the equivalent of an opening bid. A slam therefore is likely. His bid of five diamonds, a powerful jump, strongly urges partner to proceed.

This is by no means a shut-out as so many players are erroneously inclined to look upon it. It says in effect: "Partner, my hand is almost an opening bid; therefore I am quite sure we can make game in diamonds, and I am rather suspicious that we can make a slam. I have very strong diamond support and you can count on me for a singleton somewhere. If you have not stretched a point in your jump to two no trump I would be happy to hear you contract for slam."

South's problem is not very difficult. He had something to spare when he bid two no trump and the holes in his trump suit should no longer cause him any concern. South must avoid the pitfall of trying for the slam in no trump, because it is a moral certainty that North has a short suit which will be of value at diamonds but not in no trump.

TOMORROW'S PROBLEM.

Thru the Looking Glass

It being spring, officially and otherwise, many a woman's thoughts are turning to the matter of a permanent wave. The new wave, like the spring hat and suit, is an essential of pre-summer preparation.

We've had lots of inquiries lately about permanents of all sorts and we're afraid we've been able to give only rather unsatisfactory answers. There's just no predicting what permanent is best for any woman. Only an expert beauty operator, who knows hair texture and all its idiosyncrasies, and who also knows the reaction of hair to chemicals and methods of waving, seems to us qualified to make recommendations. What's a sensational success for one woman may be an awful mess for another.

We don't believe particularly in the cheap permanent. You get what you pay for. The good operator in the good shop promises skill, good materials, and care in the execution of the wave—and where hair is concerned it's always better to have these things on your side. The "bargain" wave is apt to be too hastily given, and given by an operator whose skill, experience, and conscientiousness leave a lot to be desired.

But no one can wave sick hair successfully. Don't think for a minute that a new wave will rejuvenate your locks; it won't. It never was designed to do that. If your hair is limp and lacks luster the best pre-permanent investment is a course of conditioning treatments. As a matter of fact, if the limitations of your budget make you choose between the wave and the corrective treatments, let the wave go and spend the money for the treatments. Your wave, actually, will only be as good as your hair is healthy!

Engagement of Dorothy Olson and Lt. Allen Jr. Announced

BY JUDITH CASS

WHEN Lt. Calvin Durand Allen Jr. of the army air forces returns from Waycross, Ga., on his next leave, probably not before June 1, he and Miss Dorothy Jane Olson will be married. Announcement of their engagement is being made by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hermann Olson of Evanston. Lt. Allen is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen of Winnetka.

Miss Olson attended Northwestern university. Her fiance attended the North Shore Country Day and the Hill schools and Dartmouth college. He served overseas in the European theater for 15 months. Lt. Allen's sisters, Mrs. Robert C. Meleney and Mrs. John Patrick Trench, are occupying their parents' home in Winnetka while their husbands are away in service, and Mr. and Mrs. Allen are living in the Winnetka home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. Hubert Allen, who are in California.

Friends of Niles Trammell of New York, who lived in Chicago for several years, will be interested to learn of his marriage last Saturday when he took as his bride, Mrs. Cleo M. Black of New York, daughter of Mrs. Frederick R. Allen and the late Mr. Allen of San Francisco. The ceremony took place in the Queenstown, Md., home of Mrs. Arthur Kudner and the late Mr. Kudner, former Chicagoans.

Mrs. Kudner attended the bride, whose previous marriage to Harcourt Black ended in divorce some years ago. Mr. Trammell and his first wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Ruth Trammell, were divorced March 30. W. Alton Jones served as best man for Mr. Trammell, who was born in Marietta, Ga., and who served in the army during and after World War I.

Other Engagements

Other romantic news coming from the east is contained in the announcement Mrs. Richard Boyd Ayer of New York has made of the engagement of her daughter, Miss Marie Harriman, to Ensign C. Mathews Dick Jr., son of Mr. Dick and of Mrs. J. Gordon Douglas of New York. Ensign Dick is a grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. Albert B. Dick of Lake Forest.

Miss Harriman, daughter of the late Alan Harriman, was introduced to society at the Junior assembly in New York in December, 1943. She is a graduate of the Chapin school. Ensign Dick was graduated from St. Mark's school and was in the class of '46 at Harvard university, at which he was a member of the Hasty Pudding-Institute of 1770, the Fly, and the D. K. E. clubs.

Mr. and Mrs. James B. Pond of Jersey City, N. J., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Jean Woodford, to Lt. John Evan Dever of the marines, son of Mr. and Mrs. Evan John Dever of Highwood. Miss Pond is a graduate of Lawrence college and attended the Radcliffe College Graduate school. Lt. Dever attended Lawrence college and received training at Northwestern and Purdue universities.

On the Calendar

The name chosen for the annual spring sale of the woman's guild and auxiliary of Christ church, Winnetka—a May Pole fair—would in itself entice north shore residents to the parish house on April 28. From 10 a. m. to 5:30 p. m. an array of attractive gifts will be offered for sale, under the direction of Mrs. W. Donald Roberts, with Mrs. Joseph C. Houston as co-chairman.

Mrs. Ernest S. Ballard, who is in charge of decorations, is planning to have a gay May pole erected in the center of the room, with ribbon streamers extending to the various booths, which will include flower and bakery booths and a table of baby gifts. In the guild room upstairs there will be a display of tables set with attractive linens for which Mrs. Roy Smith and Mrs. Stanley Rich and their committee will take orders. Luncheon will be served at noon and at 1 p. m. under the direction of Mrs. C. Richard Parsons. Shoppers who drop in around 4 p. m. will be invited to tea.

When the spring sales were started years ago, the workers were elated when they raised $50, and the peak for the church's annual rummage sale, held each fall, was $200. Last year the rummage sale netted $10,000, and the spring benefit well over $1,000.

Here and There

Mr. and Mrs. Hall Adams [Lenore Maley] of Winnetka are being congratulated on the birth of a son, their third child, Monday in the Wesley hospital. The baby will be named for his uncle, Lt. Alexander Maley of the naval reserve, who is serving in Europe. Little Alex and his brother and sister, Hall Jr., and Toni, are grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Adams of Oak Park and of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Maley of Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Winfield Ellis are entertaining at cocktails this evening for Lt. Mary Louis Sturtevant Baker of the army nurse corps, who recently returned after spending many months in New Guinea. She formerly lived here.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip F. W. Peck will welcome home their son, Lt. [j. g.] Peck Jr., of the naval reserve; the first part of next week. Lt. Peck, who has been serving in the Pacific for 16 months, recently returned to this country and is in New York. He will spent the remainder of his 30 day leave in Lake Forest. His brother, Lt. George T. Peck of the army, is stationed at Fort Sill, Okla. Mrs. Peck recently received special recognition for her Red Cross work when the American Hospital association volunteer pins were awarded at a tea in the Presbyterian hospital.

The next in a series of benefit book reviews sponsored by the Newberry Center league will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow in Glenna hall of the First Methodist church, Evanston. Mrs. Sara Widener Younggren will give the program. The final lecture, May 11, will be held in the evening so that husbands may attend.

An exhibition of the Garson historical menu collection will be opened with a preview for members of the Chicago Historical society at 8 o'clock tonight. The collection will be open to the public tomorrow, thru May 15.

Smart Two-Piece Suit Costume of Silk Shantung

This is a two piece suit costume, blouse-jacket and simple skirt, of silk shantung imprinted with unusual motifs in yellow, blue, cinnamon brown, and white in all-over design. A square cut yoke is simulated with the tucks across the chest and over the shoulder. The burnt sugar colored hat is of cool, lacy straw, the long gloves are blue, and the bag is white. The ensemble is available in a Chicago shop. [TRIBUNE Studio Photo]

Colorful Print Suits Give Gay Note to Spring

BY REA SEEGER

The town print suits, both in rayon and in precious silks, are here for the warm days. The prints are colorful and effective, especially when fashioned into simple models of skirt and jacket or in the more versatile dress with companion jacket. The dark background prints are smart and slenderizing, because the designs are usually small and of an all-over pattern. The color contrasts are gay and different, fuchsia with navy or black, yellow with black, lime green with navy or deep brown, and so on.

Some hand blocked prints mark the luxury suits. The very unusual designs are imprinted on fine cool shantung silk. Others are of smooth silk with a mat sheen, imprinted in exotic colors of persian pattern. Light colored prints — with vivid hues which are combined effectively —vie with the brilliant strong contrasts for special approval. Such suits or suit ensembles are ideal for town summer clothes. Much can be managed with accessories, such as straw or floral hats, short or long bright colored gloves, and similar articles.

Because the prints are handsomely decorative, there is little detail handwork. Many sleeves are short, ending just above the elbow, or else of the three-quarter length, to wear with long pull on gloves. Soft bows add feminine touches to either jacket or dress. The necklines of the dresses have flattering cut out motifs, and the skirts of both suits of the dress-jacket combinations are simply cut and gathered with shirred panels at each side.

White Collar GIRL

Fashions in Chapeaux

[In reply to Isabelle]

When there's been sickness and sorrow,
Destruction and pain and strife,
And salaries frozen solid—
While prices are out of your life;
When all of your whistling in darkness
Dies, ere it's born, in your throat,
And all of your spring ensemble
Boasts not a cheery note—
When life has placed on your features
A taut little look, O, thence,
Unthinking you choose [for its fitness]
A little hat equally tense!

"So you white collar girls want an attractively served meal to bolster your morale at the end of the day! Did you ever think of the waitress' morale? The average waitress, even in these days, does not earn more than a dollar a day in wages, of which she pays the bus boy 50 cents in tips, and pays 40 cents for the laundering of her uniform. That leaves 10 cents to get to work, and if we had to depend on the white collar girls for that other dime to get home, we'd never get there.

"Office girls and sales girls ask for substitutions [for which the cook often demands—from us—a drink or cigarets!]; they expect fast service—and leave no tip. Most men take the food the way it comes on the menu, wait their turn and always leave a tip. So, put yourself in our places, girls; which would you favor?

"Do the girls realize that many of the waitresses have held good office positions but due to circumstances [small children at home, sick relatives, etc.] they can work only while the children are at school or when some other members of the family is at home to take over the responsibility? Do the W. C. G.s know if they would treat us courteously, and respect our intelligence, things would be much better? Because, of course, we are only human —there are no saints waiting on table!"

Laundry Lost? It's Likely You Didn't Send It

To the housewife who believes she has lost her best linen at the laundry: Look under the bed, down the clothes chute, and in the closet before complaining, because maybe you didn't send it.

This was one answer to the lost articles problem given yesterday by persons in the laundry business after housewives aired charges of carelessness in letters to THE TRIBUNE'S Voice of the People.

Chicago's laundries are handling peak loads with 25 to 30 per cent fewer employes than a year ago. The average bundle is bigger now because working women send out the entire washing, rather than do small items at home. Those small items, such as handkerchiefs and napkins, are often tossed in loose among the clothes instead of being wrapped separately in a paper bag or net and may be lost in the rapid handling.

Sheets and pillow cases, rarely reported lost before they were hard to purchase, are among the laundry casualties, operators said. In any case, item by item losses are matters between the housewives and the laundries. Insurance protects only total bundles in fire or theft, said John L. Toomey, executive secretary of the Chicago Laundry Owners' association.

Toomey added that despite the help handicap, laundries once more were giving two and four day service or, in some cases, a week, instead of the 10 and 14 day waits of a year ago. Laundries are meeting their problems by cutting out the frills in finishing and packaging and by staggering deliveries.

Miss Verna Marcel, manager, said the Avalon Laundry company, 7732 Avalon av., had 50 per cent fewer employes than a year ago. Fewer employes trying to handle more work was her explanation for loss of many articles, but, she added: "Lots of things are lost in the customer's imagination, and lots more are at home in the clothes chute, in the closet, and under the bed." Laundries card index customers and know the habitual claimants.

Mrs. Loretta Nies, wife of the manager of the Ace laundry, 1773 Peterson av., said it now has 120 persons doing what 300 formerly did. At the Chief Wash company, 5425 N. Hoyne av., Dick Dean, manager, said he had 120 workers now in place of 160 a year ago. Dean said cutting the number of routes from 30 to 19 has helped.

Experienced laundry workers have gone to war plants for higher wages. The laundries pay a minimum 50 cents an hour wage, but there is a chance to make better wages on piece work. For instance, one laundry pays shirt finishers $1.37½ a 100. Laundry ceiling prices, operators said, are only a few cents above the pre-war rates.

Yank's Opinion of U. S. Girls Is Poor Indeed

BY SHEILA DALY

[Copyright: 1945: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Soldiers have a lot of time to think. Far from home and the gals they used to know, they can see their past loves and lives in clear retrospect. Usually those memories are rather wonderful, and often the fellows color them up and trim off the ragged edges to make them even more wonderful. But often the boys get those dream pictures down in black and white and see things as they actually were. Here are some G. I. reminiscences—opinions about the girls back home which may make some potential pin-ups sit up and take notice:

"I've been out of the States for over a year, and it was a long year, but experience, they say, is the best teacher. I have something I want to say, something based on my own experience and the experiences of my buddies, all talked over in countless bull sessions. The girls back home had better get on the ball. I hear there are now three or four girls to every man. Several of my buddies are marrying French girls and many more swear by the English lassies for the simple reason that these girls appreciate life. The girls appreciate anything a fellow does for them—you can see it in their eyes and you can feel it in their voices when they say, 'Merci.' The girls back home take it all for granted and then squawk for more.

"Over here girls are not afraid to work, they are not afraid to help a fellow, whether it is laundry or baking a pie. What's more, they do it willingly. Very few girls back home would soil their hands for any fellow. All they think about [as I remember] is themselves, what they can get, and how they can have a good time."

This soldier has been away for over a year. One of the best surprises to greet him when he does come home will be the realization that girls have changed. They have had a chance to think, too, in the long, lonesome evenings that used to be called "date nights." And if they haven't, there's still time to give it a thought.

Red Cross to Open New Class for Home Service Volunteers

A new training class for volunteers with the home service department of the Chicago chapter of the American Red Cross will open Tuesday in room 402 at 616 S. Michigan av. Applications for training in the class, which will be limited to 50, will be taken thru tomorrow at the Michigan av. address, according to Mrs. Edwin Eisendrath, chairman of the home service corps.

Home service volunteers work with the home service department staff to handle approximately 37,000 cases going thru the offices monthly. Service ranges from emergency furlough and loan verifications to counseling on family and health problems, vocational guidance, or planning a family budget.

Women who apply for training are to be between the ages of 22 and 60, citizens of the United States, and of good educational background.

Remember the famous lemon cake and custard dessert which goes by several names and comes in two or three minor variations? Here it is in a different guise, sweetened with honey and flavored with orange juice and rind. Bake it in individual casseroles, or turn it out into dessert dishes. If you serve it in the casseroles, the custard base is quite a surprise. Turned out, the cake part of the dessert is on the bottom, and the custard acts as a sauce.

Honey Orange Puff
[Serves six]

2 tablespoons butter
¾ cup sugar
2 eggs, separated
2 tablespoons flour
¾ cup orange juice
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1½ teaspoons grated orange rind
¾ cup strained honey
1 cup milk

Cream butter until soft and blend in sugar. Add egg yolks and beat until fluffy. Add flour and beat until smooth. Stir in orange and lemon juice, grated rind, honey, and milk. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites, and pour into a greased 5 cup casserole or into six large custard cups. Place in a shallow pan of hot water and bake at 300 degrees 1 hour for the casserole, or 45 minutes for the custard cups. Test for doneness by inserting a sharp knife into the center of a custard. If it comes out clean, the dessert has baked sufficiently.

A good dinner menu to be topped off by this dessert might contain scalloped potatoes and ham, green beans or asparagus, head lettuce with thousand island dressing, rolls, and coffee.

As a rule, pork chops are cooked by braising. Broiling tends to dry them out in most cases. Here's a recipe for broiled [or "grilled"] pork chops, which are treated to a marinade before cooking. Be certain to use thin chops and to keep the broiler heat moderate, because pork must be thoroly cooked no matter what procedure is followed. These chops are delicious. They're a "middle America" specialty. Mexico, Cuba, Haiti, the Dominican Republic, Mexico, and Central American countries are "middle America," in case you wonder.

Grilled Marinated Pork Chops
[Serves four]

8 thin loin pork chops
1 cup cider vinegar
2 teaspoons chili powder
Dash of cayenne pepper
¾ teaspoon black pepper
2 tablespoons brown sugar

Mix spices with vinegar and pour over chops. Cover and chill for several hours, turning occasionally. Drain, brush with salad oil, sprinkle lightly with salt, and arrange on broiling rack. Sprinkle with half the sugar. Broil at moderate heat until well browned, then turn, sprinkle with remaining sugar, and broil on other side.

A QUICKIE TO BE PROUD OF

Every once in a while we come across a recipe whose popularity sweeps across the country. I predict such a future for this quickie recipe I'm giving you today because it's not only easy to prepare but it's delicious and attractive enough for a company meal yet inexpensive enough (both in points and pennies) for an everyday lunch.

MOR Rarebit—A Recipe to Treasure

1 tbsp. Certified Margarine
1½ tbsp. flour
¼ tsp. dry mustard
½ cup milk
½ cup sharp cheese, grated
6 slices bread
1 can Mor, cut in 12 slices

Make a white sauce of the first four ingredients, add grated cheese, remove from heat and stir until cheese is completely melted. Toast the bread on one side. On other side, spread cheese sauce and place 2 slices of pan-fried Mor on top (or put sliced Mor, direct from can, on top of cheese sauce and brown under broiler). Serves 6.

Clip Recipe Here

TIME SAVING PLANS

With meat scarce and selection limited, a few cans of Mor on the emergency shelf are a greater convenience these days than ever before. You can speed up emergency meals by having a menu planned around foods you usually keep on hand. A favorite of ours is this one which Mrs. Rector can have ready for the table in a short 21 minutes: Mor rarebit, potato chips, buttered peas, head lettuce salad with Thousand Island dressing and chocolate nut sundae.

Mor is a delicious high quality meat which can be used in many different ways, both cold and hot. Another favorite Mor quickie is breaded Mor, panfried in a small amount of Wilson's Bake-Rite or bacon drippings.

GOOD FLAVOR—FEW POINTS

Use point-thrifty Mor, too, for the meat in meat pie, chop suey, meat turnovers, and hot meat sandwiches. In all of these recipes calling for gravy, you can be assured of the most delectable gravy ever by using Wilson's B-V to supply the meat flavor.

Make gravy in the usual way using any edible fat you have such as Wilson's Bake-Rite, Laurel-Leaf Brand Lard, bacon drippings or what have you. When the gravy is made, add 1 tsp. B-V for each cup of gravy and stir until dissolved. It's as simple as that to make rich brown gravy even though you do not have any meat drippings.

MOR Point Savers

Dice a can of Mor, add two cups medium white sauce, 3 cups cooked noodles, 2 tbsp. chopped pimiento and a small can (2½ oz.) of mushrooms. Top with 4 tbsp. fine bread crumbs mixed with 2 tbsp. melted Certified Margarine and bake in a moderate oven, 350° F., about 35 minutes. Serves 6.

Cut left-over Mor into small cubes, mix with left-over mashed potatoes, shape into cakes, dip in flour and panfry. Serve plain or with B-V gravy.

Yours for Tasty Savers,
George Rector

JOURNEY UNDERGROUND

[Copyright: 1945: By The Chicago Tribune.] [The Story of a Chicago hero's escape from German occupied France] By Flight Officer David G. Prosser

INSTALMENT XLI.

For several days before we finally left, both Pere Maurice and M. Pelerin promised us that we would have overcoats for our trip over the mountains. No promise could have offered me such solace, for I had dim forebodings about the weather four or five thousand feet above sea level.

In the afternoon, when I was giving Herk the French lesson, we were interrupted by the door bell. It had not rung three times, which was the signal that a friend was at the gate, so as usual I rushed over to the window to see who was there. A policeman was standing at the gate.

Herk and I were up in our room in an instant, getting together our coats and most important belongings, and hiding any of our things which might have incriminated the Maurices.

Before Mme. Maurice had even reached the gate we were downstairs again and out in the courtyard. We were ready to jump over the stone wall into the neighbor's back yard when la Grandmere, who had been watching the policeman, told us to stay in the laundry shed until we got other instructions.

I was willing enough to go into the shed for I had not figured out what I was going to do, once I was in the neighbor's yard. At the same time I felt uneasy about the possibility of la Grandmere not being able to give us the signal to leave in time.

I only had a few seconds to worry about this, for la Grandmere quickly gave us our orders: "Stay where you are, he has only come to get money for a charity."

We began to breathe more easily, and sitting down on the overturned washtub, both Herk and I said almost at once, "Too close for pleasure."

In less than five minutes the policeman had gone, and we were called back into the house. La Grandmere looked a little unstrung, but Madame was as cool and collected as ever, and merely smiled serenely at her two worried boys.

When le Pere returned that evening, he told us he had to go to Romilly the next day to get some more food. He had planned to go later in the week, but one of his important clients wanted to see him.

Just as le Pere started gathering his sacks together Louis came into the kitchen. He seemed to be breathlessly excited, and spoke to his father-in-law in tense, quick tones which I could not understand. It seemed apparent that he wanted me left out of the conversation. Altho I picked up the words, "patriot" and "action" I was by no means able to follow the trend of the discussion. Louis stopped speaking abruptly and quickly disappeared out of the back door.

In a minute or two he returned with an iron box that had obviously been unearthed from a hiding place in the courtyard. I asked Louis what was in it, but he did not reply, only rubbing his thumb and forefinger together indicating that it contained money.

Altho this was a strong box made to hold money, I felt what Louis had said was untrue. The atmosphere was too tense for the mere opening of a box of money buried in the garden. There was something more important than money involved in this affair.

Le Pere opened the box and revealed two large pistols and one little Spanish revolver. They all seemed to be in perfect condition.

Louis grabbed one of the old fashioned pistols, and carelessly waved it around, first looking down the barrel and then, more by chance than caution, pointing it to the floor and pulling the trigger.

The explosion was deafening in that little room. Louis looked almost more afraid than surprised that the gun had accidentally gone off.

I must have looked more terrified than he, for the bullet had struck the floor only seven inches from my right foot. It had not penetrated the tile, but had ricocheted, and again as by a miracle had missed us all.

Every one in the room seemed stunned, and only slowly did we come back to life. First Madame gently rebuked Louis, and la Grandmere supported her with a sadly subdued, "Aye, yi-yi."

"But I did not think it was loaded," Louis said.

I was never able to understand the reason for digging up the guns. I think Louis took one to his house, perhaps just to have it there in case anything occurred during Emile's presence.

The following day after an early dinner, Louis and I took the little cart down to the station to meet le Pere Maurice. As we walked back to the house, he told us the news of Romilly. There had been much sabotage there recently, and the day before some patriots had been caught and were being held as hostages.

They had placed an explosive charge on the main line track going to Germany, and at the last minute had discovered that the train was not a German transport as they had expected but a French passenger train. The patriots succeeded in removing the charge just before the express passed, but in doing so they were captured by the police.

Because of this incident and other extensive sabotage, the German commander of the area decided to punish the people. He gave them the alternatives of having their bakeries shut for three days or a week's curfew from 5 p. m. to 7:30 a. m. The people had, of course, chosen the curfew.

When we arrived back at the house the women excitedly greeted us with the news that Herk and I were to leave on the following night. M. Pelerin had stopped in while we were out, and they seemed convinced that he had been right. Of course, there was still the chance that the arrangement would go awry, or that it would be discovered that the Germans expected to take special precautions in inspecting the trains that night. These people made special arrangements for our seats, which we would not otherwise have been able to obtain on short notice.

The next day was Friday, Nov. 16. Noon passed and still no news canceling our departure had arrived.

The women made us box luncheons for the trip, and by 4 o'clock we were ready to set off at a minute's notice. Mme. Andre was to be at the house at 5, and we were to leave with her shortly afterward.

She did not arrive on time, and for half an hour we anxiously listened for the door bell. When it finally rang, we looked out of the window to see M. Pelerin at the gate. He had so constantly been the bearer of bad news, that both Herk and I immediately concluded that arrangements for our departure that night had been canceled. But we were wrong, M. Pelerin had come to take us to his flat where he had some overcoats [for us] and Mme. Andre was to meet us there.

Soon Mme. Andre came in. She seemed to be in a hurry, and when she saw M. Pelerin still not dressed to make a trip into Paris, she exclaimed, "Hurry up, now, hurry up, we have to go in a few minutes, I shall help you dress." She propelled Monsieur toward his bedroom door, and closed it once they were both inside.

Almost immediately afterward, the front door opened again, and Michiline and Louis walked in. They were on their way to the opera and had just stopped in for a moment to say good-by to us. Michiline wore a very chic costume, and Louis only lacked a top hat to create an appearance of absolute elegance. As they were already a little late, they only stayed long enough to wish us good luck.

Mme. Andre emerged from the bedroom with a fully dressed M. Pelerin and we set off. Le Pere walked with us as far as the bus stop. There he said good-by, and we thanked him again for all he had done. After a little prompting, Herk even said "Merci beaucoup" [many thanks], which greatly delighted le Pere. When a bus pulled up, we again whispered "good-by" and for a time after the bus started moving Herk and I stood on the back platform looking at Pere Maurice, who soon disappeared in the evening dusk.

Crocheted Apron

BY ELLEN BRUCE

Crocheted aprons are attractive and serviceable when crocheted of white mercerized cotton and a contrasting color. They are quickly and easily laundered, and may be made in little time. The stitches are simple and the directions easy to follow.

For instructions in crocheting the apron, No. 1019, send 15 CENTS in coin [wrap coin securely] to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 5th av., New York 1, N. Y.

Scribbling Sister Club

The Scribbling Sister club will have on open meeting at 8 o'clock tonight in the McCormick Y. W. C. A., 1001 N. Dearborn st.

News Is Given of Weddings, Engagements

Miss Gloria Porter White, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Mark White of 3945 Lake Park av., and Ensign Philip Martin of the naval reserve, son of Clarence G. Martin of Keene, N. H., will be married at 4 p. m. today in St. Paul's Episcopal church, with a reception following in the Lake Park av. house, which was built by the bride's great-grandfather, John G. McWilliams. Miss White is a graduate of Stephens college and attends the dramatic school of the Goodman theater. Ensign Martin, a graduate of the University of New Hampshire, is stationed at the naval reserve midshipmen's school at Northwestern university.

The bride will be attended by her three half-sisters, Dr. Pauline Porter Muirhead Cooke; Miss Elizabeth Porter Muirhead, and Miss Margaret Porter Muirhead, professor of anthropology at Vassar college. After a wedding trip south, Ensign Martin and his bride will live in Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick N. Goodrich of Maplewood av. announce the marriage April 3 of their daughter, Margaret Louise, to Capt. Joseph T. Moran Jr. of the army, son of Mr. and Mrs. Moran of Richmond st. For the ceremony, which took place in the Church of St. Margaret Mary, the bride wore a mantilla of silk lace and tulle, which had come from the wedding dress of her mother. Lt. Moran and his bride both attended De Paul university. She is a graduate of St. Scholastica's academy. They are at home in Camp McCall, N. C., where he is stationed with the paratroops.

Announcement is made by Mr. and Mrs. Alfred J. Wilke of S. Wolcott av. of the approaching marriage Saturday of their daughter Audrey Elaine, to Lt. Lester R. Wroble of the naval reserve, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Wroble of N. Kenneth av. The ceremony will take place in Pensacola, Fla., where Lt. Wroble is stationed as a navy air force instructor. Lt. Wroble, a graduate of the University of Illinois, recently returned from 18 months' duty in the Southwest Pacific.

Mr. and Mrs. Vinton Logan Staley of Evanston announce the marriage March 31 of their daughter, Charlotte Clifton, to Capt. Cyrus Roberts Broman of the army air forces, son of Dr. Martin R. Broman of Winnetka. A reception in the Broman home followed the ceremony in Howes chapel at Northwestern university. Capt. Broman has returned from the European theater of operations, where he served for eight months as a pilot. He and his bride are having a short wedding trip before he reports for further orders.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. White of W. 103d st. announce the engagement of their daughter, Marjorie Marion, to Lt. R. Kirk Batzer of the naval reserve, formerly of Virginia, Minn. Miss White attended Centre college in Danville, Ky., and for more than a year has been employed by the navy department in Miami, Fla. Her fiance attended Macalister college, and was graduated from Cornell university. He received his master's degree from Syracuse university and is stationed in Miami as engineering officer of a navy air transport squadron.

Announcement is made by David K. Nathan of N. Hamlin av. of the engagement of his daughter, Sheri, to Sgt. Manuel Auerbach of the army air forces, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Auerbach of N. Troy st. Sgt. Auerbach attended the University of Illinois and is stationed in Clovis, N. M.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., April 11—Sidney Franklin's next for Greer Garson and Ronald Colman—"Dead City"—was taken from an old French novel. They're saying it's a better story than "Random Harvest." . . . David Selznick isn't talking, and it's a deep secret, but Greg Toland, one of our ace cameramen [who recently finished shooting "Uncle Remus" for Walt Disney, and who was in the service two years] is on his way to Brazil to work out a plan which popped into the head of Mr. D. S. . . . John Carroll will do his first picture on his home lot, Metro, since he's been out of the service. In "Kissing Bandit" he'll co-star with Marion Bell, of the beautiful voice. Joe Pasternak tells me, the scenes are laid in old Monterey. I hope Carroll sings. . . . Myrna Loy is expected here Sunday. That is, if Metro's been able to find her a house. She'll do "Guardian Angel" with Bill Powell. . . . José Ferrer, who's been playing in "Othello" all around the country, lands at 20th Century in July, if he doesn't land in the army first.

Stars at Paris Canteen Opening

Sol Lesser tells these things about the opening of the Paris canteen. He said Diana Duff-Cooper arrived with a pink windmill draped with a black lace mantilla on her head. A few minutes later, Countess de Fedouy came in wearing the same creation. Marlene Dietrich, done up in a silver tailored suit, came with Jean Gabin. Maurice Chevalier was nervous about his reception, but after he got started the boys seemed to forget all about his trouble. Mistinguette, at 74, was there too, with more plumes in her hair than Marlene Dietrich used to wear on the screen. She didn't cover up those famous legs while singing "I'm Looking for a Millionaire." She also had a long cigaret holder. There's plenty of life left in the old girl yet. Mrs. Leslie McNair, widow of Lt. Gen. McNair, who was killed after D-day in Normandy, also was present to serve the food.

Tennis Star Praises Tallulah

Even Bill Tilden gave Tallulah Bankhead a puff. "If she had gone in for tennis instead of acting," he said, "she could have been a star in that, too." . . . The other day when Buzz Meredith took their dog for a walk on the beach and returned, Paulette said to him, "who did you see?" He replied, "Dorian Gray." "And didn't you bring him home for me?" said Paulette. . . . Michael Powell and Emeric Pressburger, producers of "The Silver Fleet," are here for a short visit. They tell me Arthur Rank will arrive in June. . . . Sam Waagenaar, recently out of the army, isn't waiting for Hollywood to buy his story about reaching Paris. He becomes an American citizen tomorrow. He will go to San Francisco to cover the security conference for a big syndicate. . . . Lt. Col. Irving Asher, vacationing in New York with his wife, Laura La Plante, soon will resume his job with Louis Mountbatten.

O'Briens to Visit Canada

Pat O'Brien and missus will go to Canada for opening of its bond drive. They'll do their old vaudeville routines for the boys in the hospitals. Pat says he spent so many hours on "The Amorous Ghost" he now looks like one. . . . Louis Hayward and Ida Lupino run into each other everywhere. The other night he found himself between Ida and Peggy Field with a camera facing them. He didn't know what expression to use for the camera, so he chose surprise.

DERRINGER, CUBS OPPOSE LEE, SOX TODAY

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD

OF all the major leaguers who belong to the "1,000 hit club" Capt. Phil Cavarretta of the Cubs and Ival Goodman, who recently left the Cubs to manage the Portsmouth club, come closest to having made an average of a hit a game during their big league careers. . . . Cavarretta has made 1,102 hits in 1,001 games and Goodman 1,104 hits in 1,107 games. . . . Comdr. Jimmy Crowley, commissioner of the All-America Football conference, recently visited with Comdr. George Halas of the Bears in the Philippines. . . . Northwestern athletes in service vote Frank Hill, track coach, their favorite war time author. . . . Miraculous Reunion
[A True Story]

A little dog named Joker [whose master went to war]
Was desolate and lonely and life became a bore.
For several days he waited and then was seen no more.

This week, within a letter from South Pacific isles,
There came a startling message to stir some tears and smiles,
The dog had found his master across six thousand miles.

His grim, untiring searching to find the face he knew. . . .
At last he was adopted and shipped across the blue.

And then, as if by magic, outside a tent one day,
The two were reunited, together now to stay. . . .
And Joker's quest was ended six thousand miles away.

Rain Halts Contest in 6th Inning

[Other baseball news on next page]

St. Louis, Mo., April 11 (AP)—The St. Louis Browns pounded Cardinal pitching for 14 hits and a 10 to 3 victory today in the fourth game of their annual spring series, which was called after six innings because of rain.

The victory gave the American League Champion Browns a lead of three games to one over the World Champion Cardinals with three games of the series to be played.

First Baseman George McQuinn and Second Baseman Don Gutteridge hit home runs for the Browns, but most gratifying to the fans were the two sharp singles which Pete Gray, one-armed outfielder, made in his four trips to the plate. Gray had made only one hit, a scratchy infield roller, before today's game.

PHILS BEAT ORIOLES IN 11TH.

Aberdeen, Md., April 11 (AP)—Nick Goulish's third single of the day gave the Philadelphia Phillies a 5 to 4 victory today over the Baltimore Orioles in an 11 inning exhibition game.

More than 2,000 veterans saw the Phils collect 12 hits from two Baltimore pitchers while yielding only seven. The Orioles were leading, 4 to 3, when the Phils tied up the game in the seventh inning.

Frederick, Md., April 11 (AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics swamped Toronto, 15 to 1, in an exhibition game here today.

Both Russ Christopher, giving one hit in five innings, and Jesse Flores, who was touched for two safeties in four innings, were in fine form on the mound. The A's pounded the three leafs' hurlers for 17 hits.

GIANTS BEAT DODGERS

Brooklyn, N. Y., April 11 (AP)—A three run uprising in the 11th inning gave the New York Giants a 9 to 7 victory over the Brooklyn Dodgers today in a Red Cross benefit game which drew 10,000 fans and netted $27,409.10.

The Dodgers had tied the score with three runs in the ninth, driving Harry Feldman, who was trying to go the route on the mound, to cover. Ernie Lombardi and Phil Weintraub hit home runs for the Giants in the fourth.

Nobody knew why Joe Medwick failed to show up today. Even Manager Mel Ott didn't know. So a reporter invested a nickel and discovered that he was resting his wracked back on doctor's orders. Joe, who was the National league's third best hitter last year, is a doubtful starter for opening day next Tuesday.

Plainfield, N. J., April 11 (AP)—The New York Yankees, in charge of Coach Art Fletcher, closed the road phase of their exhibitioning before 1,332 today, beating their Newark Bear farmhands, 8 to 2, to make their spring record to date six won and six lost.

The Bears were limited to nine hits by Floyd Bevens and Emerson Roser, the former pitching scoreless ball the first five innings.

Larry MacPhail, Yankee president, said he might be interested in Jeff Heath, providing the outfielder really was being put on the market by Cleveland.

STAGE AND LEADING CHARACTERS IN TODAY'S CITY SERIES PLAY

Big Paul Derringer and Thornton (Lefty) Lee have been nominated by Charley Grimm and Jimmy Dykes, managers of the Cubs and White Sox respectively, as starting pitchers in the first game of the spring city series in Comiskey park today. Derringer, who won 7 while losing 13 games with the Cubs last season, will later give way to Henry Wyse, who distinguished himself by taking the season's opener against Cincinnati in 1944. Lee will be relieved by Johnny Johnson, also a left hander, whom the Sox acquired from the Yankees. Today's game will start at 1:30 o'clock with activities due to be shifted to Wrigley field tomorrow. [TRIBUNE Photos]

YANK PROGRESS IN REICH TO SET DATE FOR DERBY

Louisville, Ky., April 11 (AP)—The speed with which the allies chase the Nazis into complete surrender or defeat apparently will determine the date for this year's running of the 71st Kentucky Derby.

Matt Winn

Entry blanks were mailed today, conditioned on the lifting of the government ban on racing—which has been promised shortly after V-E day.

Churchill Downs' announcement said the mile and a quarter Race of the Roses for 3 year olds again would carry a purse of $75,000 plus the accumulated entry fees.

Date Still in Doubt

Horsemen apparently are timing this year's Derby by the speed of the allied advance into Hitler's Germany because owners and trainers have moved most of the more promising eligibles back home to Kentucky farms or to Churchill Downs here.

The original date for the 71st Derby was May 5, but the racing ban changed that and left the fate of the event somewhat in doubt altho Matt J. Winn, president of the Downs, maintained there would be a Derby if at all possible. Most horsemen have said Derby candidates would have to be conditioned for a month to six weeks after the date of the race definitely is known. $2,500 to $5,000.

Increase Stake Purses

The book of entry blanks for the Derby carried this notice:

"As we go to press with these entry blanks for our spring stakes, we, of course, do not know when V-E day will be or what may be the wishes of the war mobilization director. We are sending out blanks in order to be ready to proceed with plans for our meeting if, and when, such action is agreeable to the government. In the event it should be decided not to run one or more of these stakes, entry fees for such stakes or stakes will be refunded."

The announcement said the purse for the Debutante, stakes race for 2 year old fillies, and for the Bashford Manor, for 2 year old colts and geldings, had been increased from $2,500 to $5,000.

N. F. L. Prepares for Rivals; Draft Routine Irks Lambeau

BY EDWARD PRELL
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

New York, April 11 (AP)—The National Football league bosses today ended their overtime six day meeting by working out a 1945 schedule for 10 clubs.

The 25 year old circuit is expecting some strong post-war competition from at least one proposed new league. To meet this threat, the club heads have voted to limit their circuit in the future to no fewer than 10 or more than 12 clubs; instigated a move to arrange a permanent schedule plan under which each team would meet every other club each season; appointed a committee to improve relationships with the colleges, and ruled out playing exhibition games against members of new circuits.

Eliminates One Threat

While some observers felt that the National league had passed up a chance to make its position even stronger by failing to transfer the Brooklyn Tigers to the Yankee stadium, the very uncertainty of that situation apparently eliminated one threat of competition.

Chick Meehan, promoter of the proposed Trans-America league, said today that he would not continue to wait for an answer on the availability of the stadium.

The possibility arose that the All-America conference, which has spent large amounts of money preparing for post-war operation, would get the stadium. That league already has awarded a New York franchise to a group headed by Mal Stevens, former Yale and N. Y. U. coach, and Bill Cox, former owner of the baseball Phillies, and plans to play in Triboro stadium.

Cards and Lions Open Season

If Tim Mara, founder of the football Giants, persists in refusing to let Dan Topping put the Brooklyn Tigers into his own Yankee stadium, the Topping organization plans to sponsor a club which may join the All-America circuit.

The 1945 schedule will start Sept. 23 with a single contest, Detroit Lions at Chicago Cardinals, and ending Dec. 9. Each team will play 10 games.

The program is practically the same as last year, with most of the eastern teams meeting each other twice while playing once against their western foes. The same applies to the western clubs.

The only intersectional home and home series will be between Green Bay and the Boston Yanks. The schedule lists one night game, on Sept. 25, between Pittsburgh and the

They Like Their Arguments

Some of the things you hear when professional football people get together: Charley Bidwill of the Cardinals, explaining the long drawn out meetings: "There are too many Irishmen in this league. If you just say hello some one challenges you?" . . . Pete Cawthon, scout of the Detroit Lions, remarking that when he was coach at Texas Tech he averaged 15,000 miles each year by auto in search of football talent. . . .

Bill Shea, who bosses the Boston Yanks, offers the club's owner, Ted Collins, as the world champion dessert hound. . . . "Ted and I were in a party of six which visited a famous Boston restaurant last year," recounts Bill. "The owner greeted us and whispered that he would serve aged steaks from his own private stock. And what do you think Ted said? Just this, 'Never mind the steaks, what do you have for dessert?'" . . .

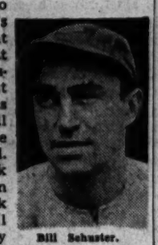
The Mayor Does His Part

Shea draws laughs every time he tells about Boston's opening day ceremonies last fall before the Yanks met Philadelphia. "We have a big parade downtown with a lot of Irish bands and Kate Smith singing away," he says. "When we get to Fenway park there's lots more noise. Mayor Tobin is to boot the ball before the game. Well, we discover that no one has brought out a ball for this ceremony. We finally get one, but in the excitement the announcer neglects to introduce the mayor. However, he doesn't mind it a bit. He kicks from the 40 and the ball actually goes over the goal posts." Tobin now is governor of Massachusetts.

GRIMM TO CALL ROLL TODAY AT COMISKEY PARK

BY EDWARD BURNS

Manager Charley Grimm of the Cubs hitch-hiked into town early last evening, went to bed early—he's been somewhat ill as the result of a nervous disorder for the last week—and this morning will open up his office in Wrigley Field. At 11:30 o'clock he will be in Comiskey Park calling the roll for today's city series opener.



Bill Schuster.

Players Straggle In.

Some of the players, riding overland, got into Chicago as early as yesterday noon—they were the ones who hadn't completed housing arrangements. There was another influx during the evening and a final carload got in over the Monon this morning, after being carted to Orleans, Ind., last night, passenger service in and out of French Lick having been suspended six weeks ago.

Last year it was announced before the Cubs left French Lick that the team would be back in 1945. No such forehanded announcement was made at the farewell this year but it is probable that if the Cubs do return in 1946, Manager Grimm will ask construction of a field that will not be under water.

Schuster Finally Reports.

During each of the three training periods the Cubs have spent in the war time camp at French Lick, they have been prevented from using their diamond many days because of floods. This year Manager Grimm witnessed four separate overflows, but the weather otherwise was so fine that the loss of the diamond for more than 60 per cent of the time was compensated to some extent.

The first arrivals in Wrigley Field yesterday were Shortstop Bill Schuster and Pitcher Claude Passeau, altho neither represented members of the party which had left the French Lick training camp, Schuster, regarded as a holdout, came to terms with the Cubs and worked along with Passeau, who has been undergoing treatment for an ailing pitching arm.

COCHRAN, HOPPE DIVIDE BLOCKS IN CUE SERIES

Welker Cochran last night scored his first victory over Willie Hoppe since the touring three cushion stars came to Chicago Monday. Cochran had a high run of five and out in the 39th inning as he defeated the challenger, 60 to 51.

With 40 blocks completed, Hoppe leads in his bid for the billiards crown, 2,187 to 2,036. The two will continue afternoon and evening play in Bensinger's, 131 S. Wabash av., thru Saturday night.

Hoppe won his fifth straight Chicago block yesterday afternoon in 24 innings when he defeated the champion, 60 to 36.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN

The White Sox and Cubs, both of whom were able to do a pretty good job of physical conditioning in their southern Indiana camps but who appreciate that more than condition is necessary for pennant insurance, will reveal themselves to their home town constituents this afternoon at Comiskey park. The occasion will be the opener of the annual four game pre-season city series and while times have changed the boys intend to show that the Cubs-Sox feuding remains a fixture.

Unfortunately James Dykes, the Sox boss man, is not in a position this year to point out that it is almost traditional for the Sox to waylay the Cubs at anything from marbles to baseball. Mr. Dykes knows that the tools with which he has to work are not as choice as he has known them to be; in fact he has been hit harder than any other one major team since last fall so he speaks only in guarded whispers whether it be about the Cubs or his problem of 154 games in the American league.

Look to Season's Opener

As compared to the Sox manager, Charley Grimm of the Cubs can ride against the south siders in a practically leakproof boat. Some of his fellows are ailing at the moment and a few haven't seen fit to report, but these items will be adjusted eventually. But even with cripples and absentees Grimm will be able to come up with a fairly choice layout during the series, even unto pitchers in which department there is a temporary shortage.

The point about today's meeting is that both managers plan to convince themselves by the happenings on what they'll do about their opening day pitchers. Thornton Lee will start for the Sox and if there are no untoward developments he'll remain first choice for next Tuesday in Cleveland. Grimm will employ Paul Derringer and Henry Wyse, the results to govern which is going to be which Tuesday against the Cardinals at Wrigley field. Wyse, it may be remembered, won the season's opener for the Cubs a year ago after which they lost 13 straight.

At Wrigley Field Tomorrow.

If today's game should be voided by weather, Lee will remain the Sox nominee for tomorrow at Wrigley field. This would leave him ample time to rest up for Tuesday. If Lee gets his rehearsal today, Dykes will come up with Bill Dietrich and Ed Lopat tomorrow. There is method in this arrangement. Both are effective against the Indians so if they do well enough against the Cubs, Dykes can figure on them for the Cleveland series, even in the opener if it should be necessary to switch from Lee.

With Peanuts Lowrey and Bill Nicholson skipping the pre-season classes Grimm can't show all his prospective regular lineup to the city series patrons, but Dykes will merely offer what he thinks is his best and there is no more than that, even in prospect. He shuffled his layout Tuesday against the Tigers when Wally Moses was snared by the army and this arrangement will be continued until Joe Orengo believes himself in shape for first or third base and Shortstop Dan Reynolds shakes off his charley horse.

EARLY BASEBALL MATINEE

It will be early matinee for major league baseball in Chicago this season.

The Cubs and White Sox have announced all week day games will start at 1:30 p. m. instead of 3 p. m. as in previous seasons. Sunday games will start at 3 p. m., except double headers, which will get under way at 1:30 p. m.

LEAFS AND WINGS MEET TONIGHT IN THIRD CUP GAME

TORONTO, Ont., April 11 (AP)—The Toronto Maple Leafs today wound up preparations for the third game tomorrow night in their eight point Stanley cup final series with the Detroit Red Wings. The Leafs lead the series by four points to none, having won the first two games in Detroit.

Coach Clarence [Hap] Day said, after his team had a light workout, that everybody looked fine, but "we have a good, tough one for tomorrow night."

In Detroit the Leafs adopted a defensive style of play and waited for the breaks. Manager Jack Adams of the Red Wings promised to adopt similar tactics in Toronto.

Adams and his team left Detroit this afternoon.

AFTER 30 YEARS AT LINKS, HE MAY TAKE UP GOLF!

Oak Park Veteran Will Be Sitdown Player

BY CHARLES BARTLETT

Harry Rosenberg may yet be driven back to golf. The personable little fellow who is celebrating his 30th year as major domo of the Oak Park Country club's locker room, may even drive himself to it, if he follows the advice of J. B. Wantz, the Oak Park club's most inventive member.

Nearly four decades back, Harry confesses, he did play at the game with which he has been associated in an extra-curricular capacity for most of his 60 years. That would be back there in the seven years before 1915, when he was the head man in Skokie's locker room. His withdrawal from the swinging clans of the fairways may be charged to the gentle jibes he received from a Skokie member named Bert Leston Taylor. Under the well remembered initials of B. L. T., Mr. Taylor founded THE TRIBUNE's column, "A Line O' Type or Two."

This Makes It Different

Rosenberg resisted the efforts of such professionals as Walter Fovargue, George Simpson, Jim Lindsay, Horton Smith, the latter's brother, Ren, Dick Metz, Dutch Harrison, and Lloyd Mangrum to revive his interest in the game. Horton, one of the game's most intent missionaries, once planted a set of clubs on Harry's desk and demanded that he use them. Eddie Bush, Oak Park's professional for the last five years, has employed every wile to lure Harry out, but the little man will have none of it.

Came last year and the debut of the golf-cycle, invented by Wantz. This contrivance, powered by three 200 ampere batteries, wends its way blithely over the leas at speeds varying from 3 to 6 miles per hour. The player's tools are strapped securely to the rear of the unusual vehicle, and, after hitting a shot, he goes merrily on to the next with no strain on his bunions.

Machine Age May Get Him

Yesterday there was a guilty gleam in Rosenberg's eyes as he opened the Oak Park season with a trial spin on the Wantz gadget. There is a possibility that Harry may borrow a set from Bush when the members of the club honor him with a special day in June.

Harry was born in Koenigsberg, Prussia, captured by the Russian army the other day. He left there in 1900, and after seven years at the old Great Northern hotel he went to Skokie for a similar period. He recalls having seen Harry Vardon, Ted Ray, Abe Mitchell, and George Duncan in several of their exhibition matches there.

The golf-cycle invented by Wantz, which Oak Park members hope may induce Rosenberg to take to the meadows again, is the result of a combination of a heel injury and a devotion to golf extending more than 30 years. J. B., as he is known around the club, suffered the injury a couple of years ago and was advised by physicians to give up the game.

Easy to Transport.

Liking golf well enough to have played 36 holes a day thru one 45 day span in Biloxi, Miss., several years ago and having spent his life as an engineer, he set about devising a machine which would relieve the pressure on his heel and still enable him to enjoy his favorite game.

The golf-cycle is a three wheeled vehicle, which will roll along at a touch of the foot pedal. It can be dissembled and packed in the luggage compartment of an automobile. At present, it is geared to the comparatively level terrain of Oak Park, but the gears can be adjusted for more hilly topography.

SMILIN' JACK

GOLF VETERANS HAVE THEIR FUN

When a fellow reaches the age where his legs have lost some of their spring, it's time to use the brain to compensate for this change, so J. B. Wantz, veteran member of the Oak Park Country club invented his golf-cycle. Here Harry Rosenberg, locker room superintendent of the Oak Park club for 30 years, operates the golf-cycle, while Tom Heneage, charter member of the club; Eddie Dearie, greenkeeper for 15 years, and Wantz (left to right) watch.

WELLS PITCHER FANS 12, YIELDS 1 HIT; WINS, 15-1

Prep Baseball

A double by pitcher Ed Krause yesterday deprived Tom Hoffman of a no hit game as the Wells High school baseball team routed Roosevelt, 15 to 1, in a practice game in California park.

The game was called at the end of six innings because of rain. Hoffman had set down the Roosevelt nine without a hit until Krause came up with two out in the sixth. Hoffman fanned 12.

In Jackson park, Chuck Mutter gave up only three hits and hit a home run with the bases loaded in the third inning as Hyde Park defeated Washburne, 12 to 3.

Lindblom beat Calumet, 3 to 2, in Foster park. Roy Mansch, winning pitcher, and Dale Pickering of the losers, each yielded six hits.

Frank Saracco yielded only two hits and fanned eight as Gage Park defeated Hirsch, 3 to 1, on the Gage park diamond.

PRIMAS BUILD CLASSIC LEAD TO THREE GAMES

The Prima Beers, by winning two of their three games from the Du Bouchett Liqueurs at Gold Coast Recreation last night, increased its lead in the Classic league to three games. Adam Plunge bowled best for the Primas, getting a 645 series.

In other matches Chapin & Gore beat Monarch Beer twice, Washington Shirts took the odd game from Meister Brau, Congress Arcade won a pair from Thompson Restaurants, and Keeley Half and Half scored a double at the expense of Sunkist Pies.

The results left three teams—Meister Braus, Thompsons, and Chapin & Gore—in a tie for second place, three games behind the Primas, with Monarch and Keeley tied for fifth, one game behind the runners-up.

High team totals went to Thompsons for their 3,034 series and to Congress Arcade for their 1,043 game. Jack Scott of Congress had high single game, 268. Scores:

BOYD AND RIVERA BOX TOMORROW ON TOLEDO SHOW

BY FRANK MASTRO

Jackie Boyd, blond flyweight of the Madison Athletic club, who defeated Frank Rivera of Kansas City for the 112 pound championship in the Golden Gloves finals in Chicago Stadium last month, will leave this afternoon for Toledo, O., where he will attempt to duplicate that feat in a return bout with Rivera in an amateur show tomorrow night.

In addition to Boyd and Rivera there will be boxers from Detroit, Cleveland, and Buffalo on the program. Ten contests have been arranged for this 13th annual show for the benefit of underprivileged Toledo school children.

Rivera helped Chicago hold New York to a draw, eight bouts to eight, by beating his Manhattan foe in the Intercity Golden Gloves show in Chicago Stadium April 4, while Boyd was stopped by Francisco Garcia, the eastern champion in his weight class.

Phil Collins and Tommy Thomas, veteran Golden Gloves officials, yesterday accepted invitations to serve as referees at an international show between boxers of the American and Canadian air forces in Edmonton, Atla., next Thursday and Friday nights. Capt. Raymond L. Arjo, athletic officer of the 1,452d United States Army Air forces unit in Canada, said Tech. Sgt. Joe Louis also will officiate.

Dick Payne, Chicago city Golden Gloves novice flyweight champion, and Don Youngs of the Elgin Boys' league, who was the Chicago sectional Golden Gloves open 112 pound finalist, will meet in a five round bout featuring an amateur show in the Madison Athletic club tomorrow night. Tommy James, former city Golden Gloves welterweight title holder, has been matched with Charley Wells of Gary in a six round semi-windup to an eight round encounter between Jimmy Sherrer, Milwaukee 147 pounder, and Robert Fowler in Marigold Gardens next Monday.

James Haywood, 6806 St. Lawrence av., and Frank Popovitz, 2815 Mildred av., will compete in the city-wide Y. M. C. A. wrestling tournament in the Central Y, 19 S. La Salle st., Saturday altho both are blind.

Formal opening of a new annex to the quarters of the Veterans Boxers' association of Illinois will be held tonight in the organization's rooms in the Garrick building.

Javery and Braves Beat Red Sox, 3-1

Boston, Mass., April 11 (AP)—The combination of Al Javery's five hit pitching and timely slugging today gave the Boston Braves a 3 to 1 triumph over the Red Sox in the opener of their five game city series.

The Braves clubbed Rex Cecil for eight hits, including Tommy Holmes' first inning homer and a double. The Red Sox scored in the third and Phil Masi's single with two braves aboard broke the 1 to 1 tie in the seventh.

Tom Nelson started the Braves' victory surge by beating out a bunt and Eddie Joost set the stage for Masi's game winning wallop by doubling off the left field wall.

N. U. NINE OPENS PLAY TOMORROW AT U. OF CHICAGO

Northwestern university's baseball team will open its season tomorrow when it faces the University of Chicago nine on the Midway. The Maroons are not playing a full conference schedule this year and their games will not figure in the league standings.

On Saturday the Wildcats will play a double header, meeting Chicago in a return game to be followed by a game with Illinois Tech. The two games will be played at Dyche field in Evanston.

Every One to Get Chance.

Coach Wes Frey plans to give every member of his large squad a chance to test his skill in the three games. A game with Concordia college next Tuesday will be the only other competition for the Wildcats before they open their conference schedule against Iowa next week-end.

Johnny Remke, who starred for Evanston High school last spring, will start on the mound for the Purple tomorrow. The little right hander has looked impressive in infra-squad workouts this spring. Other pitchers who will be given a trial before the Iowa series are Harold Schulz of Evanston; Don Glander of West Bend, Wis., and Dick Bokelman, a navy trainee.

The Wildcats are well fortified at the catching position with the veteran Bruno Gargas, a member of the 1942 team, back on the job. He is supported by Burt Hedstrom, a reserve last year.

ILLINI, IOWA TO BATTLE

Champaign, Ill., April 11 (AP)—The University of Illinois baseball team, victors over Chanute field, 8 to 7 yesterday in a 12 inning game, opens its 1945 Western conference campaign here Friday and Saturday with Iowa. The Hawks dropped two games last week-end to Wisconsin.

Coach Wally Roettger's Illini, meeting Iowa on the diamond for the first time since 1943, will open with five sophomore letter men and four freshmen against an Iowa team containing five veterans.

Iowa Pitcher Gene Hoffman and Hurler Howie Judson for Illinois are the likely starters in Friday's game. Saturday's contest will match Art Ecklund, transfer student from Bradley college, Peoria, for Illinois, against Max Smith, junior Hawkeye letter man.

Hawks Obtain 3 Cleveland Hockey Stars

The Chicago Blackhawks of the National Hockey league have completed a player exchange with the Cleveland Barons of the American league, President William J. Tobin of the Hawks announced yesterday. The Cleveland players, including Louis Napoleon Trudel, former Blackhawk, were named, but the identity of the Chicagoans, who must be delivered to Cleveland by Oct. 1, was not disclosed.

In addition to Trudel, the other Clevelanders are George Agar and Tommy Burlington, both centers. Agar is a 160 pound 25 year old, while Burlington, 22, and 170 pounds, scored 30 goals last season, thus becoming the first player in American league history to count that many times in consecutive years. Trudel, 31 year old native of Salem, Mass., set a league record of 45 goals in the last campaign, adding 48 assists for a point total of 93.

Tobin pointed out that all three of the new men are American citizens, and that the deal was made as a precautionary measure against the uncertainty of the Canadian hockey situation in the future.

The Blackhawks have not announced a successor to Paul Thompson, who resigned as manager of the Hawks on April 4 to take up a hockey post in his home town of Vancouver, B. C. Johnny Gottselig, the veteran who did a commendable job in piloting the Hawks thru the finish of the 1944-'45 season, still is the favorite for the post, altho a number of other men have been mentioned.

A. T. E. OLMSTEAD, ANCIENT HISTORY AUTHORITY, DIES

Prof. Albert Ten Eyck Olmstead, 65, of 5758 Blackstone av., professor of oriental history in the University of Chicago and former curator of the University of Illinois oriental museum, died yesterday in Billings hospital of complications resulting from a fall in his home Jan. 30.

Albert Ten Eyck Olmstead

Best known for his histories of Assyria, Palestine, and Syria and for his application of oriental materials to the life of Jesus Christ, Prof. Olmstead had served in his present capacity for 16 years. Previously he had served as associate professor of ancient history in the University of Missouri.

Prof. Olmstead was credited with being the first orientalist to make full use of a chronology thru which the exact date of Christ's crucifixion was set as April 7, A. D. 30.

He is survived by his widow, the former Cleta Ermine Payne, and three daughters, Mrs. David O. Robbins, Rochester, N. Y.; Mrs. Nicholas Hotten III., 5758 Blackstone av., and Lt. (j. g.) Mary Olmstead of Washington, D. C.

RAYMOND TAKES TIP FROM CHIEF, AND A $300 BONUS

Last week, Chief of Police Frank Tiffany of Lake Forest questioned Raymond Moreno, 24, a kitchen employe in the Deerpath inn in Lake Forest who had been representing himself as a singer with Jimmy Dorsey's band. After ascertaining that Moreno was not connected with the band, Chief Tiffany took his finger prints and suggested that Moreno might be happier elsewhere.

Yesterday Chief Tiffany was seeking Moreno, who meanwhile disappeared, in connection with three worthless checks totaling $100 which he passed in the village.

Tiffany also was in receipt of a report on Moreno's finger prints from Washington, D. C., showing that Moreno had been arrested several times in California on worthless check and burglary charges, and that he had been sentenced on both.

A JOAN TESTIFIES SHE BROKE INTO CHAPLIN'S HOME

Los Angeles, Cal., April 11 (AP)—Joan Berry today testified Charlie Chaplin's butler, Edward Chaney, had helped her to break into the white haired comedian's Beverly Hills mansion.

Under cross-examination in the retrial of her suit to have the actor-producer declared father of her 18 month old daughter, Carol Ann, Miss Berry was asked by Charles E. Millikan, Chaplin's attorney:

"Isn't it a fact that you broke into Mr. Chaplin's home several times during the spring and summer of 1942?"

"Yes. I remember once I climbed up a ladder when he was mad at me, and his own butler helped me up. I stayed with him [Chaplin] that night. And on other occasions when I broke in, I stayed with him all night and had breakfast with him in the morning."

Millikan quickly ended the line of questioning.

SLAIN BOYS' DAD STRICKEN WHILE RAISING BRIDGE

John Staken, 36, of 8331 Kerfoot av., tender at the La Salle st. bridge, collapsed after a stroke yesterday in the bridge tower. Chicago av. police took him to Henrotin hospital.

The bridge was only half opened when Staken fell ill, and a 6,000 ton freighter, the Jupiter, carrying salt, was halted until Louis Wendling, of 7615 S. Wabash av., a relief bridge tender could be summoned.

Fellow workers attributed Staken's illness to a recent family tragedy. His brother, Richard Stakenas, 31, shot to death Staken's two sons, Edward, 7, and John, 8, on March 25 in the home, and severely wounded Mrs. Staken, 30, and a daughter, Jean, 10, who were released from St. George's hospital last week. After the shooting, Stakenas committed suicide.

DEATH NOTICES

—In Memoriam—

AUBRY—Anna A. Aubry. Died Thursday, Oct. 12, 1944. It's just six months since God called you, dear, to your just reward after suffering these many years.
Dear one, I know you will never awake
From that long, long sleep we all must take.
Darling, I pray when each day is through
That eternal light will shine upon you.
Nightly your vision appears very near,
To guide me through life, as you did when you were here.
Good-by, sweetheart, may your soul rest in peace.
This is my prayer for you, my beloved deceased.
LOVING HUSBAND.
SONS FRANK AND GEORGE.

BECKER—Frank Becker, beloved husband and father, who passed away two years ago today.
He little thought when leaving us
He would return no more;
That he in death so soon would sleep,
And leave us here to mourn.
We do not know what pain he bore;
We did not see him die.
We only know he passed away,
And could not say good-by.
BELOVED WIFE, MAE, AND CHILDREN.

FANNING—Margaret J. Fanning. In loving memory.
DEVOTED FAMILY.

FONDA—Vera Harrison Fonda, April 12, 1942. In loving memory of our dear mother. Your kind and loving spirit will always be an inspiration."

SALAMAN—Elmer Waldon Salaman, a soldier who passed away a year ago today. Gone but not forgotten by MOTHER.

WOODS—George F. Woods. In loving memory of our dearly beloved son and brother who passed away year ago today.
The blow was hard, the shock severe,
We never thought his death so near;
Only those who have loved and lost can tell,
The pain of parting without farewell.
God saw that you were suffering
And that hills were hard to climb,
So He closed your weary eyes
And whispered, "Peace, my child."
FATHER, MOTHER, SISTERS, AND BROTHERS.

BELDEN BUILDS ON PROFITS FOR VITAL WAR JOB

Taxes Block Growth of New Enterprise

BY THOMAS FURLONG
[Financial Editor]

Typical of many industrial corporations that got their start early this century is the Belden Manufacturing company, Chicago and Richmond, Ind., manufacturer of wire.

Started in 1902 with $50,000 of capital, the company has remained an independent enterprise, financing its growth and product development chiefly from its own earnings. Today $4,073,000 of capital is employed in the business, of which two-thirds was derived from the earnings of the company during the 43 years of its existence.

Not a single new company has entered the field in which Belden operates for several years, officials said. The Belden management does not believe that it and other manufacturers in the field frightened away potential competitors. It is simply that a competitor starting new would have almost no chance of getting established or growing under the existing tax structure.

Supplies Aircraft Industry

A decade or so ago three or four new companies were launched in the field yearly, Belden officials recalled.

In peace time Belden was a supplier of wire to the automobile, radio, electric appliance, and other industries. With the war it became a supplier to aircraft companies, developing new types of wire without which the plane building program could not have been carried out. It also developed a new electric welding cable vital in the vast Victory ship construction program.

By applications of new synthetic materials the company developed insulation for wire to meet new requirements of aircraft. Before the war the company had produced insulations that withstood high temperatures such as those to which the wires on engines are exposed. Wires suited for extremely low temperatures for refrigerators and other uses also were produced.

Never Produced Before

For the Flying Fortress and the B-29 insulated wire that was resistant to both extremely high and extremely low temperatures was required. The company met the demands of the plane builders altho such a product never had been produced before. A high tension ignition wire for use in airplanes also was developed which will have wide use in the electronics field after the war.

Fine magnet wires for use on the small control motors of the larger aircraft have also been perfected by Belden. Many small control motors are required on the B-29 and other large airplanes.

The developments in wire making achieved under war demands will have important peace time applications. An example is a synthetic rubber compound that gives lamp cords longer life and greater safety, and makes possible the use of a variety of colors. After the war polyethylene synthetic rubber will be used to insulate cables used in television and make possible a reduction in power "leakage."

Ready for Peace Challenge

Company engineers assert the industry will be able to meet the most exacting requirements of electrical equipment designers. Many of the drawbacks that natural rubber had as an insulator will be eliminated by the new developments.

These and other achievements have been recorded by a company that in its history has gone thru two critical periods in which its existence hinged on freedom to use its earnings to keep the business going.

When the company was formed its founder believed that the new enterprise could compete successfully for the business of the then undeveloped telephone industry. Not foreseen was the rapid absorption by the American Telephone and Telegraph company system of the many independent companies that then existed.

With a manufacturing affiliate of its own, American Telephone did not buy from outside suppliers. The market on which Belden counted disappeared. After a period of uncertainty the company shifted successfully to the manufacture of other types of wire.

Caught in 1920 Deflation

After surmounting its early difficulties Belden, like hundreds of other companies, experienced a tremendous expansion in business in the first World war. The deflation that followed almost wrecked the company. Caught with an inventory of copper and silk the company lost $850,000 in 1920. Silk which had cost as high as $30 a pound dropped to $6; copper after selling at 30 cents a pound fell to 9 cents.

The loss incurred in one year represented a sizable part of the company's total capital funds. Immediate capital replenishment was imperative. The company went into debt, first borrowing from the banks and later issuing bonds. From a pre-war level of $116,000 its debt reached a post-war peak of $1,225,000. The last of the debt was paid off in 1939.

During the debt retirement period the stockholders went without dividends in several years and got only a small part of the earnings in other years. In the period 1925-'39 there were five years in which operations resulted in deficits that had to be covered from accumulated funds of the business.

Had present tax laws been in effect since 1902 it is almost certain that the company would not have been launched, company officials agreed. If launched it is most unlikely that Belden could have survived early reverses. Under such a tax structure in the 1920s the company would have found it difficult if not impossible to replenish the capital lost in one bad year. Thruout it would have lacked adequate funds to finance the development that made possible its vital contribution as a war supplier and its economically valuable role in peace.

Growth of All Arrested

At its present stage of development Belden is free of debt and removed from some of the hazards of a younger business enterprise. But like thousands of other companies its future growth will be stopped or seriously arrested under existing tax policies, officials said.

Thruout 37 years of its life the company was directed by Joseph C. Belden, its founder, who died in 1939. He was succeeded as president by Whipple Jacobs who has been with the company 30 years. Chairman of the company is Hopewell C. Rogers, an early stockholder who has retained and enlarged his original investment. Joseph C. Belden Jr., son of the founder, also an official, is on military leave.

CITY ICE AND FUEL

I should like financial information on City Ice and Fuel company.—J. E.

This large ice manufacturing company's business includes the icing of refrigerator cars, the sale of ice, coal, and fuel oil for domestic and commercial purposes, the operation of cold storage warehouses, the freezing and storage of quick frozen foods, and the manufacture of beer, ice cream, refrigerators, and other ice using appliances. It operates in 225 cities in 26 states.

City Ice and Fuel's sales last year, amounting to $52,208,970, were largest in its history. They totaled $25,356,161 in 1939 before war stimulation became a factor of importance. Growth of competition from mechanical refrigeration, arrested by war time restrictions, will be resumed after the war, however. It is conceivable that demands for cold storage space will decline, but the outlook for car icing business and various other departments of the company's business appears reasonably favorable.

Common share earnings last year, reflecting reduction in preferred dividend requirements as a result of the redemption of the senior issue last Sept. 1, were largest since 1936. They amounted to $2.06, in comparison with $1.81 in 1943, $1.47 in 1942, $1.80 in 1941, 93 cents in 1940, and $1.60 in 1939.

Common dividends have been paid each year since 1908. The annual rate from 1939 on has been $1.20. Net working capital as of Dec. 31 was $6,007,000. Long term bank loans were increased last year to $10,200,000 from $2,400,000 in connection with the preferred stock retirement.

MOTORS, RAILS LEAD BIG STOCK PRICE ADVANCE

Trade Tops Million Share Mark

New York, April 11 (AP)—The stock market today made its biggest advance in two months. Broad buying developed when rails, motors, and steels extended yesterday's upturn early.

Gains in the pivotal groups ranged to more than 2 points and closing prices were near the highest. Transfers of 1,060,000 shares were the largest since March 27 and compared with 760,000 yesterday.

Analysts attributed the buying revival to a prevailing speculative and investment judgment that the market over the last few months had discounted the end of the war in Europe and reconversion problems.

Westinghouse Gains 2¾

Some moves were based on special developments. Westinghouse Electric pushed up 2¾ after approval by stockholders of a 4 for 1 splitup.

The Associated Press 60 stock composite advanced 0.7 to 61.7, or within a point of the 1945 high.

Up 2 or more were Santa Fe and Chrysler, and gains of a point or more were retained by United States Steel, Bethlehem, Studebaker, Sears Roebuck, Cerro de Pasco, American Smelting, American Can, Air Reduction, Union Carbide, International Telephone, Great Northern, Goodyear, and United States Rubber. Philip Morris bounded 3¾.

RAIL BONDS RISE LATE

New York, April 11 (AP)—A brisk late rally in a group of secondary rails enlivened an otherwise quiet and narrow bond market today. Milwaukee road 5s of 1975 set a new high of 90¼, up a point on sales of $478,000. Other issues of the road ended up ⅛ to a point. Monon 4s, 5s, and 6s rose 2 to 3¼, and Erie 4½s set a new high of 97½.

Higher priced bonds were less active but steady. United States government issues tended higher. Brazilian bonds were up 1 to 3 in a quiet foreign list.

CHICAGO GAINS EXTENDED

Price gains were extended on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday and turnover increased to 41,000 shares. Most active issues included Asbestos Manufacturing and Central and South West Utilities, both unchanged; Belmont Radio, down ½; Chicago corporation, up ¼, and Commonwealth Edison, up 1¼. Four issues set 1945 highs, including Studebaker at 25¼, up 1¼.

KRAFT PROPOSES MORE JOBS THRU DAIRY SURPLUS

The dairy industry, instead of being apprehensive over a post-war milk surplus, should use increased supplies to provide more post-war jobs and better nutrition for the American people, John H. Kraft, president of Kraft Cheese company, told directors yesterday at their annual meeting.

Kraft said the many branches of the dairy industry, which he termed the country's largest single peace time business, could take the lead in providing increased employment after the war.

"The industry will face no great problems of plant conversions and will swing into civilian production immediately with rapid introduction of new, improved products," he explained.

PROGRAM SUBMITTED TO GET 5,000 NONWAR HOMES FOR CHICAGO

A program to obtain priorities for more than 5,000 nonwar worker homes in Chicago was described last night at a meeting in which Mayor Kelly pledged that the Chicago housing authority would consider condemnation proceedings permitted under a new Illinois law only where private building would clear "real slum areas."

Apprehension had been expressed that housing projects would be pressed in sections which were not blighted. The mayor said he was "100 per cent for private building," but had no prejudice against public projects if they did not conflict with with private work.

Addressing the Chicago Metropolitan Home Builders' association in Hotel Sherman, William K. Divers, regional director of the national housing administration, said he had submitted the civilian housing program to the production urgency committee. He said the program for more than 5,000 homes was not sufficient to meet needs, and that he hoped it could be enlarged. Frank B. Gray said the committee would discuss the program today and seek to reach a quick decision.

Arrange First Public Sale of 2 Firms' Stock

Two manufacturing companies in the Chicago area soon will make their first public sale of securities, it was disclosed yesterday. Both have filed registration statements with the securities and exchange commission.

Oak Manufacturing company, Chicago and Crystal Lake producer of radio parts, will offer securities publicly tomorrow or Monday thru a group headed by Paul H. Davis & Co. Wells-Gardner & Co., Chicago producer of radio receivers and parts and supplies, will make a public offering of stock a week or 10 days later thru Davis & Co. and Shillinglaw, Bolger & Co., and associates.

Type of Offerings Grows

These offerings are two more of a series of public financing operations by family owned and closely held companies in the Chicago area in the last few months.

The impact of heavy federal inheritance taxes is reflected in these sales of stock, where, as in the two latest, a substantial portion will be sold by principal stockholders.

The registration statement of Oak Manufacturing covered 1 million dollars of 5 per cent convertible debentures, due April 1, 1955, and 505,000 shares of $1 par value common stock. Davis & Co. and associates plan to offer the debentures at par and 350,000 shares of the stock at $10 a share.

Of the common stock, 300,000 shares will be acquired from present stockholders and 50,000 shares from the company. Of the unissued stock, 80,000 shares are reserved for conversion of debentures and 75,000 for stock purchase warrants.

Present Shareholders Sell

The Wells-Gardner offering will total 160,000 shares and will be made at $8.25 a share. The entire offering is of common stock owned by seven shareholders who will receive $1,120,000 of the proceeds.

An issue of $26,089,000 of Ohio Edison company 2¾ per cent first mortgage bonds due in 1975 was offered by Morgan Stanley & Co. at 101. Proceeds will be used to retire outstanding 3¾s due in 1973.

Welsh, Davis & Co. will offer today 10,000 shares of $10 par class A stock of Freezer Foods, Inc., Chicago, at $10 a share.

A group headed by Halsey, Stuart & Co. will offer today 50 million dollars of New York Power and Light corporation first mortgage 2¾ per cent bonds due in 1975 at 102½. Proceeds and other cash will be used to retire 55 million dollars of first mortgage 3¼s of 1964.

T. W. A. EXPECTS ADDED AIRCRAFT TO HIKE TRAFFIC

A big gain in the volume of air traffic in 1945 as a result of an increased number of planes was predicted yesterday by Jack Frye, president of Transcontinental and Western Air, in his annual report to stockholders.

When planes being reconverted from military use are placed in service, T. W. A. will have a fleet of 44 DC-3 transports and five 4-engine stratoliners in operation, compared with 38 DC-3's at the end of 1944, Frye said. He predicted general adoption by major air lines of 4-engine aircraft after the war.

T. W. A. has stratoliners ready to begin service between Washington and London, Cairo, and Calcutta when and if an application with the civil aeronautics board for a round the world route is approved, he said.

OPA WINS COURT RULE ON CUDAHY PRICE PROTESTS

Washington, D. C., April 11 (AP)—The United States Emergency Court of Appeals, set up to pass on protests over OPA rulings, today ruled against Cudahy Brothers company of Cudahy, Wis., which had contended the OPA discriminated against it by setting a maximum price for hogs in Chicago 10 cents higher per hundred pounds than at Cudahy.

The court held that the 10 cent differential was justified because it had existed historically.

WPB Fixes Bus, Trolley Output Quotas for 1946

Washington, D. C., April 11 (AP)—The WPB has approved the manufacture of 8,833 buses for local and inter-city operation during 1946, the office of defense transportation announced today. This is the same as the 1945 program. The WPB also authorized the 1946 manufacture of 348 trolley coaches, 300 street cars, and 5,000 bus bodies.

Philippine Shipping Rates to Bear 35 Pct. Surcharge

Washington, D. C., April 11 (AP)—Shipping rates for the resumption of commerce between the United States and the Philippines were established today. The war shipping administration ordered a surcharge of 35 per cent in addition to rates in effect Sept. 1, 1940, to cover added war time costs of operation.

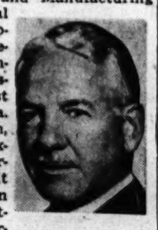
WESTINGHOUSE ADOPTS 4 FOR 1 SPLIT OF STOCK

Western Union Tax, Costs Mount

A four for one split of Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company capital stock was approved by shareholders at the annual meeting yesterday in East Pittsburgh, Pa. A. W. Robertson, chairman, explained the purpose of the split was to broaden the base of Westinghouse ownership by making the stock available at a lower price.



A. W. Robertson

Stockholders also approved a change in the company's name to Westinghouse Electric corporation for "simplicity and brevity."

Par Cut to $12.50

Westinghouse's authorized capital stock is 4 million shares, consisting of 80,000 shares of preferred and 3,920,000 of common of which 79,974 shares of preferred and 3,132,816 of common are outstanding with a par value of $50 each.

Authorized shares of the new stock will total 16 million which, on the basis of the split, will result in 319,896 shares of preferred and 12,531,264 of common, both of which will have a par value of $12.50.

The company said the reclassification of the stock will not change the preferences or relative rights of stockholders and no change will result in terms of either the common or preferred. Neither will there be any change in the capital structure, surplus, or other accounts.

A. N. Williams, president, told stockholders of Western Union Telegraph company, meeting in New York, that he doubted the company would be able to continue its debt reduction rate of the years since 1933 because of increases in wages and taxes.

Reverse Expense Ratio

He said wages currently take about 59 per cent of the company's revenue dollar and wage raises in war time have reversed for the first time the declining trend in the ratio of expenses to revenues. He said the tax bill last year amounted to 11 million dollars, which was about 3½ millions more than net income.

Williams said one possibility in the company's business is the transmission of telegrams by radio beam. He asserted that if an experimental radio telegraph beam between Philadelphia and New York is successful and Western Union point-to-point radio telegraphy becomes feasible it will enable the company to make a drastic change in its methods of operation.

Celanese Corporation of America sales in the first quarter were several million dollars above a year ago, W. McC. Cameron, first vice president, said at the annual meeting in New York. He predicted results from operations this year will be as good if not better than last year.

Predicts Quick Shift

Cameron explained the company has no reconversion problems and as soon as labor and raw materials become available civilian production can be turned to 100 per cent capacity.

Stockholders of General Foods corporation, meeting in New York, were told by Clarence Francis, chairman, that "it seems clear there will be a world food shortage in 1945" and it will be "absolutely impossible for the United States to feed the world." He urged an extension of office of price administration legislation for one year.

Chicago Area Produces Third of Artillery Items, Slices Cost

Contractors in the Chicago ordnance district produce one-third of all the artillery items made by American private industry, Col. John Slezak, chief of the Chicago ordnance district, disclosed yesterday. Artillery production in the district exceeded 17 million dollars in March.

Col. Slezak also said costs of major artillery items have been reduced 25 to 68 per cent in the last two years, largely as a result of increased manufacturing efficiency and tighter control over costs by both industry and the army.

In 1943 the cost of the huge 240 mm. howitzer, whose 360 pound shells have helped break German resistance, was $123,322. By last January the cost of the 81,875 pound weapon had been cut 38 per cent to $76,960.

Long Tom Cost Cut 25%

The Long Tom 155 mm. gun's cost was cut 25 per cent to $37,393 from $49,950 two years ago. The 155 mm. howitzer has been reduced 48 per cent from $29,430 to $15,180. The army's "workhorse," the 105 mm. howitzer, cost $8,404 against $12,060 in 1943. The 68 per cent reduction was made on electrical detectors for the 37 mm. and 40 mm. anti-aircraft guns, from $8,651 to $2,807.

Meanwhile war agency officials said the cutback announced in ammunition production will not mean layoffs in the Chicago area. They asserted thousands of workers were needed to provide vital supplies.

Col. Dan A. Hardt, chairman of the production urgency information committee, said most cutbacks merely cancel recent increases. For instance, construction work on a dozen new tank plants has been stopped, but production in established tank factories will hold unchanged.

East Chicago Cutback Denied

Col. Hardt said much of the equipment used in Germany will be unfit for use in the Pacific and vast new supplies will be needed there.

Oliver E. Mount, vice president, said reports that the American Steel Foundries cast armor plant in East Chicago either will shut down or have its operations curtailed were "misleading and incorrect." He said the company was informed by competent government authorities that no decision had been made involving any curtailment of operations at the plant.

Charles P. Casey, Illinois director of the war man power commission, said requests were on file in the United States employment service office in Chicago for more than 20,000 men and women workers for more than 100 Chicago war plants. He estimated the need for essential war production in Cook and DuPage counties at 60,000 and for all Illinois at 100,000 workers.

Act on Federal Life's Mutual Plans Today

Life policyholders of the Federal Life Insurance company will meet in the company's offices, 168 N. Michigan av., at 10 a. m. today to vote on a "mutualization" plan whereby the company would buy for the account of the policyholders all of the 100,000 outstanding shares of the company's stock from present holders.

The plan provides that the company purchase the stock for 3 million dollars, or $30 a share, paying 25 per cent, or $750,000 in cash immediately on approval of the policyholders. The remainder would be subject to a 2 per cent interest charge, and would be paid off in equal annual instalments over 15 years.

Capital and Surplus 2.4 Million

As of Dec. 31, 1944, the combined capital and surplus of the company was $2,442,511, including a reserve for contingencies of $300,000. L. D. Cavanaugh, president of the company, said this figure, plus $557,489 allowed for established business and good will, formed the basis of the stockholders' selling price.

The company's 100,000 shares of stock are owned by about 100 individuals. Isaac Miller Hamilton, chairman, is the largest holder with about 70 per cent of the total. A Chicago broker recently quoted a bid price of $7 for the stock. Cavanaugh said this price is "meaningless" because the stock is closely held and there is no real market in it.

Plan Lower Income Basis

Cavanaugh also said that the company is setting up, starting this year, a special fund which in 15 years will place all the company's life insurance on 3 per cent income basis. A large part of the $94,472,400 of life insurance in force at the end of 1944 was written on a 3½ per cent income basis.

In originally announcing the plan Hamilton said that it would prevent the company from falling into undesirable hands at his death. Under other conditions his death might cause a forced sale of his stock to meet death taxes, he explained. The plan has been approved by the Illinois insurance department.

PRODUCTION OF TOOLS FOR CIVILIAN OUTPUT AUTHORIZED BY WPB

Washington, D. C., April 11 (AP)—The government, laying the groundwork for resumption of civilian production, today authorized the manufacture of machine tools and other equipment for this purpose.

WPB Chairman Krug said the first major item is an order for about 50 million dollars in machine tools and related equipment for the automotive industry. It was placed last fall without priority rating and was shelved when hopes for an early victory in Europe dissolved. Under the new program the automotive industry will get priority assistance which WPB refused last fall.

Krug said almost all the equipment would require three to seven months for fabrication after it is scheduled by the machine tool builders. WPB is working out a plan to permit inclusion of orders for civilian equipment in machine tool production schedules "in such a way that it will not interfere with production of items needed in the continued prosecution of the war," Krug said.

NEW SOFT COAL PACT TO BOOST PAY $1.07 DAILY

Signed Contingent on Price Hike

Washington, D. C., April 11 (AP)—A new soft coal agreement carrying a basic $1.07 a day pay increase and an extension clause intended to end periodic contract crises was signed today by operators and miners. An operators' spokesman estimated the additional cost at 150 million dollars a year.

Subject to war labor board approval and a rise in coal prices, the contract was ratified by John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers and owners' representatives after weeks of negotiation.

Signing of the contract came as the government, which seized 235 idle mines yesterday, moved to get these back into operation. The shutdowns have interrupted the output of fuel for war production, particularly steel.

Price Increase Demanded

Operators said a coal price increase, which would have to be approved by the office of price administration, would be necessary to meet higher production costs caused by the higher wages. Lewis has agreed to join in the operators' request for a price increase, expected to be about 25 cents a ton.

A general resumption of work was expected tomorrow at mines shut down by wildcat strikes.

In Pennsylvania, where 20,684 remained idle, John Dresmich, international UMW representative at Pittsburgh, said small mines could be expected to resume operation at once but that it would take "a day or two" to get miners back to larger pits "because they have to hold local meetings and vote on it first."

Boosts Vacation Pay

The new contract fixes a wage rate of $10 per day as compared with the present $8.50, but the actual pay increase, spread over a six day week and with less than regular rates for the underground travel time, averages $1.07 a day.

Differentials of 4 and 6 cents for the second and third shifts, respectively, were included. Miners will receive $75 in place of vacation time, an increase of $25 over the old contract.

Lewis abandoned his demand for a 10 cent a ton royalty for a union "rainy day" fund, in exchange for concessions on his principal wage demand.

His demand that foremen be made eligible for union membership—the last stumbling block in the way of agreement—also was dropped in the face of unaltering operators' opposition.

Has No Expiration Date

Hope for an end to the contract termination crises which have disrupted production and led to government seizure four times since the war started was based on the new contract's "open end" provision.

The contract will run for one year from April 1, unless the government wage policy is revised in the meantime, but will not terminate automatically next March 31. The contract can continue indefinitely unless either party asks to negotiate. In that event, the party would serve a 10 day notice of a call for a negotiating conference.

STRONG RALLY IN GRAIN SENDS WHEAT TO PEAK

Rye, Corn Climb 1 to 3 Cents in Heavy Trade

A strong rally on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday sent May wheat to $1.74⅞, up 1¼ cents, to a peak since late 1924 and early 1925 when the price was within fractions of $2.05 a bushel. Other grain prices rose fractions to 3 cents a bushel, quickly recovering from an early sell-off on a department of agriculture estimate late Tuesday that the winter wheat crop may reach a record 863 million bushels.

Mills bought May wheat and brokers said no selling pressure arose in this contract with cash wheat remaining at ceiling prices.

Flour Demand Heavy

The war food administration will enter the market soon for supplies of flour for France and the united nations relief and rehabilitation administration. In addition, the army was making inquiries for 4 million sacks. The government bought 330,000 sacks recently for shipment to Russia, and the British ministry of foods was said to have accepted all offers of Canadian wheat made Tuesday, but the amount was not disclosed.

Trade in rye was heavy with the deferred deliveries at new highs. The close was 1⅜ to 2⅛ cents higher. July leading. Corn was much more active than recently and gained 1¼ to 2 cents. Oats rose ⅝ to 1¼ and barley ½ to 3 cents.

Corn Sale and Use Large

An expected increase in hog production was credited for heavy buying of corn futures headed by commission houses with eastern interests. Disappearance of corn from Iowa farms the first three months of this year was 162 million bushels, the department of agriculture reported, the largest on record except for the 183 million consumed or sold a year ago.

General commission house and professional buying developed in rye, and shorts covered freely on the advance.

WFA LIFTS HOG 'FLOOR' IN MOVE TO RAISE OUTPUT

As part of a program to increase production of pork next year, War Food Administrator Jones announced yesterday in Washington, D. C., an increase of 50 cents to $13 per 100 pounds in the floor price for hogs. The "guarantee" was broadened for the first time to include all good and choice hogs up to 270 pounds.

Jones also asked farmers to increase their fall pig crop 18 per cent from last year. Private sources estimated spring farrowing was up 12 per cent.

Altho the floor has not been a factor in the market for several months because of the severe shortage, it was considered of importance in connection with heavier marketing next winter when there may be pressure on prices. The WFA said neither the support price nor present ceilings would be lowered before September, 1946.

Meanwhile further decreases occurred in hog receipts at the Chicago stock yards, and prices remained at ceilings. The steer average reached a peak for April as receipts of 11,000 cattle were the smallest for Wednesday in three months. Lambs declined 10 to 15 cents.

PROPOSED PORT, TRANSIT ISSUES HELD TAX FREE

Similar to N. Y. Bonds, Tobin Asserts

Bonds which would be issued by the proposed Chicago port and transit authorities would be exempt from federal taxation on the basis of recent federal court decisions, Austin J. Tobin, executive director of the New York port authority, said yesterday at a luncheon of the Municipal Bond Club of Chicago in the Palmer House.

He said the contemplated Chicago authority issues are of the same type as the New York port authority and the Triborough bridge authority bonds. Both have been held immune from federal taxes by the Tax Court of the United States, the Circuit Court of Appeals, and the United States Supreme court.

Held Exempt by Statute

"I cannot see how any lawyer can question the fact that the law is established that bonds of authorities of the nature of the New York port authority and the Triborough bridge authority are exempt from federal taxes by statute," he said.

"I have no doubt that qualified municipal bond lawyers will give opinions that the bonds of your [Chicago] port and terminal authority and your transit authority will be exempt from taxes under the revenue act."

Treasury Recognizes Status

In addition to the court decisions, Chicagoans can rely on government administrative rulings, he said. A "dozen or more rulings" by the treasury and attorney general have recognized the exemption of these bonds, and the internal revenue bureau has not assessed their holders in the 30 years the income tax law has been in effect, he explained.

Tobin said there was little likelihood at present that the Supreme court would reverse itself on this question, or that congress would enact legislation making such bonds taxable. He warned, however, that the treasury would try, as it has in the past, to obtain laws taxing these securities.

5,000 CONTINUE STRIKE IN THREE KELSEY PLANTS

Detroit, Mich., April 11 (AP)—A strike of 5,000 employes in three plants of the Kelsey-Hayes Wheel company continued today. About 1,000 employes of the Plymouth, Mich., gun plant yesterday joined 4,000 workers in two Detroit plants already on strike protesting discharge of several minor officials of CIO United Automobile Workers' local 174. The dismissals followed the forcible ejection of a foreman.
